YANKEES TAKE TITLE AS CUBS SUCCUMB, 13-6

LAZZERI DAY'S HERO WITH 2 HOME RUNS

Five Chicago Hurlers Feel Sting; Circuit Clout by Demaree Futile.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Ills., Oct. 2. The might of the New York Yankees resounded over Wrigley Field this afternoon in a drumfire of nineteen base hits, and when the cannonading against five Cub pitchers had ceased, the Yankees were in possession of the ball game by a score of 13 to 6, the world series in four straight games, and complete acknowledgment as the champions of the baseball universe.

As 51,000 throbbing hearts beat out a dirge of dismay to replace the hope that had pulsated strongly in the early innings, the Yankees' heavy artillery boomed again today in a series of devastating shocks to wipe out the 4-to-1 lead compiled by the Cubs in the first inning and lay waste the last vestige of Chicago's hope for at least one victory in this world series.

The muscle-men of the Yankees today wrote a brilliant chapter into the baseball records, for it was their third consecutive world series triumph in four straight games, duplicating the feat against the Pirates in 1927 and the Cardinals in 1928 with their clean sweep of the engagements with the Cubs. Not since that fateful day in 1926 when Grover Cleveland Alexander beat New York in the seventh game of that playoff, have the Yankees lost a world series game, and they now look back on twelve consecutive triumphs, to shatter their own record of eight.

Lazzeri Makes Good.

That October afternoon of 1926 lived again today, for it was the goat of that contest, Tony Lazzeri, who struck out with the bases full, was the chief of the Yankee heroes today with two booming home runs into the bleachers, both with a man on base, the first of which put the Yankees back into the ball game in the third inning. His homer in the ninth, also with Gehrig on base, merely added to the woe of the Cubs.

And as the New York muscle-men beat out a tatoo of base hits against Guy Bush, Lon Warneke, Jakie May, Bud Tinning and Burleigh Grimes, two veteran pitchers who were far in the background of the world series outlook, held the Cubs at bay after Young Johnny Allen had made a dejected departure under the Cubs' assault in the first inning.

First Wilcey Moore and then Herb Pennock toted their pitching lore to the mound to halt the Chicago attack that had reared so menacingly in the first inning, and so effectively did they toil that the Cubs' offensive subsided almost completely under the stifling influence of only four safe hits during the last eight in-

BRAZIL REBELS SUDDENLY QUIT

Surrender After Heavy Losses in Southern Sao Paulo.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 2 (U.P.).—The Sao Paulo revolt against the federal government was brought to a close tonight when the Paulista rebels surrendered.

Leaders of the rebellion, who have been demanding a constitutional government, surrendered unconditionally after undergoing serious losses in the south during the last few days.

The rebellion, centered in Brazil's most prosperous state, was started over the Paulistas' dislike of the Vargas government and its system of governing the various states.

Col. Herculaneo Carvalho, commander of the state military forces, has assumed command of a military government in Sao Paula, according to an announcement of the war ministry here, describing the surrender.

Earthquake at Managua Stirs Much Excitement

Managua, Nicaragua, Oct. 2 (A.P.). A sharp and intense earth shock jarred Managua at 10 o'clock last night. There was much excitement, but no damage or casualties.

Bite of Copperhead Puts Man in Peril

North Beach Park Visitor Rushed to Hospital Here for Treatment.

Ray F. Gilbert, 46, of 1330 Corcoran street northwest, was in an undetermined condition at Emergency Hospital last night suffering from a snake bite in the right hand incurred yesterday afternoon at North Beach Park, Md.

After Gilbert was bitten by a copperhead, he was given first aid by Dr. John Bailey, of the park, who wrapped a tourniquet around Gilbert's wrist, put him in an automobile and rushed him to the hospital.

Upon arrival he was immediately given an injection of antitoxin which had been rushed from a local laboratory. He was resting comfortably late last night, but physicians at the hospital were undecided as to what the reaction would be, and he is under close observation.

MEXICAN CHIEF CHARGES LIE IN WARNING POPE

President Says Churches Will Be Retired if View Continues.

"DEFIANT ATTITUDE" TERMED INSOLVENT

Rodriguez Declares Methods of Papacy Are Filled With Falsehoods.

Mexico City, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—President Abelardo L. Rodriguez tonight issued a statement declaring that all the Catholic churches in Mexico would be retired from religious use if the Catholic Church's attitude as "shown in the recent papal encyclical" should continue.

The president declared that "methods filled with falsehoods" against Mexico were characteristic of the papacy and termed "insolent" the defiant attitude shown in the recent encyclical issued from Vatican City.

"If the insolent, defiant attitude shown in the recent encyclical continues," the president declared, "I am determined that the churches will be converted into schools and shops for the benefit of the nation's proletarian classes."

New Persecution Charged.

Pope Pius XI met what he called "the new and legal persecution" of the church and Catholics in Mexico last Friday with an encyclical announcing a policy of "formal cooperation" without renouncing principles or withdrawing past denunciation.

The Pope renewed his protest, directed particularly at the varied application of the laws limiting the number of priests in each state to from one for each 33,000 persons to one for each 100,000.

The pontiff said approval or spontaneous real cooperation was forbidden, but decided on formal cooperation. The Mexican government was charged by the pontiff with "acting against the spirit in which the modus vivendi was conducted in 1929."

Attacked in Editorial.

The president's statement followed an editorial attack on the encyclical by El Nacional, party organ of the dominant National Revolutionary party.

The president's statement:

"In an unforseen and absurd manner there has been published the encyclical acerda animi whose tone does not surprise us because methods filled with falsehood against this country are characteristic of the Papacy.

"To protest against the laws that in their conception oppress the liberty of the church openly incites the Mexican clergy to disobedience of existing laws and provokes a social disorder within the eternal work of the clergy, which is unable to resign itself to the loss of its dominion of

Suspect Is Arrested In Bombing of Judge

Worchester, Mass., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—A 32-year-old Negro who told police he had carried the dynamite used to bomb Judge Webster Thayer's home, was arrested tonight on a charge of vagrancy, as police investigated what they termed their most promising clew to the attempt to kill Judge Thayer.

Police refused to disclose what James Pelton, of New York, the man held, had told them, however. Pelton told Boston police Saturday, where he was taken into custody, that he had ridden from New York to Worchester in the automobile which carried the dynamite.

GEN. GLASSFORD DENIES OUSTER POLITICAL STEP

Contradicts Story Move on Burke Was to Gain Commissionership.

BUSINESS MEN PLAN TO ENTER PROTEST

Police Chief's Statement on Reasons for Action Goes to City Heads Today.

That there were political motives behind his proposed ouster of Inspector Frank S. W. Burke was vigorously denied last night by Superintendent of Police Pelham D. Glassford, who was equally emphatic in his statement that he is not seeking a post on the District Commission.

"On my word of honor the removal of Inspector Burke was proposed in the interest of the Police Department," said Gen. Glassford.

"I have never contemplated, discussed, planned or aspired to the office of District Commissioner," he added, with equal emphasis. "I am content in the position of chief of police. I have no plans of entering politics.

Story Is Contradicted.

His denial was in contradiction of a story in yesterday's Post, in which the motive of the ouster of Inspector Burke was reported as a barter on Gen. Glassford's part for support to advance himself to the office of District Commissioner.

Asked to reply to Inspector Burke's contradiction of the chief of police's statements that Inspector Burke failed to cooperate with him, Gen. Glassford said: "I will rest my case on the communication to the District Commissioners in which the causes of my request for Inspector Burke's removal are outlined in detail."

Goes to Commissioners Today.

This statement at Gen. Glassford on which he expects the Commissioners to approve his plan will reach the District Building today. It embodies the complaints which he says influenced his decision to attempt to remove him.

Several groups of taxpayers and business men plan to visit the office of the District Commissioners today to porject the removal of the chief of detectives. Included in the groups are several members of the Washington Board of Trade.

The virtual decision of Inspector Burke to accept the proposal of retiring rather than take a reduction in rank will not, however, influence his

Tokyo, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The volcano Shirane burst into activity today after remaining dormant for 20 years. Two persons living near the cone are missing and believed burned to death in the lava that poured down the mountainside.

The mountain is situated 100 miles northwest of Tokyo.

LYTTON REPORT ATTACKS JAPANESE AGGRESSION IN MANCHURIA; TOKYO RENEWS THREAT TO LEAVE LEAGUE

Nippon Aims To Fight Move.

Prejudice Is Seen In Attitude on Manchukuo.

Tokyo, Monday Oct. 3 (A.P.).—The war office today issued a statement declaring that if the assembly of the League of Nations acts in the spirit of the Lytton report, Japan will have no alternative but to withdraw from the league and oppose its action with the firmest determination.

The war office communique came after army leaders had gathered to consider the Lytton report as it was made public in Geneva yesterday. It was said that the time was premature to regard the report as representing the league's final attitude.

Last night the foreign office announced Japan could not for one moment consider the Lytton commission's recommendation for continuation of Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria.

Prejudice Charged.

Translated into Japanese, the report ran about 180,000 words, filling 412 typewritten pages.

"So far as the commission's suggestions referred to Manchukuo they are utterly worthless," the government spokesman said. "Our policy was irrevocably fixed with our recognition of Manchukuo's independence."

The commission's account of the origins and development of the State of Manchukuo "showed a very strong prejudice," he declared.

Referring to implications in the document that Japan's actions in Manchuria violated the Briand-Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty, he said:

"Mr. Stimson should be pleased that part of it chimes in nicely with his speech at Philadelphia last night. However, such doctrines and treaties are not sufficient to maintain peace in the Orient, an issue which is the paramount consideration in Japan's viewpoint.

"To maintain that peace we believe that nothing short of a Japanese Monroe Doctrine in the Far East will suffice. Extension of our influence in Manchuria is one step toward that goal. By comparison American and

British Assure League Of Cooperation by U.S.

London, Oct. 2 (U.P.).—The London Daily Herald, in an editorial captioned "Guilty," said today:

"The Lytton Commission has given its verdict and in the face of that verdict, it is hard to see how even Sir John Simon can continue to condone the action of Japan. • • • Fortunately the League, in facing this crisis, can count on the full cooperation of the United States in any measures it may decide to take to vindicate the paramount nature of the law."

This map shows Manchukuo, the state that the Lytton commission declares could not have been established without Japanese inspiration and military support. The dotted area in Jehol and inner Mongolia depicts that area next China proper where Japanese authority merges gradually with Chinese. There have been frequent reports that China fears a complete conquest of Jehol.

New Regime In Area Is Asked.

Hoover-Stimson Doctrine Is Upheld.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

A stinging indictment of Japanese lawlessness in Manchuria and a vigorous demand for the prompt establishment there of a political regime consonant with the universally accepted principles of international law, constitute the burden of the Lytton Commission's report to the League of Nations, released simultaneously yesterday in the principal capitals of the world.

The five-power commission of inquiry concludes unequivocally that the defacto independent State of Manchukuo, set up recently under the aegis of the Tokyo militarist clique, could not have been established without Japanese inspiration, intrigue and military support.

While acknowledging a clearly defined special interest of the Japanese in Manchuria, the commission denies that this interest either demanded or justifies the mad Japanese aggression of the last fourteen months.

Essentially Chinese.

The open door must be maintained; Japan must accept her moral responsibilities as a member of the family of nations; the permanent negotiated settlement must be based on the fact that Manchuria is essentially Chinese territory in culture, tradition and social organization.

The 300-page report, which was made public yesterday at the State Department without comment, sustains generally the Hoover-Stimson doctrine enunciated last February. This policy assessed the Japanese invasion of Manchuria as lawless aggression and declined to recognize any acquisition of property or "rights" flowing therefrom.

The report was presented as the unanimous verdict of the five members of the commission, which was appointed by the League of Nations a year ago to examine the Manchurian problem from every angle.

Five-Power Group.

The commission was composed of representatives of the United States, England, France, Germany and Italy. The British member, the Earl of Lytton, was chairman, and Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, the American member.

Japanese incitement is held responsible for much of the civil and military disturbances in Manchuria, which have been offered diplomatically as the principal justification of Japanese invasion.

"It is clear that the independence movement, which had never been heard of in Manchuria before September, 1931, when the present crisis developed, was only made possible by the presence of the Japanese troops," the commission reports in one section of its "conclusions."

ROOSEVELT APPEALS FOR SOCIAL JUSTICE

Says Jobless Insurance Is Coming and Indorses Old-Age Pensions.

Naval Armory, Detroit, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—In a Sabbath day speech to several thousand citizens of Detroit, Franklin D. Roosevelt today called for social justice and said his long-range objective was "not a dole but a job."

He traced the development of social work on a State scale, particularly in his home State of New York, said that many persons had "wisely indorsed" a national system of unemployment insurance and that the Nation had a part in equalizing the immediate burden of caring for the unemployed.

"But that is politics, and I can't talk about it today," he said, while the crowd cheered.

Mr. Roosevelt said the Nation gradually was coming to a system of unemployment insurance and that he favored old-age pensions.

In his discussion of employment insurance, he said:

"But I don't think the Secretary of Interior will be in favor of it. They call such things paternalistic. All right, then, if they are, I'm a father."

The armory in which he spoke was jammed with listeners, and several thousand assembled on the grounds outside to hear his words broadcast to them through the amplifiers.

His Sunday in Detroit, the last stop before he returns to his home at Albany from the almost 9,000-mile campaign swing that has taken him on a circuit of most of the Western States, was a busy one.

It began with a parade from the station to the Statler Hotel, where he attended a luncheon and impromptu reception, took him on another automobile ride through the streets to the naval armory, thence back to the hotel to a series of conferences, and concluded with a dinner given by him to the newspaper correspondents who

$160 AND RUM TAKEN BY HIJACKERS' GANG

Thurmont Farmer Robbed; Link With Kidnaping of U. S. Agents Seen.

A band of hijackers routed a Thurmont, Md., farmer from his bed early yesterday and robbed him of $160 and 130 gallons of liquor. Police and Federal agents believe the marauders are the same ones who assailed a convoy of United States men last week and hijacked the liquor.

Displaying "revenue" badges, four men, riding in a car bearing District tags, awakened Harry Hewitt and forced him to ride with them to a point 3 miles from his home, which is about 10 miles north of Frederick.

One of the hijackers drove a truck owned by Hewitt along with the group. This was later found about a mile from the point where the farmer was forced into the road after being relieved of his money. He was picked up by a passing motorist and taken home. Police were then notified.

Sheriff Charles V. Crum, of Frederick County, was confident the attackers were the same who a month ago hijacked Maurice Baker, a neighbor of Hewitt, of 50 gallons of whisky and $80 in cash.

Washington police and Federal authorities said that the boldness of methods employed by the four who hijacked Hewitt and their meager descriptions indicated a tie-up between the incident last night and the hijacking and kidnaping of the agents in southern Maryland a week ago.

Two men have been arrested so far in the southern Maryland hijacking in which a number of valuable imported liquors were taken at gun point from a group of dry agents. A volley of gunfire was poured at the Federal men, although no one was hit.

Search for the hijacking gang has centered mainly in Washington underworld circles and in nearby Prince Georges County. One of the men arrested is a former Washington policeman, E. A. Mumper, once of the Fourth Precinct, who was dismissed as the result of his arrest on liquor charges near Baltimore about a year ago.

$1,000,000 in Seized Liquor Is Hit by Fire

Boston, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Fire today destroyed a goodly share of $1,000,000 worth of liquor, seized by Government officers, which was stored in the United States appraisers' stores on Atlantic avenue.

All liquor seized by customs and Federal prohibition agents within the last six months, including $250,000 worth taken from the yacht Prudence, was stored in the building. Firemen believed the blaze was caused by spontaneous combustion of a tin of alcohol.

Injured Mother of 8 Left to Die by Driver

Woman Found by Churchgoer, on Nebraska Avenue, Hours After Being Struck; Police Press Search for Hit-Run Autoist.

A Sunday gathering of a mother and her children was climaxed by tragedy late yesterday, when the body of Mrs. Lucille Marshall Fornesa, 43 years old, apparently the victim of a hit-and-run motorist, was found crumpled in the gutter on Nebraska avenue near Wisconsin avenue northwest.

The unconscious woman was discovered by Frank E. Shields, of 3719 Brandywine street northwest, as he walked along Nebraska avenu on his way to attend Sunday evening religious services at a nearby church.

Searching the vacant street in a futile effort to obtain a clue as to what had happened to the woman, Shields went to the home of Edwin K. Rabbitt, 4345 Nebraska avenue, and telephoned police.

Taken to Georgstown Hospital, Mrs. Fornesa was pronounced dead a short time after being admitted. Dr. F. A. Moretti, who pronounced the woman dead, declared she apparently lay unconscious in the street for several hours. She was beyond medical aid, he said, and what efforts he could make to save her life were useless.

Police investigating near the scene, found parts of the woman's clothing scattered along the roadway for nearly 100 feet. Dr. Moretti said she suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Residents of the neighborhood testified that no sounds of an accident had been heard, but police were confident that Mrs. Fornesa had been struck by an automobile. At a late hour last night no clue as to the identity of its driver had been found. A machine found abandoned near Third street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, about two hours after the accident was being investigated by police.

A happy family gathering at the Fornesa home, 1112 Tenth street northwest, preceded the tragic death of the mother of eight children. Earlier in the day she went to the Hillcrest School, a private institution near Nebraska and Wisconsin avenues, to take her two small daughters home for the day.

After a jolly time with other members of the family, it was decided the two children, Virginia, 10 years old and Amelia, 8 years old, should return to the school before nightfall.

Mrs. Fornesa returned with her daughters and, after bidding them good-by until next week-end, started for Wisconsin avenue to take a street car home.

What happened from that time un-

Davison Withdraws in Race For Governor of New York

Quits on Eve of Republican State Convention in Buffalo, Leaving Col. William J. Donovan as Probable Choice of Party.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—F. Trubee Davison announced his withdrawal late today from the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. The action, on the eve of the State convention left Col. William J. Donovan, of Buffalo, the probable choice of the party for first place on its ticket.

Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, accompanied the announcement with the request that "my friends not present my name to the convention."

His withdrawal immediately raised the question as to whether he could be drafted for a place on the ticket as lieutenant governor. He himself had no immediate answer to this question.

State Chairman W. Kingsland May said he expected to have a talk with Davison later tonight in regard to that point.

Davison, in his statement, said he was withdrawing "as responsible party leaders, who represent a large majority of the delegates, have now given definite indication of their support to Col. Donovan."

"I leave the race with the warmest feelings toward Col. Donovan, who is one of my most intimate friends, and for whom I have the highest regard," he said, and promised his support in the campaign.

At a three-hour conference of Macy and more than a dozen prominent Republican leaders in the afternoon,

Castle Asserts Citizenship Of President Indisputable

Acting Secretary of State Checks Facts in Reply to Old Whispers.

(Associated Press.)

A letter from W. R. Castle, jr., Acting Secretary of State, asserting "there never has been any question of Mr. Hoover's status as an American citizen" was made public yesterday by Henry J. Allen, director of publicity of the Republican national committee.

Allen said in an accompanying statement issued through the committee, that "malicious stories regarding President Hoover's citizenship, which were circulated during the 1928 campaign and officially exposed then as false, have been revived in the present campaign."

Castle, Allen said, made "a new and independent inquiry" last month at

Gen. Lejeune's Condition Is Reported Unchanged

Lexington, Va., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The condition of Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, superintendent of Virginia Military Institute, was reported today to be unchanged.

Gen. Lejeune suffered a fractured skull and a broken arm in a fall two weeks ago on the V. M. I. campus. Following an operation by Dr. C. C. Coleman, brain specialist of Richmond, he has shown some improvement, with periods of semiconsciousness.

Canal Zone's Head Quits This Month

Gov. Burgess Asserts He Will Resign After Budget Hearings.

(United Press.)

Gov. Harry Burgess of the Canal Zone said last night he would resign his post immediately after budget hearings this month.

Actual submission of his resignation, he declared, awaits his conversation with Secretary of War Hurley.

The governor's term of duty normally would expire December 1. He does not intend to return to the Canal Zone. Authoritative sources indicated a "strong probability" that Burgess would be succeeded by Lieut. Col. Julian L. Schley, engineer of maintenance at the canal, although no designation has yet been made by the President.

PRESIDENT REVISES HIS IOWA ADDRESS

Robinson's Report on Banking and Industrial Groups' Work to Get Mention.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover worked for a time revising the campaign address to be delivered tomorrow night in Iowa, the State of his birth. White House aids told newspapermen the President probably would not complete the speech until a few hours before he reaches Des Moines.

He also conferred yesterday with Henry M. Robinson, chairman of the executive committee of the twelve banking and industrial committees, who had just returned from Chicago, where he presided over a meeting dedicated to relief of the farm mortgage situation. It was indicated that this effort would receive mention in the President's Des Moines address.

The speech will deal at some length with farm problems, and include discussion of some of the public questions centered upon by Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee, during his Western swing.

The Chief Executive yesterday also consulted with George Akerson, his former secretary, now publicity director for the Republican campaign in the East.

During the morning the President, with Mrs. Hoover, attended the Quaker services in the Graystone Friends Church, a few doors removed from Connecticut avenue at S street.

The Hoover party will leave in mid-afternoon today aboard a train that will reach Des Moines about 4 p. m. tomorrow.

The presidential special will pick up Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa and an official reception party at Davenport, Iowa. Stops will be made also at West Liberty, Iowa City and Newton, and Mr. Hoover probably will make brief platform appearances at all four places.

The Republican national committee has said it expects that when the President and Mrs. Hoover arrive in Des Moines they will receive a greeting from 150,000 persons.

The committee said delegations will be present from Missouri, Nebraska, Minnesota, Illinois and other States of the farm belt, with special trains running into the State capital from West Branch, Iowa, the President's birthplace; Waterloo, Iowa, Mrs. Hoover's birthplace; Fort Dodge, Sioux City and Cedar Rapids.

Plans have been made for a parade of 25,000 persons to escort the President and First Lady to the governor's mansion, from where they will go to Des Moines Coliseum, where Mr. Hoover will speak. It has been arranged that he will appear also before overflow crowds expected in the Shrine Temple and on the plaza of the State capitol.

Body Identified, Murder Charged

Man Found Dead in Texas Was Newspaper Circulation Auditor.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Murder and robbery charges have been filed against William R. Ryals, 22-year-old stenographer, with the identification of a body removed from a shallow grave beneath an island camp house as that of A. G. MacGuerty, 33, Boston and Chicago newspaper circulation auditor.

Ryals will be returned tomorrow to Fort Worth, where MacGuerty disappeared a week ago, to face the charges. Police said he had confessed he shot MacGuerty in an argument near that city Sunday night and drove to Galveston Island to bury the body under the deserted cabin. Brought here from Fort Worth, he led officers to the grave.

He was arrested when he sought to claim the auditor's effects at a rooming house. Police said he was driving MacGuerty's car. A. X. Morton, of the audit bureau of circulation, by which MacGuerty also was employed, definitely identified the body. It was held here pending instructions from the victim's mother, Mrs. Catherine MacGuerty, of Winchester, Mass.

TOKYO THREATENS TO LEAVE LEAGUE

other commercial interests in Manchuria are a lesser consideration.

"However, Japan has maintained the policy of the open door in her own territory, and there is no reason to expect that the open door policy will not be maintained wherever Japanese influence extends."

The higher government officials delegated the foreign office spokesman to express the views of the government. Members of the cabinet declined to comment in accordance with a cabinet decision.

Official Tokyo found few surprises in the Lytton report. The leaks which provided a basis for rumors concerning its contents over the past several weeks proved, in the main, to be substantially accurate.

Called Unfair to Japan.

The spokesman summarized the general feeling when he said:

"The report contains much which is unfair to Japan, but nothing which is unfair to China. Although there is much which is unpleasant for the Chinese to read, there is nothing that they do not deserve."

The foreign office soon will draft Japan's official comments on the Lytton document, consideration of which the league has deferred for six weeks, until November 14.

These comments, said the spokesman, virtually will ignore the commission's proposals, for Tokyo contends that the commissioners exceeded their instructions.

Reaction to Report.

"There is no reason for Japan to acknowledge these proposals unless the league attempts to act upon them," he said.

The official comment, he indicated, will attempt chiefly to refute the fourth chapter of the report, concerning justification for Japanese military operations in Manchuria, and the sixth chapter, reviewing the origins and development of Manchukuo.

Six chapters, the first, second, third, fifth, seventh and eighth, contain little which Japan found objectionable, the spokesman said.

"These chapters," he explained, "are valuable contributions by the league to the education of the world and public opinion concerning the situation in the Far East."

The government, however, rejected wholesale the ninth and tenth chapters and disagreed vigorously with the fourth and sixth.

Full Text of Gov. Roosevelt's Address at Detroit Asking Greater Efforts in Cause of Social Justice

Detroit, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The text of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's address here today follows:

I want to talk to you about government. I am not going to refer to parties at all. I am going to refer to some of the fundamentals that antedate parties, and antedate republics and empires, fundamentals that are as old as mankind itself. They are fundamentals that have been expressed in philosophies, for I don't know how many thousands of years in every part of the world. And today in our boasted modern civilization we are facing just exactly the same problem, just exactly the same conflict between two schools of philosophy that they faced in the earliest days of America, and indeed of the world. One of them—one of these old philosophies—is the philosophy of those who would "let things alone," and the other—the philosophy that strives for something new—something that the human race has never attained yet, but something which I believe the human race can attain, and will attain—social justice, through social action.

The philosophy of "letting things alone" has resulted, in the days of the cave man and in the days of the automobile in the jungle law of the survival of the so-called fittest. But this philosophy of social action results in the protection of humanity and the fitting of as many human beings as possible into the scheme of surviving. And in that first philosophy of "letting things alone," I am sorry to say that there are a lot of people in my community back home—which is a little village—and in the farming districts of the Nation and in the great cities of the country, such as yours—we can fit in a great many splendid people—splendid people who keep saying not only to themselves and their friends, but to the community as a whole, "why shouldn't we 'let things alone?' In the first place they are not as bad as they are painted, and in the second place, they will cure themselves. Time is a great healer." An easy philosophy! The kind of philosophy, my friends, that was expressed the other day by a Cabinet officer of the United States of America, when he is reported to have said, "Our children are apt to profit rather than suffer from what is going on."

Public Health Service Dissents From Official.

While he was saying that, another branch of your Government and mine, the United States Public Health Service, which believes in my kind of philosophy, I think—telling the truth—said this: "Over 6,000,000 of our public school children haven't enough to eat. Many of them are fainting at their desks. They are a prey to disease. Their future health is menaced."

What school do you believe in?

And in the same way, there are two theories of prosperity and of well-being, first, the theory that if we make the rich richer, somehow they will let a part of their prosperity trickle through to the rest of us, and the second theory—and I suppose this goes back to the days of Noah, I won't say Adam and Eve, because they had a less complicated situation, but at least to the days of the flood—there was that second theory that if we make the average of mankind comfortable and secure, their prosperity will rise upward just as yeast rises up.

Now, my friends, the philosophy of social justice that I am going to talk about this Sabbath day, the philosophy of social justice through social action, calls definitely, plainly for the reduction of poverty, and what do we mean when we talk about the reduction of poverty? We mean the reduction of the causes of poverty. When we have an epidemic of disease in this land, in these modern days, what do we do? We turn to find out in the first instance the sources from which the disease has come, and when we have found those sources, those causes, we turn the energy of our attack upon them.

Community Efforts In Field of Health.

We have got beyond the Point in modern civilization of merely trying to fight an epidemic of disease by taking care of the victims after they are stricken. We do that, but we do more. We seek to prevent it, and the attack on poverty is not very unlike the attack on disease. We are seeking the causes and when we have found them, we turn our attack upon them. What are the causes? What are the causes that destroy human beings, driving millions of them to destruction? Well, there are a good many of them, and there are a good many of us who are alive today who have seen tremendous steps taken toward the eradication of those causes.

For instance, ill health. You and I know what has been accomplished by community effort, State effort, the effort and the association of individual men and women toward the betterment of the health of humanity.

We have spent vast sums upon research. We have established a wholly new science, the science of public health, and we are carrying what we call today "instruction in health" into the most remote corners of our cities and our country districts. Well, the result is what? It is two-fold: First, an economic saving. It has been money which has been returned to the community a thousand times over because you and I know that a sick person—a man, woman or child who has to be taken care of—not only takes the individual who is sick out of active participation and useful citizenship, but takes somebody else too, and so, from the purely dollars and cents point of view that we Americans are so fond of thinking about, public health has paid for itself.

Steps Taken to Prevent Causes of Poverty.

And what have we done along other lines for the prevention of some of the causes of poverty?

I go back twenty-two years to a day when in my State of New York we had tried to pass in the legislature what we called a workmen's compensation act, knowing as we did that there were thousands of men and women who every year were seriously injured in industrial accidents of one kind or another, who became a burden on their community, who were unable to work, unable to get adequate medical care—and a lot of us youngsters in the legislature in those days were called radicals. We were called Socialists—they didn't know the word Bolshevik in those days, but if they had known that, we would have been called that, too.

And we put through a workmen's compensation act, and the courts, as some courts did and as some courts do, thinking in terms of the seventeenth century, declared it to be unconstitutional, so we had to go about amending the Constitution, and the following year we got a workmen's compensation act.

What has it done? We were not the first State to have it. One of the earliest States, by the way, was New Jersey, which, the year before the action in the State of New York, passed a workmen's compensation act at the bidding of that great humanitarian governor, Woodrow Wilson.

But the result has been that almost every State of the Union has eliminated that cause of poverty among the masses of the people.

Crippled Children Restored to Usefulness.

And take another form of poverty in the old days. Not so long ago, you and I know, there were families in attics—in every part of the Nation, in country districts and in city districts—there were thousands and hundreds of thousands of crippled children. Crippled children who could get no adequate care. Crippled children who were lost to the community and who were a burden on the community, and so we have in this past 20 or 30 years gradually provided means for restoring crippled children to useful citizenship, and it has all been a factor in going after and solving one of the causes of poverty and disease.

And then, in these later years, we have been wondering about old people, and we have come to the conclusion in this modern civilization that the theory and the idea of carting old people off to the county poorhouse is not perhaps the best thing after all.

I will tell you what sold me on old age insurance—old age pension. Not so long ago—about ten years—I received a great shock. I had been away from my home town of Hyde Park during the winter time, and when I came back I found that a tragedy had occurred. One of my farm neighbors had been a splendid old fellow—supervisor of his town, highway commissioner of his town, one of the best of our citizens. And before I left around Christmas time I had seen the old man, who was 89, and I had seen his old brother, who was 87, and I had seen his other brother, who was 85, and I had seen his kid sister, who was 83.

Modern Science Aids In Problem of Deficient.

And they were living on a farm. I knew it was mortgaged, I knew it was mortgaged to the hilt, but I assumed that everything was all right, for they still had a couple of cows and a few chickens, but when I came back in the spring, I found that in the heavy winter that followed there had been a heavy fall of snow and one of the old brothers had fallen down on his way out to the barn to milk the cow, and had perished in the snowdrift, and the town authorities had come along and they had taken the two old men and they had put them into the county poorhouse, and they had taken the old lady and had sent her down, for want of a better place, to the insane asylum, although she was not insane, she was just old.

That sold me on the idea of trying to keep homes intact for old people.

And then, in another respect, modern science has been sold to us. It is not so very long ago that a young person or an old person who had anything the trouble with their mentality, they were put into what was called an asylum, and not long before that they used to call it a "madhouse." Even when I was a boy the States of the Nation used to provide asylums, and when anybody who wasn't entirely complete mentally, anyone who was a mental defective, as we call them today, in any shape, manner or form, used to be carted off to the asylum and they would always stay there until they came out to go to the graveyards.

Today that is not true and medical science today is doing two things—first, with young people, the young people who are not mentally deficient, but who require special mental training, and when schools allow them to remain in most cases in the bosom of their own families, we are applying special treatment and special education to them, so that, instead of becoming a burden when they grow up, they are going to be useful citizens.

23 Per Cent of Patients Are Returned as Cured.

And, then, on the other side of it, there are the older people, the people who do have to go to hospitals for mental troubles—and the other day, just before I left Albany, I got a report from my State department that showed that instead of the old-fashioned system by which the rule was observed of "once in, always in," this past year in the State of New York we had sent back to their families 23 per cent of all those in our hospitals for mental cases, sent them back, cured, to their families.

Now, those are the causes, the causes that have destroyed in past ages thousands, countless thousands of our fellow human beings. They are the causes that we must attack if we are to make the future safer for huamnity. We can go on taking care of the handicapped and the crippled and the sick and the feebleminded and the unemployed, but common sense, like humanity, calls on us to turn our back definitely on these destroyers. Poverty resulting from these destroyers is largely preventable, but, my friends, poverty, if it is to be prevented, requires a broad program of social justice.

We can not go back, we can not go back to the old prisons, the old system of mere punishment under which when a man came out of prison he was not fitted to live in our community alongside of us. We can not go back to the old system of asylums. We can not go back to the old lack of hospitals, the lack of public health. We can not go back to the sweatshops of America, we can not go back to children working in factories—those days are gone.

And there are a lot of new steps to take. It is not a question of just not going back. It is a question also of not standing still.

Employment Problem Can Be Solved by Race.

For instance, the problem in the long run, and I am not talking about the emergency of this year, but the problem of unemployment in the long run can be and shall be solved by the human race. Some leaders have wisely declared for a system of unemployment insurance throughout this broad land of ours, and we are going to come to it.

But I do not believe the Secretary of the Interior would be for it. He would say that great good is coming to this country because of the present situation. Yes, the followers of the philosophy of let alone—the people have been decrying all of these measures of social welfare. What do they call them? They call them "paternalistic." All right, if they are paternalistic, I am a father.

They maintain that these laws interfere with individualism, forgetful of the fact that the causes of poverty in the main are beyond the control of any one individual, any czar, either a czar of politics or a czar of industry. And the followers of the philosophy of social action for the prevention of poverty maintain that if we set up a system of justice we shall have small need for the exercise of mere philanthropy. Justice, after all, is the goal we seek, believing that when justice has been done, individualism will have a greater security to devote the best that individualism itself can give. In other words, my friends, our long range objective is not a dole, but a job.

At the same time we have in this Nation, and I know you have in Detroit, because Frank Murphy has talked to me of it many times in the past year or two.

First Responsibility Is Poverty Prevention.

All of us in the city and country alike have got to do everything we can to tide over. All agree that the first responsibility for the prevention of poverty and the alleviation of distress and the care of its victims rests upon the locality, the individuals, the organizations and the government. First of all, perhaps, upon the private agencies of philanthropy, just as far as we can drag it out of them, and secondly, the other social organizations, and last, but not least, the church. And yet all agree that to leave to the locality the entire burden would result in placing the heaviest proportion of the burden in most cases upon those who are the least able to bear it. In other words, the communities that have the most difficult problem like Detroit, would be the communities that would have to bear the heaviest of the burdens.

And so the State steps in to equalize the burdens by providing for a large portion of the care of the victims of the poverty and by providing assistance and guidance for local communities and above and beyond that the National Government has a responsibility.

I would like to enlarge on that a lot, but that would be politics and I can not. My friends, the ideal of social justice of which I have spoken—an ideal that years ago might have been thought overly advanced is now accepted by the moral leadership of all of the great religious groups of the country. Radical? Yes, and I will show you how radical it is. I am going to cite three examples of what the churches say, the radical churches of American—Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish.

And first I will read to you from the Sunday sermon, the labor sermon sent out this year by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, representing a very large proportion of the Protestants in our country.

Council of Churches On Wealth Distribution.

Hear how radical they are: They say:

"The thing that matters in any industrial system is what it does actually to human beings * * *

"It is not denied that many persons of wealth are rendering great service to society. It is only suggested that the wealthy are overpaid in sharp contrast with the underpaid masses of the people. The concentration of wealth carries with it a dangerous concentration of power. It leads to conflict and violence. To suppress the symptoms of this inherent conflict while leaving the fundamental causes of it untouched is neither sound statesmanship nor Christian good will.

"It is becoming more and more clear that the principles of our religion and the findings of social sciences point in the same direction. Economists now call attention to the fact that the present distribution of wealth and income which is so unbrotherly in the light of Christian ethics, is also unscientific in that it does not furnish purchasing power to the masses to balance consumption and production in our machine age."

And now I am going to read you another great declaration and I wonder how many people will call it radical. It is just as radical as I am,—a declaration from one of the greatest forces of conservation in the world, the Catholic Church, and it is a quotation, my friends, from the scholarly encyclical letter issued last year by the Pope, one of the greatest documents of modern times, and the latter says this:

"It is patent in our days that not alone is wealth accumulated, but immense power and despotic economic domination are concentrated in the hands of a few, and that those few are frequently not the owners, but the trustees and directors of invested funds which they administer at their good pleasure. * * *

Power Concentration Brings Triple Struggle.

"This accumulation of power, the characteristic note of the modern economic order, is a natural result of limitless free competition, which permits the survival of those only who are the strongest, which often means those who fight most relentlessly, who pay least heed to the dictates of conscience.

"This concentration of power has led to a three-fold struggle for domination: First, there is the struggle for dictatorship in the economic sphere itself; then the fierce battle to acquire control of the Government, so that its resources and authority may be abused in the economic struggle, and, finally the clash between the governments themselves."

And, finally, I would read you from another great statement, a statement from Rabbi Edward L. Israel, chairman of the social justice commission of the central conference of American rabbis, and here is what he says. He said:

"We talk of the stabilization of business. What we need is the stabilization of human justice and happiness and the permanent employment of economic policies which will enable us to preserve the essential human values of life amid all the changing aspects of the economic order. We must have a revamping of the entire method of approach to these problems of the economic order. We need a new type of social conscience that will give us courage to act. * * *

"We so easily forget. Once the cry of so-called prosperity is heard in the land, we all become so stampeded by the spirit of the god Mammon that we can not serve the dictates of social conscience. * * * We are here to serve notice that the economic order is the invention of man, and that it can not dominate certain eternal principles of justice, and of God."

More Interest Needed On Part of Individual.

"And so, my friends, I feel a little as if I had been preaching a sermon. I feel a little as if I had been talking too much of some of the fundamentals, and yet those fundamentals enter into your life and my life every day. More, perhaps, than we can realize. If we realized that far more, it would result throughout this country in a greater activity, a greater interest on the part of the individual men and women who make up our Nation, in some of the problems which can not be solved in the long run without the help of everybody.

"We need leadership, of course. We need leadership of people who are honest in their thinking and honest in their doing. We need leadership if it is straight thinking—that is, unselfish—but in the last analysis we have got to have the help of the men and women all the way from the top to the bottom, especially of the men and women who believe in the school of philosophy which is not content to leave things as they are.

And so, in these days of difficulty, we Americans everywhere must and shall choose the path of social justice—the only path that will lead us to a permanent bettering of our civilization, the path that our children must tread and their children must tread, the path of faith, the path of hope and the path of love toward our fellow man.

Arthur McCorkle Dies; Tennessee Prison Head

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Arthur A. McCorkle, 71, for the last ten years warden at the Tennessee penitentiary and for many years an engineer in railroad construction, died at his home here today after an extended illness.

He was chief engineer in the construction of the famous incline up Lookout mountain at Chattanooga, but members of his family said his greatest pride was the railroad bridge which he assisted in building across Lake Pontchartrain into New Orleans.

Workman on Fishing Boat Killed by Blast

Monterey, Calif., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Gasoline fumes exploded within the hull of the 40-foot fishing boat Success Second today, killing Manuel Costa, 45, one of the crew of workmen engaged in repairing the engine.

Costa was blown through the deck. Gaetano Dimaggio, 50, was burned so seriously physicians said he would die. An unidentified Japanese, believed to have leaped overboard, was missing. Investigators attributed the blast to a spark from the motor.

Mrs. Roosevelt Ridicules Social Life in Washington

Wife of an Assistant Secretary Is Lowest, She Says, Smiling, Adding, "I Ought to Know, I Was One for Eight Years."

Detroit, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Back in the days before the war, in the opinion of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, "the wife of an assistant secretary was the lowest form of animal life in Washington."

"I ought to know," she said today with a smile, "because I was one for eight years."

The discussion came up when some one asked her how she would feel about going back to Washington to live, should her husband be elected President next month.

"I like Washington very much, of course," she added, "even after living there as the wife of an Assistant Secretary of the Navy for eight years.

"Things have changed a good deal since the war. In 1917 we all dropped social formalities and went into war work, and I don't think it has ever been so bad since."

Some one asked Mrs. Roosevelt today what she would do should Gov. Roosevelt be elected President, about her classes in the New York private school of which she is part owner. Ever since her husband became Governor of New York, Mrs. Roosevelt has continued to teach her classes in history and civics three days each week. The school reopens after the summer vacation Tuesday. Mrs. Roosevelt will be present.

"It is rather premature, I'm afraid, to discuss what I might do should we go to Washington," she replied. "But I am certain of this—that, no matter what happens, I shall always keep my interest in the school."

On hand to greet the wife of the Democratic candidate for President in Detroit today was her brother, G. Hall Roosevelt, city comptroller of Detroit.

This afternoon she attended a tea given in her honor by a group of Democratic women at the home of Mrs. William M. Donnelly.

COOLIDGE SPEAKING TOUR IS G. O. P. AIM

Will Be Urged to Stump in Midwest; Would Back High Tariffs.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Chicago, Oct. 2 (U.P.).—The senatorial high council of the Republican party decided tonight that a series of addresses by Calvin Coolidge in the Midwest is imperative if the G. O. P. is to make sure of the tall-corn country vote next month.

So necessary did the conferees consider such a program that they empowered Senator L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, head of the senatorial campaign committee, to send a telegram to Coolidge, urging him to respond.

The former President will be asked tentatively to speak at Chicago, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, St. Louis and in the Southwest, either at Topeka or Tulsa.

Would Uphold Tariffs.

It was learned that if Coolidge follows the program laid out, he will stress in his addresses the Republican theory that high tariffs must be continued if the country is to emerge from the depression.

Attending the meeting and private dinner at the Palmer House, headquarters of the Republican national committee, were Wirt Franklin, of Oklahoma; John Chapple, of Wisconsin; Henry W. Kiel, former mayor of St. Louis; Attorney General Bettman, of Ohio; former Gov. Ben Paulen, of Kansas; Senator Thomas Watson, of Indiana; Senator Otis Glenn, of Illinois; S. X. Way, North Dakota publisher; Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah; Dickinson and several others.

Although the meeting was called to further senatorial campaigns, it resolved into a frank discussion of the chances of President Hoover against his Democratic opponent, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The senatorial candidates reported a "distinct improvement" of their prospects for victory following Roosevelt's Western tour, announced Senator Henry D. Hatfield, West Virginia, the committee chairman, who added that the Democratic candidate's Sioux City tariff speech "was the greatest Hoover speech in the campaign."

Hoover Sensation Predicted.

His formal statement following the meeting added that a survey showed that "Republican chances have improved 50 per cent in the last two weeks."

That President Hoover's speech in Des Moines, Iowa, Tuesday, will be "startling," was predicted. One report said the President would discuss a moratorium on farm loans. The committeemen agreed that the Des Moines address in any event would make the President's speech of acceptance seem "very tame, indeed."

The speeches concerning the election took up most of the day. All were reasonably optimistic over Republican chances. The general tenor was that the voters are not against Mr. Hoover, but that they are tired of the depression.

The campaign tour of Coolidge thus would bring his immense personal popularity into play, and, in the opinion of the councilmen, would give further impetus to whatever Hoover sentiment is aroused by the Des Moines address.

accompanied him on his tour of the West.

His departure from Detroit late tonight will put him on the last lap of his trip home. This will take him through Canada to come back into the United States early tomorrow morning and place him in Albany at 9 a. m., to attend the New York State Democratic convention.

The candidate spoke from behind a flag-draped speaking stand, and behind him stood a sign, "Welcome, Gov. Roosevelt." Immediately in front of him at the far end of the hall hung a picture of the Democratic presidential nominee, proposing "Roosevelt for President."

Several of the speakers who preceded him referred to him as the next President of the United States, and before he began speaking young women passed about among the crowd selling buttons they said were to "help the Democratic cause."

A philosophy of letting things alone, the governor said, had resulted in a jungle law of the survival of the so-called fittest.

This was an easy philosophy, he said, and one which results in "such things as a Cabinet officer saying the other day that our children are likely to profit instead of suffer from what is going on."

At the same time, he said, a United States Public Health officer said over 6,000,000 children were facing starvation.

Japanese Military Seeks More Funds

Extra $48,000,000 Each Is Asked in New Army and Navy Budgets.

Tokyo, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The army and navy have submitted preliminary estimates for their 1933 and 1934 budgets, setting forth demands for extra appropriations of $48,000,000 each.

These fresh appropriations were asked in addition to the ordinary general expenditure, but are subject to pruning by the finance ministry and the cabinet.

The navy's total estimate was placed at more than $130,000,000, including $66,480,000 in new items. Nearly $14,000,000 was assigned for exapnding and maintaining naval aviation and $19,000,000 to maintenance of new vessels; about $8,640,000 was asked for warship construction.

The army asked $24,000,000 for new arms and munitions; $36,000,000 for operations in Manchuria, and $45,000,000 for ordinary general expenditures.

Colored Republicans Meet.

Cornelius Richardson, of Indiana, was the speaker yesterday at the National Republican Political Study Club, which met at the Whitelaw Hotel, Thirteenth and T streets northwest. At the same gathering place, Miss Rita Collyer, of New York City, addressed Negro Republicans of the Hoover-Curtis League in the evening.

$250,000 in Fixtures Liquor Raids Booty

35 Places Hit in Surprise Move by Agents in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Federal officials announced upon completion of a check today that equipment seized or destroyed in a widespread series of liquor raids here last week was valued at approximately $250,000.

Thirty-five of the brightest and biggest night clubs, chicken dinner places and drink resorts in the city were closed during the surprise drive of 99 Federal dry agents, most of whom were imported from other districts.

Bars which either felt the ax of the Federal men or were hauled away and placed in storage were valued at from $800 to $1,500 each. W. L. Vandeventer, United States district attorney, has announced he will seek to padlock the resorts. The Star today said that liquor sellers seeking to reopen following the raids were meeting with difficulty in obtaining bars.

NANKING IS SILENT ON LYTTON REPORT

Chinese, However, See Recommendations as Settlement Means.

Nanking, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—No Chinese government official qualified to comment authoritatively was available tonight when the Lytton report was published here.

Chang Kai-Shek was at Kuling. Wang Ching-Wei, still a powerful figure although he has resigned as chairman of the executive Yuan, was at Motsanshan. T. V. Soong, the finance minister, denied himself to interviewers and Lo Wen-Kan, the foreign minister, refused to receive correspondents.

The general opinion in Nanking, however, was that the report more or less coincides with expectations and should provide a basis for settlement of the dispute with Japan if both governments follow its recommendations.

It was believed that the Chinese national government may not entirely approve the recommendations, but that the authorities will be willing to accept the greater part of the report as a basis for a solution.

Japanese Reaction Waited.

There is a feeling here that if the Japanese reaction is strongly against the report and if the Japanese government refuses to negotiate with the report as a basis, then its practical value will be greatly diminished.

The feeling persists here that the Japanese attitude will be critical, and there is a belief that effective solution of the Manchurian question ultimately will rest with the League of Nations. There is widespread speculation as to whether the league will take steps to enforce the recommendations of the Lytton commission.

It was understood that the foreign office had sent copies of the report by airplane to Chang Kai-Shek and Wang Ching-Wei. When their comments are received, the central political council, highest executive body of the government, probably will convene to consider the report. Officials said tonight that until the council reaches its decision official comment on the document will be withheld.

Chinese political leaders probably will find it difficult to comment for publication. Although it is believed that they consider the report generally favorable to China, it is likely that the government will be unable to say so, for public reaction probably would be hostile, especially in view of the recommendations that Manchuria assume a status similar to that of an autonomous state. This the Chinese public is unlikely to approve.

On the other hand, the government can not say the conclusions of the report are unacceptable, for they are generally believed to be the best available solution to the dispute.

It appears therefore that the government will accept the report, possibly with a few minor modifications and reservations.

All tomorrow's newspapers will carry a summary of the Lytton report. The Eastern Times condensed the summary into an extra tonight, playing its highlights under the streamer headlines, but offering no editorial comment.

Favored in Peiping.

Peiping, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Manchurian officials here agreed today that the Lytton report, copies of which they received from Nanking, offers a promising basis for permanent settlement of the Manchurian problem, provided the Japanese accept it.

Tonight a large staff was still engaged translating the document, which probably will run to 300,000 Chinese characters. After that its conclusions will be studied carefully and views will be exchanged between Chang Tao-Liang and the central government.

There appeared to be a general feeling among Chinese here that the report is satisfactory from the Chinese standpoint and that its recommendations, particularly as regards the preservation of Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria and the maintenance of peace in the Far East, are both sensible and fair.

The suggestion that Japanese railway guards be withdrawn following upon the organization of a foreign-trained gendarmerie was especially welcomed.

Condensed Text on Lytton Report To League on Far East Situation

Geneva, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The Lytton commission report, published today by the League of Nations secretariat, inferentially condemns Japan's military occupation of Manchuria and its organization of the State of Manchukuo, and proposes convening an advisory Sino-Japanese conference to agree upon a special administrative regime for Manchuria.

This report is based upon the findings of a commission created by the league which spent the entire spring and summer in the Far East investigating relations between Japan and China. Its members were Lord Lytton, of Great Britain; Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, of the United States Army; Count Aldovrandi, of Italy; Gen. Claudel, of France, and Heinrich Schnee, of Germany.

It will be presented for formal consideration by the league council on November 14. This delay was at the request of Japan, which will send a special delegate to present the Japanese case.

The principle of the open door should be maintained not only from the legal standpoint, but in the actual practices of banking, trade and industry, the report declares.

Negotiation of Solution Put Up to League Council.

Without recommending any form of international action against Japan, the document lays upon the league council responsibility for carrying out its proposed solution in conformity with the provisions of the league covenant, the Briand-Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty.

The commision does not hold China blameless for the situation in the East, but sharply indicts China's governmental weakness and administrative disorders. Moreover, the report insists upon the necessity for China to satisfy Japanese economic interests in Japan and in Manchuria.

"The final requisite for a satisfactory solution," says the report, "is temporary international cooperation in the internal reconstruction of China."

Emphasizing the fundamental interests and responsibility of foreign powers other than Japan, the document states:

"Any real, lasting solution by agreement must be compatible with the stipulations of existing multilateral treaties on which is based the peace organization of the world.

"The considerations which actuated representatives of the powers at the Washington conference are still valid. It is quite as much in the interests of the powers now as it was in 1922 to assist in the reconstruction of China and the maintenance of her sovereignty, her territorial and administrative integrity, as indispensable to the maintenance of peace.

"Any disintegration of China might lead, perhaps rapidly, to serious international rivalries which would become all the more bitter if they should happen to coincide with rivalries between diverse social systems."

This could be interpreted as a reference to the possibility of a conflict involving Soviet Russia.

"Finally," said the report, "the interests of peace are the same the world over. Any loss of confidence in the application of the principles of the league covenant and the pact of Paris in any part of the world diminishes the value and efficacy of those principles everywhere."

Two suggestions for settlement the report condemns as unsatisfactory.

They are restoration of the status quo ante which the Chinese have been demanding, and the maintenance of the present Manchurian regime.

"The first," says the report, "would be no solution.

"Since the present conflict arose out of conditions prevailing before September, 1931, to restore those conditions would be merely to invite a repetition of the trouble.

"Maintenance and recognition of the present regime in Manchuria would be equally unsatisfactory. Such a solution does not appear to be compatible with fundamental principles existing in international obligations nor with good understanding between the two countries upon which peace in the Far East depends.

"It is opposed to the interests of China, it disregards the wishes of the people of Manchuria, and it is at least questionable whether it would ultimately serve the permanent interests of Japan."

Establishment of Special Autonomous Regime Urged.

Establishment of a special autonomous regime for the three eastern provinces of China under the sovereignty of the central Chinese government is possible, the report declares, "if China and Japan could recognize the identity of their chief interests, and if they were willing to make those interests the maintenance of peace, and the establishment of cordial relations with each other."

The report lays down a full outline of a settlement, which it suggests be reached through an advisory conference of the two disputing parties and representatives of the disputed provinces.

A satisfactory solution for permanent peace must conform to the following ten principles, says the report:

1—Compatibility with interests of both China and Japan.

2—Consideration of the interests of Russia.

3—Conformity with the league covenant, the Briand-Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty.

4—Recognition of Japan's interests in Manchuria.

5—Establishment of new treaty relations between China and Japan.

6—Effective provision for settlement of future disputes.

7—Manchurian autonomy.

8—Internal security against external aggression.

9—Encouragement of economic rapprochement between China and Japan.

10—Internal cooperation in Chinese reconstruction.

This tenth principle conforms to the suggestion of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the report says.

Realization of this plan should have happy results for the whole world, the commissioners wrote, but without Sino-Japanese conciliation no solution can succeed.

"Young Japan clamors for strong measures in China and a policy of thoroughness in Manchuria," the report says. "At heart the problem for Japan lies in her anxiety concerning the political development of modern China and the future to which it is tending."

As for China, now in the throes of revolution, "all other claims of her newly awakened nationalism should be subordinated to the one dominating need for effective internal reconstruction of the state."

Turning to the proposed advisory Sino-Japanese conference, the report suggests that neutral observers might assist if the parties to the conference agreed.

"If the conference is unable to reach an agreement on any particular point," it is suggested, "it would submit to the council the point of difference, and the council would then attempt to obtain an agreement."

The results of the advisory conference, says the report, should be embodied in four separate instruments.

First, a declaration by the government of China constituting a special administration for the three eastern provinces in terms recommended by the advisory conference.

Second, a Sino-Japanese treaty dealing with Japanese interests.

Third, a Sino-Japanese treaty of conciliation, arbitration, nonaggression and mutual assistance.

Fourth, a Sino-Japanese commercial treaty.

There is one chapter narrating the events in Manchuria beginning with the outbreak of hostilities at Mukden on September 18, last year.

After giving the conflicting Japanese and Chinese versions of the events which provoked that incident, the committee gives as its opinion that "the military operations of Japanese troops during that night cannot be regarded as measures of legitimate self-defense," as the Japanese claimed.

Bombing of Chinchow Is Termed Unjustifiable.

The Japanese blamed the Mukden incident on an explosion on the railroad line which, they testified, created a break in the line of 31 inches. However, the Japanese also testified that a train from Changchun to Mukden passed over the break at full speed shortly after the explosion, arriving in Mukden undamaged and on time.

The commissioners condemned the bombing of Chinchow from the air. "Bombing of a civil administration by military forces can not be justified," they wrote.

Describing the character of the opposition to the Japanese after the Chinese withdrew within the Great Wall, the report states:

"It has been the practice of the Japanese to describe indiscriminately as 'bandits' all forces now opposed to them.

"There are, in fact, apart from bandits, two distinct categories of organized resistance, namely, regular and irregular Chinese troops."

The Tientsin and Nanking incidents and the Shanghai operations are recounted in detail, but without an attempt to fix responsibility.

The commissioners, however, frankly characterized the government of Manchukuo as formed and supported artifically by Japanese military and civil officials, without genuine support from the local population.

After a long analysis of the Manchukuo situation, the report concludes:

"Since September 18, 1931, the activities of Japanese military authorities, in civil as well as military matters, were marked by essentially political considerations. . . . It is clear that the independence movement, which never had been heard of in Manchuria before September, 1931, was made possible only by the presence of Japanese troops.

"A group of Japanese civil and military officials, both active and retired, who were in close touch with the new political movement in Japan, conceived, organized and carried through this movement as a solution to the situation in Manchuria as it existed after the events of September 18."

The Japanese general staff, says the report, knew from the beginning what use would be made of the autonomy movement in Manchuria.

Creation of Manchukuo Attributed to Japanese.

"While there were a number of factors which contributed to the creation of 'Manchukuo,'" the commissioners wrote, "two which in combination were most effective and without which, in our judgment, the new state could not have been formed, were the presence of Japanese troops and the activities of Japanese officials, both civil and military."

The report disclosed that the commission had difficulty in discovering the real attitude of the inhabitants of Manchuria toward the Manchukuo regime.

The Japanese gave the commission a strong protective guard which frightened away witnesses. Interviews, says the report, "usually were arranged with considerable difficulty and in secrecy and many informed us that it was too dangerous for them to meet us even in this way."

Most of the delegations interviewed were introduced by Japanese or Manchukuo authorities and the commissioners indicated they were skeptical of the genuineness of the testimony obtained from these delegations.

"In some cases," they wrote, "persons who presented statements informed us afterwards that they had been written or substantially revised by Japanese and were not to be taken as expressions of their real feelings."

The commission received 1,550 letters from farmers, tradesmen, students and workers in the towns which were analyzed by their experts.

"All these 1,550 letters except two were bitterly hostile to the new Manchukuo government and to the Japanese," says the report. "They appeared to be sincere and spontaneous expressions of opinion."

Then, summarizing all the evidence, the commissioners state:

"We have come to the conclusion that there is no general Chinese support for the Manchukuo government which is regarded by local Chinese as an instrument of the Japanese."

Findings on Chinese Boycotts Are Outlined.

Of the Chinese boycotts which Japan has contended are really acts of war, the commission says:

"Our conclusion is that the Chinese boycotts, are both popular and organized; that though they originate in and are supported by strong national sentiment, they are controlled and directed by organizations which can start or call them off, and that they are enforced by methods which certainly amount to intimidation. While many separate bodies are involved in the organization, the main controlling authority is the Kuomintang."

The report then discusses the Kuomintang: "In this connection the question of relations between the government and the Kuomintang must be considered. Of the responsibility of the latter there can be no question. It is the controlling and coordinating organ behind the whole boycott movement. The Kuomintang may be the maker and master of the government, but to determine at what point the responsibility of the party ends and that of the government begins, is a complicated problem of constitutional law on which the commission does not feel it proper to pronounce."

The commission says whether the application of boycott to the trade of one country is consistent with friendly relations or in conformity with treaty obligations is a problem for international law and expresses the hope that this problem will be "regulated by international agreement" at an early date.

Discussing the population of Manchuria, the report continues: "The millions of Chinese farmers now settled permanently on the land have made Manchuria in many respects a simple extension of China south of the wall. The three eastern provinces have become almost as Chinese in race, culture and national sentiment as the neighboring provinces of Hopei and Shantung, from which most of the immigrants came."

Because of the "unquestionable strategic and political advantages" which Manchuria affords China proper, and especially north China, the reports say "to cut off these provinces from the rest of China, either legally or actually, would be to create for the future a serious irredentist problem which would endanger peace by keeping alive the hostility of China and rendering probable the continued boycott of Japanese goods."

Importance of Manchuria Trade to Japan Granted.

The commission states in the report that it recognizes the great importance of Manchuria in the economic development of Japan and does not consider "unreasonable her demand for the establishment of a stable government which would be capable of maintaining the order necessary for the economic development of the country."

However, the commission says, such conditions can only be guaranteed "by an administration which is in conformity with the wishes of the population, and which takes full account of their feelings and aspirations."

The report further suggests that capital necessary for economic development in Manchuria can be obtained "only in an atmosphere of external confidence and internal peace."

It is indicated in the report that Japan's policy in Manchuria may have been influenced less by economic considerations than by the anxiety of Japan for her own security. While the commission expresses sympathy with this anxiety, the report expresses doubt as to whether the "military occupation of Manchuria for an indefinite period, involving, as it must, a heavy financial burden, is really the most effective way of insuring against this external danger, and whether, in the event of aggression having to be resisted in this way, the Japanese troops in Manchuria would not be seriously embarrassed if they were surrounded by a restive or rebellious population backed by a hostile China."

In this connection the report suggests: "It is surely in the interest of Japan to consider also other possible solutions of the problem of security, which would be more in keeping with the principles on which rests the present peace organization of the world, and analogous to arrangements concluded by other great powers in various parts of the world. She might even find it possible, with the sympathy and good will of the rest of the world, and at no cost to herself, to obtain better security than she will obtain by the costly method she is at present adopting."

Of the Russian interests involved, the report says, the commission has not been able to obtain direct information not to ascertain the views of the U. S. S. R. on the Manchurian question.

"But even without such sources of direct information, the commission says, "it can not overlook the part played by Russia in Manchuria nor the important interests which the U. S. S. R. have in that region as owners of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and of the territory beyond the northern and northeast frontiers," and concludes:

"It is clear that any solution of the problem of Manchuria which ignored the important interests of the U. S. S. R. would risk a future breach of the peace and would not be permanent."

Soon after the woman was found police broadcast a lookout for an automobile "damaged in front." As no witness to the accident could be found, the make and license number of the car are unknown.

Mrs. Fowness had lived in Washington for about twelve years. Her surviving children, besides Virginia and Amelia, are Charles W. Paugh, James Marshal Paugh, Marcus H. Paugh, Catherine Paugh, Elizabeth Paugh and Margaret Paugh, all by a former marriage.

She is also survived by four brothers, A. L. Waddell, of Rectortown, Va.; Will Waddell and George Waddell, of Plains, Va., and Walter Waddell, of Girard, Ohio, and a sister, Mrs. Easter Hamilton, of Keyser, W. Va.

REPORT IS GENERALLY APPROVED IN GENEVA

Japanese Quarters Alone Are Not Pleased With Far East Findings.

Geneva, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The findings and proposals of the Lytton Manchurian report were hailed in league quarters with satisfaction generally, but with minority opinion offering the criticism that the document failed to provide an immediate program to get Japan out of Manchuria.

Geneva authorities were prone to believe that the realization of Lytton commission plans for an advisory conference and a just basis for lasting peace would depend on two main factors.

First, they would hinge upon the attitude of China and Japan toward the recommendations, and ultimately upon the vigor with which the league itself, supported by the United States, employed its resources in the interest of execution of the plan.

There was considerable rejoicing in all except Japanese quarters at what was termed the thorough manner in which the report treated the question of the Manchukuo government. The same attitude was expressed toward the report's conclusion that the new State had been constructed by the Japanese and without a spontaneous demand by the Manchurian population.

Thus the commission appeared to encourage the Stimson view that Chinese administrative integrity—guaranteed by the Nine-power treaty—had been violated.

The report, according to one section of opinion, will give the league another chance to attempt conciliatory mediation in the Far East without talking of coercive measures.

White Japanese officials maintained complete discretion in commenting until they had studied the report and heard from Tokyo, informed quarters were of the opinion that the Lytton proposals are almost certain to be unacceptable to Japan.

But Japan could show some cordiality to the suggestion for an advisory conference with China, as this idea apparently met with the Japanese contention advanced all along the way, that direct negotiations must settle the dispute.

The Chinese delegation here likewise declined official comment pending further study and communication with Nanking, but informally they admitted the report did not contain all they had hoped for.

League leaders were deeply occupied tonight with the question of what to do in defense of engagements of the covenant if Japan should remain obdurate.

TOKYO AGGRESSION FLAYED IN LYTTON GROUP'S REPORT

tion of Manchuria since the Japanese invasion, the report says:

"Since September 18, 1931, there has been an unparalleled growth of banditry and lawlessness in the countryside, partly due to disbanded soldiery and partly due to farmers, who, having been ruined by bandits, have taken to banditry themselves for a living.

"Organized warfare, from which Manchuria, compared with the rest of China, has been free for many years, is now being waged in many parts of the Three Provinces between Japanese and Manchukuo troops and the scattered forces still loyal to China. This warfare naturally inflicts great hardships on the farmers, especially as the Japanese airplanes have been bombing villages suspected of harboring anti-Manchukuo forces.

Proposed Settlement.

"One result has been that large areas have not been planted, and next year the farmer will find it harder than ever to pay his taxes. Since the outbreak of these disorders, large numbers of the more recently established immigrants from China have fled back inside the wall."

The attitude of the overwhelming majority of the rural population of the new state is characterized as "passive hostility" toward the Japanese regime.

In outlining a proposed course of settlement, which would be initiated by the League of Nations, the commission recommended direct negotiations between Japan and China on terms of honor, friendship and good will.

Such an arrangement must be the beginning of any effective settlement; without these ingredients nothing can be accomplished. Not only do the self-interests of the two nations demand negotiations on this basis, but Japan's moral obligations to the peace organization of the world make her participation imperative.

After the two Oriental powers had been brought together for rational discussions, the league would set up an advisory conference to recommend detailed proposals for the constitution of a special regime in Manchuria.

Curb on Boycotts.

From these discussions should come a series of treaties stabilizing the whole Manchurian situation on the basis of the known and accepted realities of the situation. These treaties must insure effective and responsible government in Manchuria, a clear definition of Japan's special interests there, a nonaggression pact and a legal trade treaty between the two politically equal powers of China and Japan.

Underlying off of these treaties would rest the principles of "free participation of Japan in the economic development of Manchuria," but without any "right to control the country either economically or politically."

The trade treaty would impose upon China an obligation to curb the provocative boycotts against Japanese goods, which, the commission found, have been developed through intensive organization within China during the last five years. Much of this development, the commission attributed to communistic leadership in China.

The commissioners' bill for particulars regarding specific acts of incitements, provocation and aggression in Manchuria constitutes the darkest page of the kind in modern history. Never before have the lawless acts of a nation been so nakedly revealed to all the world. Time and again the report links local disturbances directly with the intrigue of the recently arrived Japanese military officials, and in several instances the sequence of events is revealed as having developed according to a predetermined schedule.

Finally, the development of the entire plan of invasion is linked directly with the overthrow of the conciliation regime in Tokyo and the simultaneous ascendancy of the irresponsible military clique which, since last September, has so shamelessly flaunted the fundamental precepts of international morality.

Cites Japanese Invasion.

In an exhaustive survey of military operations in Mukden on the night of September 18, 1931, which was the first hot point of the present crisis, the commission concluded that the Japanese entered the area with a well organized plan of operations but that the Chinese forces "had no plan for attacking the Japanese troops, or of endangering the lives or property of Japanese nationals at this particular time or place."

At another point the report says:

"The military operations of the Japanese troops during this night, which have been described above, can not be regarded as measure of legitimate self-defense."

Regarding the bombing of Chinchow on October 8, the commission reported:

"The bombing of a civil administration by military forces can not be justified and there is some doubt whether the area was in fact as restricted as the Japanese allege."

U.S. SUPREME COURT WILL RESUME TODAY

All Nine Members Are Expected at Opening After Four Months.

(Associated Press.)

Refreshed by vacations spent abroad or in mountain or shore retreats, the members of the United States Supreme Court will resume their active duties today after a four-months recess.

All nine members expect to be present to begin the new term, which promises to be a busy one. Foregathering together again, they will have varied vacation experiences to relate.

Chief Justice Hughes participated in a Central American controversy as arbitrator immediately after court adjourned, but enjoyed a long motor tour including a visit to Canada and a sojourn at Saranac Lake.

Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland and Stone went to Europe, while Justice Brandeis enjoyed the summer at Chatham, Mass.; Butler, at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa.; Roberts on his farm near Philadelphia and Cardozo, at Rye, N. Y.

All the trips abroad were brief with the exception of that of Justice Sutherland, who has only recently returned from a prolonged visit to England following a short tour on the continent, begun before the court adjourned last May.

None of the justices fully escaped court work during the recess. All of them received petitions filed in cases during the summer, which averaged three a day. They have come to Washington prepared to enter on the conferences of the court to be held next week, at which much progress is expected in deciding how many of the approximately 370 cases in which review is sought, present controversies the court must decide on their merits, and in weeding out those which must be dismissed without further consideration.

The first week of the session will be devoted to that work, and the court will not begin hearing oral arguments until October 10, when it will start on cases advanced at the last term.

On the opening day—today—the court will hear motions and adjourn to October 10 after paying a courtesy call at the White House.

Among eight cases set for argument on that date before the court adjourned last spring was the Scottsboro, Ala., case in which the court is asked to decide on the fairness of the trial at which seven young Negroes were condemned to death for assaults on two white women.

Lytton Report Impresses Officials Here Favorably

(Associated Press.)

Officials in Washington were favorably impressed last night by the Lytton commission's report on Manchuria.

Secretary Stimson was out of the city when the document was made public, however. He will have a chance to study the voluminous report today.

The report was said in official circles to be regarded as a document which supports the Hoover-Stimson policy of not recognizing gains made by aggression.

The manner in which the report was framed was commended in diplomatic quarters together with the definiteness of the plan suggested to the League of Nations for the purpose of bringing the Japanese and Chinese governments into conference in the hope that they might agree for settlement of their difficulties.

Absolute secrecy surrounded receipt and care of the copy of the 100,000-word report, which lay sealed in a safe at the State Department until 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Then the document was broken open by Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, chief of the Far Eastern division of the State Department, in the presence of a small group of newspapermen and State Department employes.

It was sent to Washington from the League of Nations with instructions that it was not to be viewed, even by Secretary Stimson, until the formal release by the League at Geneva, at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, which corresponded to 7 a. m. Washington time.

Fifty typists at the State Department under the direction of Michael J. McDermott, chief of the information section, immediately began making copies.

The report is in ten chapters, each of which was inside a separate sealed envelope within a large sealed cover. The complete report includes a number of supplementary documents, which have not yet reached the State Department.

The chapter headings are: "Outline of recent developments in China;" "Manchuria," "Manchurian Issues Between China and Japan;" "Narrative of Events in Manchuria on and Subsequent to September 18, 1931;" "Shanghai;" "Manchukuo;" "Japan's Economic Interests and the Chinese Boycott;" "Economic Interests in Manchuria," "Principles and Conditions of Settlement;" "Considerations and Suggestions to the Council."

Gottlieb, of the Masters' Gold Cup, emblematic of Contract pair supremacy in the United States, and a member of the Bridge World team-of-four since its organization, is everywhere recognized as one of the greatest Bridge experts in the world. His strongest point is perfect precision of balance in bidding, defensive play, and the play of the Dummy. His weakest point is that his morale is apt to be slightly shaken when things break badly.

Mr. Lightner was born in 1893, and is a graduate of Yale University and Harvard Law School. He was at one time a member of the New York Stock Exchange, but gave up that hectic career for the more peaceful pursuits of Bridge. He is recognized as one of the greatest analysts of the game.

A brilliant example of his keen analysis in actual play is given in the hand below, in which, with Mr. Gottlieb, he reached in the bidding that extremely rare declaration—a correctly bid Grand Slam.

South—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

Mr. Gottlieb.

The bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

| 6◇(5) | Pass | 7♡(6) | Pass |

I give Mr. Lightner's analysis of the bidding:

"(1) A response of one in a higher-valued suit is regarded as Forcing in our partnership, except where the Responding Hand has passed.

"(2) This is the key bid to the entire hand. It enables North to tell that there is no losing trump trick, for the minimum possible holding which would justify a three-heart response is: A Q J x x x or A J 10 x x x.

"The response to this point offers some difficulties. Many players would be tempted to bid two or three no-trump. This would be very bad, as such a bid should not be made with a singleton in partner's suit. (Possible exception: Singleton Queen, King or Ace.)

"A Forcing bid of three diamonds is a possible alternative; however, I decided in favor of the three-heart bid for the following reasons:

"a. The heart suit is just strong enough to justify a Jump Rebid. (A Q J 9 x; the presence of the 9 adds considerably to the strength of the suit.)

"b. The diamond suit is rather weak.

"c. The three-heart bid is not an absolute Force, but allows partner to pass with an exceptionally unfavorable holding. The three-diamond bid is an absolute Force to game. In spite of South's great strength, with some holdings game will be impossible. Give North, for instance:

"Spades, K J x x x; hearts, x; diamonds, J x x; clubs, x x x x.

"(3) This bid is made with the idea of feeling out the club situation for a Slam bid in hearts.

"(4) To gain further information from South's next response. This bid is an absolute Force, and requires South to choose between the Slam in clubs and diamonds.

"(5) I know that the five-diamond bid may be a fake bid, but I must treat it as honest. If the bid does not indicate a diamond suit, my partner will protect me in hearts or spades.

"(6) Mr. Gottlieb now knows that the chance of any losing trick is infinitesimal. The three-heart response marks the hearts as solid. In view of North's own holding, South must have three Aces to justify his strong bidding. South's distribution must be either one spade, five hearts, four diamonds and three clubs, or no spades, six hearts, four diamonds and three clubs. (The Raise to six diamonds, when North on the bidding can hold only four diamonds, indicates four cards in the suit.)

In either case, South can discard his two clubs, one of which may be a loser, on the two high spades. There are no possible diamond losers, as North has King and one. Furthermore, as North is short in diamonds and clubs, and South in spades, there is little chance of a ruff of the Opening lead."

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A very dressy autumn coat in black woolen, interestingly trimmed in black astrakhan and ermine, with especial interest in the decorative sleeve. (Courtesy of Helen Hubert, Paris).

CHILDREN'S wear has become both more complicated and less complicated at one and the same time!

Meaning, specifically, that it takes a great deal of taste to dress little sister today, but a great deal less fussing than formerly.

The little one is an indication of the mother's taste, always. Even though a woman may have learned, perhaps at the hands of a clever couturiere, to restrain her taste for the ornate, it does not always occur to her that to express her desire for frills at the expense of her offspring shows her up in her own true and very poor colors.

There is actually so little space between the neckline and the hem of the little one's garment! And this very little area should show the maximum of mother's good taste.

Mother should follow the same general rules for little sister's clothing as she does for her own. Certain styles of garments are becoming to some children, and not at all becoming to others. And of course certain colors are unbecoming to each child. Who has not seen a lovely little blonde youngster of the fragile ash-blonde type completely snuffed out by a vivid pink dress, when she would have looked like a dainty cornflower in soft blue?

Children are cunning the world over, but I do think the well-bred French youngster is too adorable in her short little frocks beneath which peeps not the slightest trace of underwear. The clever mother will follow this example, and if necessary make or have underwear made to order to suit little sister's size and looks.

To accurately sum up the fall mode for youngsters, one simply stresses the importance of the chic, tailored child dressed becomingly and practically, and suitably to the occasion.

• • • •

And of all the aids to chic and elegance, none are more important than closet accessories! Did you know that padded and scented clothes hangers, shoe "toes" and covers, hat stands, and all such things were called closet accessories? Well, they are—and every clever woman has plenty of 'em, whether she makes them with her own clever fingers, or buys them—or hints to her girl friends that she wants 'em for Christmas.

So-o-o-o-o-o-o, this week's leaflet tells you how to make closet accessories. I knew you would want some more for your own closet, with moving day just over—and then, Christmas will be here almost before you have time to say jack-rabbit • • • so better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet before you forget!

• • • •

Helen Hubert, the couturiere I told you about last week, remember? Well, here is the dressy coat with novel sleeves that I sketched for you today. Very smooth and lightweight woolen, black, and the collar in black astrakhan and ermine. Nice?

ANTS IN THE KITCHEN.

(Bureau of Entomology.)

Both house and garden ants at times become a pest in the pantry and the kitchen. Ants like sweet foods—especially sugar cakes, candies—and cooked foods of animal origin. The Bureau of Entomology, which has made extensive studies of the ways of ants, and methods of preventing annoyance from them, explains that if a foraging or scout ant locates foods of these kinds it reports the discovery to the ant colony and in an incredibly short time the storage place may be swarming with unwelcome visitors.

Nests of the house-inhabiting ants are often hard to locate, as they may be in masonry, woodwork or articles of furniture. If the nest can be located by following the trail of the workers back to the point of their disappearance, the inmates of the nest or colony may sometimes be reached and destroyed by injecting a little carbon bisulphide, kerosene or gasoline into the opening, by means of an oil can or small syringe. These substances are all inflammable, so precautions should be taken to see that no fire is lighted where they are used.

Keep food supplies which are likely to attract ants in tight containers or in the refrigerator, and sweep up promptly any crumbs of cake or bread scattered by children. Find and destroy the nest as soon as possible. If this can not be done, poison baits can be used to kill the queens and the brood. Sugar sirup to which sodium arsenite, benzoate of soda and tartaric acid are added is an effective bait. If used out of doors, it should be placed in small containers and put near the place where the ants occur in large numbers. If used indoors, small amounts can be placed in the trail of the ants on sponges. The Bureau of Entomolgy will tell you how to mix this poisoned bait. Precautions should be taken to safeguard human beings and domestic animals when poisoned sirups are being used, prepared or kept on hand.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

I AM asked what harm is liable to follow when a left-handed child is trained to use the right hand and the effect on character and poise. Could a person who has been changed over make good at such work as court reporting?

For some unexplained reason one side of the body dominates most of the tasks undertaken. This applies not only to muscle acts but it is true of common sensations and even of vision. If a right-handed person is properly examined he is found to be right-legged and right-eyed as well. In some cases the right side dominates. If only one hand is to be used there is no hesitation, the right hand moves into action. If the two sides are nearly on a par fine recording instruments would show frequent momentary indecision as to which hand would be used for the job in hand. In the course of time a right-handed person has had his machinery running in grooves in which the right side does most of the tasks. When things run in grooves the higher brain centers are not called on.

If a right-handed person tries to do something with the left hand he is reminded that few ruts or grooves run over that route. His higher centers are called on—first, to make the decision, and second, to help out in doing the job because of the increased difficulty due to the deficiency of ruts. This results in momentary indecision, in halting, in some confusion, and in inefficiency of effort.

All of which reversed applied to left-handed people. If a left-handed adult, adolescent, or older child is trained to be right-handed he finds the paths to and from the newly used centers not worn into smooth deep ruts. He stifles his established impulse to use the old ruts and forces himself to use the new and less perfect ones. This results in a little delay, a little halting, some indecision, and some confusion.

In most efforts these effects are trivial. In some they are much more serious. Occasionally speech defects result. This is as would be expected. Are not stammering and stuttering largely the results of failure to make quick and natural decisions, to decide and act naturally? Are they not largely the result of the thinking of ideas and the making of word sounds not running on the same schedule? If one runs in poor grooves it is not apt to reach junction stations at the moment the other train gets there. Is not panic a dominating factor? At that, speech defects caused by changing from left-sidedness to right-sidedness is the exception rather than the rule.

The effects on character and poise inquired about are more remote than those on speech. Probably they are largely social. The switch does tend to confusion and indecision—sometimes more, usually less. These tendencies, in turn, in the course of time change personality, attitudes and social traits. For instance, they may cause inferiority complexes as we can appreciate.

However, these are not the usual results. They are quite infrequent. They represent the remoter possibilities in the way of radiating influences.

Nightmare.

Mrs. A. M. C. writes: In the last few years I have been having nightmares terribly, generally when I have been working hard or worrying over something. After I yell I then tremble violently, and later become hysterical. Is there any cure? It is hard on my family to be awakened by that loud hoot, and I must find some way to stop it, if possible. I ate a finger roll about 11 p. m., after I had finished a kitchen full of dishes, and also drank a glass of water. I did not have butter on the finger roll and had supper at 7 p. m., at which I ate a slice of beef, a potato and gravy, a dish of string beans, lemon pudding and a paper-thin cookie. No coffee, but water. I had coffee at breakfast. I generally have it three times a day.

REPLY.

Nightmare comes from fear, rather than from food. If you will not worry and can get fear out of your mental make-up, you can eat finger rolls and much else besides. Unless you do, dieting will not help.

Causes of Boils.

D. H. writes: What is the cause and cure for boils?

REPLY.

You are interested in learning why you have boils and not in why the other fellow has them. The problem of boil prevention is individual and personal. What have you done to solve your problem? Do you have diabetes? Is your diet overly rich in sugars and starches? Are you too fat? Do you work in grease or oils? Do your hands and clothes get greasy on your job? Do you keep your skin clean? Do you properly protect it against scratches and other injuries, as well as against bacteria, dirt and grease?

You pitched your problem at the other fellow. Back to you it bounces.

Chewing Gum and Seeds.

W. K. writes: 1. Is there any harm in swallowing chewing gum or orange seed? 2. Are they eliminated?

REPLY.

1. Some, but not much. Nothing can be said for the practice, and something can be said against it.
2. Yes. When this fails, trouble brews.

Dangerous Drug?

R. W. writes: 1. Will belladonna enlarge the pupils permanently?
2. Is it poisonous if used internally?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Belladonna is a very powerful and dangerous drug.

Questions on Reducing.

D. F. writes: 1. Is tuna fish fattening?
2. Is protein bread used by people who are reducing?
3. How many pounds should a person on a diet lose each week?

REPLY.

1. No. However, quantity counts more than quality.
2. Sometimes.
3. About two.

Won't Hurt the Baby.

Mrs. J. W. C. writes: I have been advised to give my baby fennel tea once a day, or two or three times a week when he has colic. My friend says it won't hurt him and she brought up her four children on it, and she has lovely children.

REPLY.

By all means follow your friend's advice. Giving fennel tea is something of a back to Methusiah proposition. It has been used in baby care for thousands of years, and if it did any harm I am sure that fact would have been discovered.

I have seen a host of children who had been given fennel tea in babyhood, and who are not lovely. Therefore do not expect too much.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LIBRA."

IF October 3 is your birthday, you will find your best hours are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m., and from 11:15 p. m. to midnight. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Fate seems to make this day a happy one for you in that it will be one of great activity and accomplishment. You will find that problems that have been troubling you for some time can on this day be satisfactorily cleared up, and that new ventures and ideas will be presented to you for consideration. It would seem to be a good day on which to embark on any new plans you have in mind.

Children born on October 3 will be restless little ones and endowed with an abundance of energy which will keep them ever on the lookout for adventure and excitement of some kind or other. They will not be willful or difficult to handle, but due to the great energy they possess, they will demand a good deal of watching on the part of the parents, who should at all times endeavor to guide them in and along the right lines.

Born on October 3, you will find yourself eventually among that group of people classed as successful. You are a thorough person in all things that you do. You are a ready and willing listener, and are possessed of that happy faculty of being willing to act upon the advice of another, but not of course until you have satisfied yourself that it is the right course to follow. At times you appear to be moody, but in reality these periods seem more to be times when you withdraw into yourself for thought and meditation. These periods should prove profitable to you. Both men and women born on this day are not naturally religious, but appear to be seeking some truth or philosophy that will enable them to put proper values on the various phases of life. You are straightforward, and an honest person, honest in your thinking insofar as it applies both to yourself and others with whom you may be in contact.

You will find yourself the member of one or more social groups, clubs or lodges. You are the type of person of great value to such organizations, due to your willingness and desire to help others.

Successful persons born on October 3:

William Gaston, lawyer, Mayor of Boston.

Charles Gordon Ames, clergyman and author.

Edward E. Noyes, soldier and politician.

Charles A. Pillsbury, manufacturer.

General Gorgas.

Hugh Chalmers, auto manufacturer.

NERVOUS WOMEN
Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly . . . My nerves are all on edge . . . I wish I were dead . . . How often have we heard these expressions from some woman who has become so tired and run-down that her nerves can no longer stand the strain.

No woman should allow herself to drift into this condition if she can help herself. She should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. For nearly sixty years women have taken this wonderful tonic to give them renewed strength and vigor.

Of 100 out of every 100 women who report to us say that they are benefited by this medicine. Buy a bottle from your druggist today . . . and watch the results.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Isn't this a delightfully practical rig for schoolgirl age? And it's exceedingly smart and new.

Naturally the materials which come instantly to one's mind for this type dress are heavier cottons, novelty rayons, sports linen or light-weight woolens.

Style No. 3012 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 10 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch plain and 1¼ yards of 35-inch printed material.

French blue linen with tiny red dots was chosen for this adorable little dress. It was so effective against the plain navy blue linen. The bands and tie were navy; buttons matched the red dots. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Our Fashion Magazine shows all the new and interesting styles. You can save the price of the book over and over again, and look your very best.

GOVERNORSHIP ROW UP TO ROOSEVELT

New York Party Leaders Ask His Aid; He and Smith Favor Lehman.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Tammany and allied Democratic leaders, after 24 hours of almost constant and admittedly futile conferring, tonight agreed to meet with Gov. Roosevelt tomorrow in an attempt to settle who shall be nominated for governor Tuesday.

They talked to the presidential nominee at Detroit by telephone and accepted an invitation to a closed session with him soon after he arrives here in the morning from the West.

Then they went to bed, asserting they had reached no decision on whether to throw their dominating strength—which every one concedes they hold—to Herbert H. Lehman, Roosevelt's own choice, or Mayor John Boyd Thacher, of Albany.

Smith Urges Lehman.

The day of conferences found "Al" Smith and the governor, once political allies but bitter enemies in the Chicago convention, fighting on the same side of the fence.

The "happy warrior's" booming voice echoed down the corridor leading to the Tammany conference room, as he took up the cudgels for his old friend, Lehman.

Roosevelt, by telephone, has pressed with vigor his claims for Lehman and has told of a decision to fight for him on the floor of the convention if necessary.

Such a show of intraparty disagreement the leaders were seeking to avoid.

Chairman Chosen.

The only definite step taken by John F. Curry, Tammany chief, and his associates was to pick one of their up-State allies, T. Arthur Hendricks, as permanent chairman of the convention.

Hendricks voted for Smith on all ballots in the convention which nominated Roosevelt for President.

There were signs that some sort of an agreement might be reached within 24 hours.

The convention opens Monday noon, but nominations will not be made until Tuesday afternoon.

John H. McCooey, who is famous as an organization peacemaker, was represented as favoring Lehman's nomination.

Bankers Are Arriving For Los Angeles Parley

Los Angeles, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Hundreds of the Nation's bankers, including women actively engaged in financial institutions, arrived here today for the opening Tuesday of the fifty-eighth annual convention of the American Bankers' Association.

Miss M. Q. McCulley, assistant secretary of the Williamsburg Savings Bank of Brooklyn, heads one delegation of women. Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, will arrive tomorrow. The convention ends Thursday.

his request because of revival of the stories.

The text of Castle's letter to Allen follows:

"In 1928 allegations were made that Mr. Hoover was not an American citizen in that his name appeared on a London register of taxpayers. This was erroneously called a register of voters. The Department of State made immediately an exhaustive investigation of the matter as, in fact, it would have done for any American citizen whose citizenship was brought into question.

"This investigation brought out the following points:

"1. An investigation of the allegation that Mr. Hoover had applied for British citizenship was at once disproved by inquiry at the British naturalization office. The allegation that he had voted in British elections was entirely without foundation. Mr. Hoover lived for a time in London for business purposes. He rented a house there and consequently his name appeared on the tax list as taxes are assessed upon rents. The preliminary voting rolls are made up from the tax list, and Mr. Hoover's name appeared on such list, but no alien is entitled to vote and is subject to challenge and penalty. Mr. Hoover never attempted to vote.

"2. Mr. Hoover never applied for British citizenship as is proved by records of the British naturalization office.

"3. The passport division of the Department of State exercised the utmost care in issuing passports, always demanding proof of citizenship. Year after year passports were issued to Mr. Hoover when his business affairs called him abroad, because there was never any question of such citizenship.

"4. Mr. Hoover was never out of the country for a protracted period because even during the years when business necessitated his absence he spent part of every year in the United States except on two or three occasions, and these largely in war service.

"5. The records of the Treasury Department show that Mr. Hoover has paid an income tax as an American citizen every year since the tax was established.

"The Department of State is the final authority on citizenship matters. I can only say that I have once more checked the records to be sure that nothing has been overlooked and can, therefore, reaffirm officially what Mr. Kellogg said four years ago, that there never has been any question of Mr. Hoover's status as an American citizen."

Col. Donovan was asked by newspapermen today if he would accept the indorsement of the Law Preservation party, supporters of the prohibition law.

"I wouldn't do anything to compromise any of my principles, but if the people have confidence in me, I see no reason why they (the Law Preservation party) shouldn't vote for me."

Col. Donovan has defined his stand on prohibition as adherence to the ideas of President Hoover, expressed in the latter's speech of acceptance.

CURRY AND M'COOEY STILL BACK WALKER

Former Mayor Called 'Loaded Pistol' at Head of McKee Rebels.

New York, Oct. 2 (U.P.).—Tammany Hall, threatened with loss of its control over New York's City Hall and millions of dollars in jobs, today clung to James J. Walker as its strongest threat against rebel Democratic groups backing Mayor Joseph V. McKee for election on November 8.

Fate has prevented Walker from reaching New York before the city-wide convention next Thursday at which the Democratic organization will nominate a candidate. He had planned a spectacular "return from Elba," which would stampede the convention into naming him through the sheer force of his dynamic personality.

This plan collapsed when the liner Rex, on which he was returning to America, developed turbine trouble and was forced to halt at Gibraltar. Walker will leave France Tuesday on the German liner Europa, reaching New York long after the nomination has been made and probably well behind the Rex which has now resumed its journey.

A Tammany official today described Walker as "the loaded pistol we can still hold at the head of any rebellious leaders, because they are afraid of his popularity and they don't know his strength."

Tammany Versus Roosevelt.

The Tammany leader, John F. Curry, and his stout ally, John H. McCooey, of Brooklyn, are in Albany, for the Democratic State convention, still letting it be quietly known that although Walker resigned his office under fire, he still has the support of the regular organization.

The lines of battle between Tammany, the Bronx Democracy, and the Roosevelt forces have been more finely drawn since it became apparent that Mayor McKee, if successful, will not consult Tammany in the patronage that is the perquisite of the city administration. It is no secret that McKee intends to permit Democratic leaders "other than John F. Curry" to advise him on matters affecting party rewards and jobs.

This means that unless Curry and the leaders now in control of Tammany Hall are successful in reelecting Walker or in producing a candidate strong enough to beat McKee, their regime is over.

Mayor Speeds for Liner.

Madrid, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Anxious to get in telephonic communication with New York political leaders, James J. Walker, former mayor of the American metropolis, was speeding toward Paris today on an express train.

He expected to sail for New York Tuesday at Cherbourg aboard the liner Europa. (The Europa is due in New York next Sunday, three days after the Democratic city convention in New York to select a candidate for mayor.)

The former mayor will reach Paris early tomorrow morning where he hopes to obtain definite telephonic data concerning negotiations to determine whether he will run for reelection. Uncertain of his course until he has obtained this information, he refused to comment on his future plans during his two-hour stopover this forenoon in sunshiny Madrid.

Postal Agents Probe $5,000 Disappearance

Arkansas City, Kans., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Postal inspectors today were investigating the apparent theft of $5,000 in currency, mailed at the Arkansas City Postoffice by the Home National Bank and addressed to the Federal Reserve Bank at Kansas City.

The money was taken to the Postoffice last Wednesday, where it was receipted for. Friday when bank officials failed to receive word of its safe arrival, they telephoned the Federal Reserve Bank. A check was started immediately but the money, it was reported, never was located. Postal employes here said the shipment apparently never left the local office.

G. O. P.'S TEXTBOOK CALLED AID TO FOES

Is Good Piece of Democratic Campaign Literautre, Says Harrison.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, said of the Republican campaign textbook recently issued by the Republican national committee, that except for "the mendacious and grotesque misuse of fine words," it was a "splendid piece of Democratic campaign literature."

In a statement issued through the Democratic national committee, Senator Harrison said: "Democratic campaigners against the Hoover administration will find ample ground for their indictment in the book.

"Facts are set forth in this campaign document as damaging to President Hoover as anything that any Democrat ever thought of saying," he added.

The Mississippian said Gov. Roosevelt's statement that the Hoover administration is "the most costly in history," was confirmed by the book. He said tables in the book showed that while Government receipts were a little less than half as much as in 1928, expenditures neared a figure twice as great as four years ago.

Mr. Harrison added that the portion of the book describing President Hoover as "heaven-sent," and referring to his "instant-reaction to the most complicated problem" was "too delicate" for a Democrat in public office to discuss, but said:

"The taxpayers of the country should be able to determine how 'instant' have been the 'reactions' of an administration which drifted leaderless for two years during the most severe depression this country has ever known."

DEMOCRATS STUMP SOUTH FOR TICKET

Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia Are Scenes of Spurred Activity.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Forces of Democracy in battle array have taken the field in the South in answer to the threat of Republicans.

Tennessee, which went for Hoover four years ago and for Harding in 1920, was the scene of a mighty Democratic drive yesterday with rallies and speeches in more than 60 counties.

The general theme of all the talks was support of party nominees from Gov. Roosevelt down, said James A. Bean, chairman of the Democratic speakers' bureau, as he scanned reports from all parts of the State. There were crowds everywhere and they were attentive and enthusiastic.

Party leaders in Tennessee were on the stump yesterday, including Senator K. D. McKellar, former Gov. Benton McMillin, and Representatives Gordon Browning, Ridley Mitchell and E. L. Davis.

Filed in Alabama.

In Alabama Republicans filed their party candidates with the secretary of state. J. Theodore Johnson, of Oneota, is the Republican candidate against Senator Hugo Black, Democratic nominee. Republican congressional candidates in several districts were also named against Democrats.

Georgia, the State where Gov. Roosevelt has a home at Warm Springs, is being organized by the Democratic officials in every county with the declared purpose of rolling up a big vote for the New York Governor.

There will be a big rally of the Democratic leaders and supporters in Macon on the night of October 8, with Senator Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, as principal speaker. The Kentuckian was the temporary chairman and keynoter of the national concention at Chicago, where Roosevelt was nominated. The Democrats have planned a great demonstration at Macon for their party nominees.

State Parley in Macon.

The Democratic State convention will be held at Macon the following day, October 6, to confirm the nominations made in the recent Democratic primary. Eugene Talmadge, present commissioner of agriculture, who was nominated for governor, will control the State convention, as is the custom in Georgia, and name the new State executive committee.

Georgia Republicans are making a fight for President Hoover and their candidate for the United States Senate, James W. Arnold. They have set up State headquarters at Atlanta. They have also nominated candidates in five of the congressional districts, and say they will wage vigorous speaking campaigns.

CANNON WILL SPEAK BEFORE CONVENTION

Baltimore Conference of Methodists to Start at Winchester.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., will address the Baltimore annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South this week, the program committee announced today. The subject for his address, which will be made Wednesday afternoon in the Braddock Street Church, where the conference will be held, has not been announced.

Bishop W. F. McMurry, of Fayette, Mo., who will preside over the conference, is expected tomorrow, and will almost immediately hold a meeting with his cabinet, composed of the presiding elders of the eighth conference districts in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. He also will confer with committee chairmen who are to give their reports at the conference.

Virtually all of the general conference boards and commissions will have spokesmen before the conference in support of educational, missionary and benevolent projects.

A preliminary service Tuesday night will be featured by a sermon by the Rev. F. C. Beery, pastor of Raleigh Court Church, Roanoke, and the Rev. George Wesley Jones, pastor of Mount Vernon Church, Danville, will preach each evening.

The Rev. F. A. Lambert, pastor of the Winchester church, estimated that 500 ministers and laymen members of the conference would attend.

Hoover Sends Greeting To Von Hindenburg, 85

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday sent birthday congratulations to President Von Hindenburg, of Germany. The message said:

"On this eighty-fifth anniversary of your excellency's birthday, I send you my cordial felicitations. May your future have in store for you a long continuation of good health and happiness."

Hearst Is Reported Ill In Cleveland Hospital

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The Plain Dealer says today William Randolph Hearst, publisher, is in Cleveland as a patient at Cleveland Clinic Hospital. Employes of the Clinic stated that Hearst occupied a room there, but that orders had been given not to divulge any information concerning his presence, the paper said.

Dr. George W. Crile, head of the Clinic, declined to discuss a report that Hearst had come here for general observation.

Roosevelt Stamina On Swing Praised

Correspondent Says Candidate Has Shown Amazing Physical Vigor.

Detroit, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—J. Fred Essary, correspondent of the Baltimore Sun on the Roosevelt Western campaign trip, speaking over the radio here today said:

"The Roosevelt tour of the West has been an illuminating adventure for the press representatives of his party, from the personal angle no less than the political angle. For one thing, and I now venture a personal remark, the candidate has outtraveled, out-worked, out-pointed the last one of us on this train.

"There is not a sign of fatigue in him. He is as fresh as a morning glory and if he is not restrained, I suspect he will plunge into another exhaustive tour within a week. I have never traveled with a candidate who could better endure the rigors of presidential campaigning—and I started with Mr. Taft in 1908."

ANTISALOON PARLEY SET FOR DEC. 15-18

Dry Legislative Program to Be Outlined Here and Vote Results Studied.

(Associated Press.)

A national convention of the Antisaloon League to outline a "dry legislative program" was called yesterday for December 15 to 18 in Washington.

The announcement said "delegates will be invited to represent all church and temperance groups opposed to the liquor traffic."

It added that the convention was called "for the special purpose of making a definite Nation-wide appraisal of election returns and to formulate the Antisaloon League program in opposition to modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment, or the legalization of beer."

"The political situation involving prohibition," commented Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, "has made it desirable for us to determine the exact attitude of the next Congress which will then have been elected, and to outline our dry legislative program."

"In conference with State superintendents and other representatives of our organization we will also make our plans for the congressional elections of 1934.

"We expect that the aggressive fight being made by the drys in the present senatorial and congressional campaigns will keep the eighteenth amendment from being changed by the next Congress."

HAWAIIANS CHOOSE HOUSE CANDIDATES

Wealthy Democrat, 72, Will Oppose Victor Houston, G. O. P. Incumbent.

Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Lincoln L. McCandless, Democratic candidate for delegate to Congress, and Victor S. K. Houston, Republican incumbent seeking reelection, were nominated by their respective parties at yesterday's primary election and will carry their fight through the November general election. Neither candidate had opposition within his party.

Should McCandless, who is 72 years old and one of the wealthiest men in the islands, retain his advantage through the coming election, it will mark fruition of a long-sought achievement. It was the eighth time he has made the race for the office of delegate.

The criminal attack on Mrs. Thomas H. Massie a year ago and the manslaughter conviction of her naval officer husband and three others for slaying one of her alleged attackers echoed in the campaign of McCandless and Houston.

McCandless attacked Houston for recommending to Gov. Lawrence M. Judd that the defendants be pardoned. Houston replied that home rule in the islands had been endangered. Had not Massie, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, his mother-in-law, and two naval enlisted men been freed, he averred, there was the serious possibility that Congress might limit the power of the territorial government.

Of three city and county officials whose offices were under fire as a repercussion of the Massie case and the ensuing reorganization of the local government by the territorial legislature, two were defeated in comeback attempts yesterday.

They were James Gilliland, city attorney, whose office was shorn of power by the legislature and will be abolished next January 1, and John C. Lane, territorial high sheriff and warden of Oahu Prison.

Gilliland's handling of the Massie case was criticized by Seth W. Richardson, Assistant United States Attorney General, who conducted a Department of Justice investigation in Hawaii. Richardson also expressed disapproval of Lane's conduct of the penitentiary.

Gilliland was the insurgent Republican candidate for mayor against Fred Wright, incumbent Republican.

Lane was a candidate for the island senate on the Republican ticket. With three to be selected of four seeking the nomination, Alva Scott had 11,691; George Waterhouse, 10,600; James Jarrett, 9,197, and Lane, 8,087.

Sheriff Patrick Gleason, whose former dual position as Honolulu chief of police was taken away by the legislature during the reorganization of that department, was renominated easily over two Republican opponents.

JAPAN IS INDICTED.

Japan is vigorously indicted for its conquest of Manchuria, and the creation of a new state from Chinese territory, by the report of the Lytton Commission. In unequivocal terms the commission has laid before the League the problem of enforcing its covenant, the Kellogg-Briand peace pact and the nine-power treaty against a major power. The effect of the report is to bring the whole Manchurian issue to a crisis.

After sharply criticizing Japan for her aggression in Manchuria, the commission plainly informs the League that maintenance of the present regime in Manchuria would be unsatisfactory. It asserts the necessity of upholding the peace pact in this controversy so as to preserve the faith of the world in this effort to outlaw war. "Any real, lasting solution by agreement," the report says, "must be compatible with the stipulations of existing multilateral treaties on which is based the peace organization of the world."

The report carries with it the atmosphere of impartiality. It is the result of a searching study of actual conditions in the Far East. Never before has an international body brought forth such a clear and forceful indictment of a major power. Japan must either recede from her position in Manchuria or incur the ill-will of all the world. The League of Nations must act courageously, in the same spirit in which this report is made, or face the termination of its influence in major world problems.

Militarist influences in Japan have succeeded in arraying the whole world against that empire. Nevertheless, the military party in Japan hopes that the fruits of conquest may be so rich as to repay the Japanese people for their sacrifices, and that diplomacy will find a way to reconcile the nations to Japan's acts. If diplomacy should fail, the militarists intend to carry the controversy to the bitter end, and at any cost.

Refusal by the nations to recognize Manchukuo may be followed by trade complications and a rupture of relations between Japan and other nations. Already the nations are considering the advisability of refusing to make loans to Japan. The cost of military operations in Manchuria is very heavy, and persistent Chinese resistance, both by armies and by irregular bands, compels Japan to maintain a large force. Sooner or later the empire will be forced to borrow money or impose killing taxes upon the already overtaxed and impoverished people. The yen is less than half its normal value. Japan's trade with China is paralyzed. Frantic efforts are made to sell goods in other countries, including the United States. Large shipments of rubber-soled shoes and other rubber goods, rugs, pottery and earthenware, toys, art objects, &c., have been sent to this country and sold at prices far below the American cost of production, and this in spite of duties that range as high as 75 per cent ad valorem. The valuation, however, is upon cost of manufacture in Japan, which is extremely low on account of the starvation wages prevailing there. The American tariff as it stands is inadequate to protect American industries against this new Japanese invasion.

As the pressure between the nations and Japan increases in intensity it is reasonable to expect a raising of the tariffs and a laying of embargoes against Japanese dumping. The nations will not permit Japan to finance its conquests by dumping its goods on their markets, to the injury of domestic labor and industry.

An explosion within the Japanese empire is the logical outcome of the insane attempt of the military element to ride roughshod over treaties intended to safeguard the rights of other nations. United opposition by the nations adhering to the Kellogg pact will bring about a crisis in Japan. The people are both intimidated and deluded by the militarists, but there is a limit to their sacrifices, and even at this stage this limit is in sight. When the Manchurian adventure proves to be nothing but a ghastly, endless tragedy of blood and money loss, and when the Japanese people perceive that their leaders have antagonized the whole world, thereby depriving them of the means of livelihood, a revolution may bring about an entirely new situation in the Far East.

HOOVER'S FOREIGN POLICY.

Secretary Stimson's address on foreign policy at Philadelphia is a reminder to the public that Gov. Roosevelt has said virtually nothing on that subject. The governor has been so busy explaining what he would do for the "forgotten man" that he has forgotten the relations between the United States and other nations. If he should be elected, he would find that the duties of his office are not solely concerned with the issues he has discussed most, but also with intricate national and international problems.

Secretary Stimson briefly outlined the foreign questions arising during the Hoover administration. Some of these were discussed in President Hoover's acceptance address, but they have scarcely entered into the campaign. It is unfortunate that domestic economic issues, which may be of far less importance in the next four years than they have been since 1929, should exclude consideration of grave international problems.

President Hoover has a considerable list of achievements to his credit in the international field. He brought about the London naval conference which, for the first time in history, ended competition between the world's three foremost naval powers. In these negotiations and in all other circumstances President Hoover has kept the Kellogg-Briand pact in the foreground of his policy. At the same time he has kept the United States free from any entanglements which might draw this country into the wars of Europe or Asia.

The recent proposal by Mr. Hoover for a one-third reduction in armaments is supported by the peoples of Europe and is making headway with governments. Even France is inclining toward the plan, now that Germany threatens to rearm unless other European nations disarm. Out of the red tape that has overwhelmed Geneva, President Hoover's suggestion emerges as the basis of constructive action.

Secretary Stimson made only brief reference to the principle of refusing to recognize territory won by conquest, although this is one of the outstanding contributions of the Hoover administration to international peace. That policy is supported by all the powers in dealing with the Sino-Japanese controversy. It has the support of world public opinion. Indications are that this principle will be of vast importance in the future relations of governments.

It should be recognized that Gov. Roosevelt is at a disadvantage in consideration of international problems, since most of his experience has been confined to State affairs. Nevertheless, the public would like to hear his views on disarmament, on the so-called machinery of peace, and the League of Nations. When campaigning for the office of Vice President 12 years ago, Mr. Roosevelt was certain that the salvation of the United States depended upon the entrance of this country into the League of Nations. He is silent on this subject now.

The foreign policy of the United States is shaped primarily by its President. He has the power to promote peace, and the power to force the country into war. The people ought to know how Gov. Roosevelt would deal with foreign affairs if he were President.

GERMANY'S PROBLEMS.

When all the economic, financial and political questions that most nations have to face today are considered in comparison with the complicated situation in Germany they appear comparatively simple. Confronted by threatened dissolution of the republic, ruled by a dictatorship overwhelmingly repudiated by the Reichstag, Germany enters upon the fifth electoral campaign this year to decide the fate of the Hitlerites. Steadily growing, the Nazis failed of a majority in the last election, but from present appearances they will gain it the next time, and if they do President Hindenburg and his Junker cabinet can not deny them possession of the helm.

Meanwhile the present government is near the parting of the ways with France and the League of Nations over the question of armaments. Germany takes the stand that since the allied nations have not reduced armaments she is justified in her determination to build up her defensive forces. This demand is a firebrand precipitated into the disarmament discussion. Germany can not afford expenditures for a great military force, and there is nothing the other nations of Europe need so much as reduction of vast appropriations for military establishments.

But here is General Hans von Seeckt, most famous of Germany's living military strategists, saying: "If the other powers refuse Germany the military independence to which her need of security entitles her, I see no way out other than that Germany expand her armed force. If the superior armament of Germany's neighbors continues to menace us we must insist in security by the strengthening and reorganization of our armed forces." Counting with France's own demand for "security," Germany has appealed directly to Paris without success, and is being urged not to boycott the disarmament conference or resign from the league, though no one is authorized to hold out hope of favorable consideration for her demands.

In the midst of this international stress the new campaign for the election of members of the Reichstag will soon begin. The aggressive Nazis, with their military organization and virtual forced contributions to the party chest, are the only fighters with any campaign funds left. They have issued new instructions to all their orators regarding the principles to be advocated. Claiming to be Fascists, their sweeping demands for socialization sound more communistic than conservative. Hitler's threats of repudiation of treaty obligations and debts, and his plans for establishing military power, are well known. In addition his revolutionary ideas for economic independence, nationalization of banks, and abandonment of the gold standard, with alarming possibilities of inflation, combine to make the German voters pause. Predictions are made that Hitler and the Nazi strength have passed their zenith, and that the election next month will mark the beginning of his decline. In such case the disintegration of the conglomerate elements composing the National Socialists would be rapid. If, on the other hand, Hitler is able to secure a Reichstag majority, Germany must decide the alternative of giving his extreme measures a trial or facing inevitable civil strife.

THE HELPFUL FIREMAN.

The efficiency of the District fire department in its own field is attested by a reduction of 70 per cent in fire loss in the last fiscal year as compared with the year before. The annual report of Fire Chief George S. Watson reveals a remarkable picture of the high regard in which the department is held by the average citizen. Some years ago it was proposed to clothe firemen with police powers. This move was defeated by Chief Watson. He insisted the fire department should be a purely protective agency, with no other responsibility than to go to the aid of citizens in jeopardy.

How well that policy has worked to win public confidence and friendly relations is indicated by the number and variety of appeals by persons in distress. In the last fiscal year response was made to 2,508 calls for help, other than putting out fires. A woman's hair was caught in an electric fan. A child was buried under a shifting coal pile. A horse was fast in a ditch. An expectant mother required immediate aid. Another person was stricken with indigestion. A workman's hand was caught in a machine. Workmen were buried in a cave-in. Cellars were flooded by storms. An automobile was held fast in the mire. Barges were adrift in the river. Persons were locked in and out of buildings. A boy was caught fast in an elevator. A person fell down stairs. A man was hurt in a street fight. Ten persons were saved from death by drowning.

In each of these and hundreds of other real or fancied emergencies the appeal for aid was directed to the fire department. "When a feller needs a friend" in Washington he turns to the firemen.

Babe Ruth, model husband, runs home twice in an afternoon.

Now let's hear from the man who has been making the nation's fight.

FRANCISCO AQUADO

From the Kansas City Times.

It was evening on Manila Bay. Out of the purple dusk the American fleet loomed into view drawn up in battle line.

In a little pilot boat, alone except for one sailor, stood Francisco Aquado, the Spanish pilot of the port. He gave an order to the sailor, and they sped through the channel to where the Spanish men-of-war were anchored.

"The Americans have come," he said to Admiral Montojo.

"Go tell them at the fort," said the admiral.

Francisco hastened up the river in his little boat to tell the captain of the fort. Then he went home through the streets of Manila where the news was spreading wildly from group to group. He went home to await the bombardment.

The way he recalls the suspense of that night, listening for the big guns which opened their bombardment with the first light of dawn, makes one feel the terror of the populace, who thought of the American sailors and bluejackets as cutthroats and bandits.

"And now I am returning to Manila," said the white-haired captain. "I want to see the bay again before I die."

Born of Spanish parents sixty-five years ago in Manila, Aquado was educated in Cadiz, Spain, and Glasgow, Scotland. He was a huge, strapping youth, over six feet tall and fifty-six inches around the chest.

When he gave orders he needed no belaying pin to make the sailors obey. His iron fists were argument enough.

He became pilot of the Port of Manila shortly before the Spanish-American War, and after peace was signed became an aid to Admiral Dewey. Then from 1898 to 1927 he was harbor master at Manila, and during the war had charge of Count Felix von Luckner's vessel after it was interned.

"Since 1927 I have been at Washington fooling away my time and spending my money," said the old captain, "but I have six of my children still alive in Manila and I want to go back there."

Like a figure out of a novel by Conrad the old harbor master and sea captain looks back over half a century of adventure and tells his tales. Ships and men nowadays aren't what they used to be when he was a boy.

He will be welcomed back to Manila like a returning hero, navy men say, for he is one of the best known and best liked figures in that part of the world.

The Crystal Gazer.

POST HASTE.

The Yanks are coming home for it's all over there in Chi.

The biggest croppers in Iowa this year will be reaped by the professional farm politicians.

Gov. Roosevelt certainly is trying to make some strange political bedfellows get acquainted.

A street demonstration caused Gen. Blanche to abdicate the Chilean presidency. The head of the supreme court will be installed unless high school students object.

Gov. Roosevelt's conquest of the West brevets him as field marshal for the way he marshaled his generalities.

The irony of it is that if the Democrats get a chance to take over a going concern from this administration and don't ruin it, they will claim credit for restoring prosperity.

If the conglomerate army Gov. Roosevelt has enlisted donned brown shirts, its members would readily pass for Hitlerites.

"Editor kills himself for dictation errors." What if this idea should spread to stenographers!

Japan has found a crushing answer to charges about Manchuria: During the last ten years Chinese pirates have looted 70 ships.

Columbia and Peru, talking peace and ordering munitions, had better take another look to the South and see what international and civil strife is doing to Bolivia, Paraguay, Brazil and Chile.

Egg prices are going up. This crop is so much more valuable than wheat and silver combined the hen wives ought to form a party.

Not even the Republicans are able to deny that Gov. Roosevelt is a promising candidate.

We move to quash the indictment. If Gov. Roosevelt was one of the easy marks who speculated in depreciated German currency he and the others got all that was coming to them.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

AT THE DANCE.

A few old dames along the wall
With hands in laps and faces set
Watching the young folks at a ball
And dreaming of a minuet
When I—strange trick of circumstance—
Dropped in to while an hour away.
"Is that a proper way to dance?"
I heard a fading duchess say.

"What are young people coming to?
I ask you is that fit to see?
Is that a graceful dance to do?"
The questions all were flung at me.
"Look at them dancing cheek to cheek!"
I looked, and sure enough they were!
And knew she felt that I should speak
The word that I agreed with her.

"We didn't dance like that," said she.
"In our day they'd have called it sin."
The band struck up a melody,
We watched the young folks trooping in;
"Now would you care to dance," said I.
She curtsied and away we flew.
"Come on," I whispered, "let us try
At least a modern step or two.

"Duchess, what matters flying years
If but the heart within stay young?
This music not so harsh appears
When to its rhythm feet are swung.
Come, for this moment let's pretend
That youth we can again renew;"
We tripped a hot one to the end!
I think the old girl liked it, too!

You Can Fill the Earth With Magic for One Who Now Thinks It Empty

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WE do not weep for the dead, but for ourselves. We have been robbed, and our grief is pity for our loneliness.

Men and women who lose their mates after years of comradeship are dumfounded by the emptiness of the world. They find no balm in the love of relatives and friends. In the midst of sympathetic neighbors and familiar scenes they feel utterly lost and alone. They feel deserted because the earth contains no kindred soul in whose heart they are first—because they belong to no one and none belongs solely to them.

Their unutterable loneliness is sorrow's crown of sorrow, and human hearts can feel no greater pain. It is a grief so great that the strongest men are broken by it.

But widows and men bereft of their mates are not the only ones who feel alone in the world. Go to any asylum for orphans and you will see in the eyes of children that same look of lonely longing.

It is the mark of those who belong to nobody. It is much like the grave and questioning reproach in the eyes of animals that are hurt.

Have you a pet of some kind? Many childless people, hungry for something to love, adopt dogs. They make excellent pets.

But this summer I saw a better one. He was three years old and pronounced the word "mother" with a pause between the two syllables. In the hotel dining room he drew back his mother's chair and stood behind it until she sat down.

He was a happy little fellow and apparently had forgotten the orphanage. Much loved children soon forget unhappiness.

An orphanage is a good place to get a pet. And that kind of pet, loved as a dog is, will repay you much more generously than a dog can.

You needn't be afraid of the breeding. It is environment that makes us what we are. The only two indelible qualities a physically normal child inherits are genius and a weak mind. The mannerisms and traits and reactions "inherited" from Dad or Mother or Uncle John or Grandpa are in fact acquired by imitation.

Given a sound mind and a sound body, the child will be what you make it—in character, manners, habits and degree of intelligence.

There is no more enchanting experiment than that of training a child to fit your ideal; no investment that pays more worth-while dividends; no charity more noble than that of adopting a love-hungry little waif and giving him a chance.

The Bonus Racket.

Christian Century.

The time for temporizing with this soldier racket has passed. The Nation is in too desperate a condition to allow its solvency to be left at the mercy of anybody of ex post facto mercenaries. There is a national issue in the legion's Portland vote that is not to be evaded. Its attempt to lead this $2,000,000,000 raid on the Federal Treasury brings the political leadership of the country to its day or judgment. What candidates for Congress have backbone, and what candidates will vote as the legion dictates? Let the taxpayers in every congressional district find out before election day. Will Gov. Roosevelt have the courage to stand up against the attempt to establish a dictatorship of this sort? His campaign speeches contain many allusions to his own candor; let him be candid about this! Will President Hoover, having warned the legion at Portland, now carry the fight to the country? If he does, and if his opponent should keep silent or give his approval to this raid, this issue will prove sufficiently compelling to draw back to his support vast numbers of citizens who, up to this point in the campaign, have been influenced by their economic distress to plan to vote in protest against the present administration.

President Hoover.

Detroit News.

In the storm of criticism that has beat about him for three years, possibly Mr. Hoover has found solace in the thought that posterity's estimate of a President is often not that of his contemporaries.

"Time, the healer of all things," says a biographer describing Grover Cleveland's later years, "has lavished an increasing kindness on his fame." Time may deal as generously with another President, whose stature and whose accomplishments will be better appraised in a clearer light than the present dark interlude provides.

Time, we believe, has already moved to correct an error of judgment concerning Mr. Hoover's immediate predecessor. Left in the contest of his day, the happy beneficiary of circumstances outside his control, Mr. Coolidge seemed a much more formidable figure than his outgivings since have proved him to be. If posterity reverses one judgment, it may do as much for a President who has been the most anathematized of any since Lincoln.

A broad-gauge statesman is one who overlooks a misquotation here and there in the press, if it is purely in the interest of fixing up his grammar.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

By Lopping Off School Cupolas District Engineer Saves Money and District Helps Workers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The District Engineer Commissioner started something worth while when he removed a cupola from the plans for a public school. This recent architectural revival of the ornamental "doodad," or useless top-knot, might easily be enlarged into a tower or dome, or expanded into a roof garden requiring expensive outfitting or "landscaping" and still larger waste of public funds.

Finished white, easily sailed, the cupola is a continuing source of expense. Built as an exposed rain catcher, snow holder and dampness retainer, it is likely to become a roof rotter that should be removed. Then the expense of putting it up will be followed by the expense of taking it down, and the taxpayer has nothing to show for his wasted money.

A cupola costs $3,375. That amount will keep two men employed for a year at $1,900, or, in other words, two homes intact, children in school and provided for and two homemakers out of bread lines for at least a year. It will do the same relatively for three $1,200-a-year men and their dependents, or four $900-a-year men and their families.

It is hoped by this taxpayer that the Engineer Commissioner will lop off cupolas from all new public school buildings, prevent extravagant waste of public funds, help to keep homes intact and prevent suffering and privation therein.

JOSEPH W. CHEYNEY.

Mrs. Jones Asks Why Something Is Not Done for Protecting Old Age.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been listening to the broadcasts and reading the speeches of the nominees of the two major parties, but, as yet, there has not been one word said as to "old age pensions."

Of course, we know the old will die if we wait long enough. Kindly tell me if it is thought to be so wonderful to live, or exist, for 80, 90 or 100 years?

Do you not think when we have done good work, paid our debts, have been charitable, law-abiding citizens, that we should be compensated?

It is impossible, under some conditions, to save enough to insure even a half-way comfortable income, when we have reached the time that we must retire from active remunerative work.

When we have spent our lives trying to be helpful, giving of our best, it is hard to feel that a "home for the aged and infirm," is all that can be hoped for; or, perhaps, to be an incumbrance on relatives or children, who have more responsibilities than they can care for.

Once in a while we hear "old age pensions" mentioned in Congress, I don't think there ever has been a bill up, or if there has, it died in committee.

I am sure it will never come in my time, but I would like to help future generations of the "old and infirm."

I would like to hear from some one else on this subject.

MRS. JONES.

Would Bonus Be Granted if Roosevelt Should Win?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If President Hoover is reelected will immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus be likely?

Will the rising tide of public sentiment against the bonus persuade Gov. Roosevelt to express a discreet bonus opinion?

Would the delayed announcement of that opinion—and its prudent expression when and if issued—indicate success of bonus demands if Gov. Roosevelt is elected?

When they loaded Mr. Garner onto the Democratic ticket, did they expect the voters to forget that stupid, reckless Democratic House which, under Mr. Garner's leadership, caused the country so much immediate anguish, so much subsequent regret?

M. BARTLETT.

Boston, Mass.

Ship of State Is in a Storm, but Why Jump Overboard?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Every one realizes that the ship of state is in a terrific storm at sea, but that is no reason why the people should heed Mr. Roosevelt's advice and jump overboard on November 8. The good ship will weather the storm and come out of it with flying colors, but if every one jumps overboard there is no telling whether they will sink or swim. Of course, Mr. Roosevelt would want them to jump overboard on November 8, but so far he has not stated that there will be a number of lifeboats standing by to pick up those who leap. I am afraid that the leap would be a bit worse than jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

C. C. PARSONS.

When Democrats Are Free From Tammany Hall.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The result of this year's election in Maine demonstrates conclusively what the Democrats can do when not menaced with Tammany control of the White House. Had the 1928 presidential nominee of the Democratic party received the nomination again this year, Maine would have gone Republican by at least 75,000 majority.

Gov. Roosevelt Conveys Startling Information About Norris.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If Roosevelt hadn't told you, you would not have thought that Norris was a better Republican than Hoover.

AN OLD CONFEDERATE BUT A HOOVERITE.

Wisconsin Offset Maine.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Maine went Democratic, but Wisconsin indorses the Hoover administration. The nomination of Chapple and Kohler can not be construed as anything but that. This gives us something to think about.

TWO GREAT TRUTHS OF JESUS ARE CITED

Christ Taught Both Love and Wrath of God, Declares Rev. John Temple.

"There are two great truths which our Lord came particularly to emphasize, that we need forgiveness and that we can be forgiven," declared the Rev. John Temple preaching yesterday in his pulpit at Christ Episcopal Church, Georgetown.

"And the value of the second depends upon the first. If we do not need to be forgiven it makes very little difference whether it is possible for us to be forgiven. And today it is not popular to confess our need of being forgiven.

"We talk a good deal about God, His goodness and love. We look leniently upon our shortcomings. Surely God will not be harsh upon his erring children. We take it for granted that forgiveness is easy. Nevertheless, there is a profound truth of the gospel that needs to be remembered as well as the truth of God's love, and that is the truth of God's word.

"Christ did not only teach the love of God. We forget that He ever said anything about the wrath of God. But He did. Christ died because the destiny of man depends upon whether he can get forgiveness. God loves men infinitely, but He hates sin infinitely. Every sin carries man farther way from God.

Made Possible by Christ.

"Every sin makes it just that much harder to appreciate spiritual things, just that much harder to enter into the joy of God. And forgiveness of sins means that our sin is so put away that God, who hates sin, nevertheless loves us. This Christ has made possible."

"All hindrances are tests," Mr. Temple said.

"They put to proof the reality of our good intentions. They test the genuineness of our purposes. This is a homely enough truth. But I remember that it is not God who tests us. He knows us. But we do not know ourselves very well. And hindrances and obstacles and defeats reveal to us the qualities in our characters, our points of strength and our elements of weakness.

"We speak such flattering things to ourselves, do we not? We imagine we are patient and forbearing and honest and loyal. And then comes a test and our imagination becomes all of a sudden knowledge. We come to see ourselves as we are. We learn where we are weak.

Relates Story of Healing.

"Referring to the biblical story of the healing of the paralytic at Capernaum as related in the Gospel, according to St. Matthew, Mr. Temple said:

"These men carrying their sick friend proved the strength of their purpose to get near to Christ. It had seemed impossible at first, but they found a way.

"Of course, it is always possible. There is no sort of thing that will prevent the soul of man from breaking through and touching Christ.

"And then, always that same thing happens which has come to pass countless times as it came to pass there in the house at Capernaum. The Saviour looks. 'Son, be of good cheer.'

"A welcome for every searching soul. In spite of every hindrance, a welcome for every heart that earnestly seeks. 'Whosoever cometh unto Me, I will in no wise cast out.'"

Shakespeare Unit Will Open Season

Provost Wilbur to Speak to Society Tonight at Art Gallery.

Provost W. A. Wilbur, of George Washington University, will address the Shakespeare Society of Washington at the opening of its sixteenth annual season at 8:15 tonight at the Corcoran Art Gallery.

"Shakespeare and English History" will be the subject of Provost Wilbur's talk. Afterwards scenes from the "Merchant of Venice" will be presented. The cast follows:

Launcelot Gobbo, Clarence E. Ruebsam; Old Gobbo, John Walsh; Jessica, Patricia Hunt; Bassanio, Henry Hood; Lorenzo, Donald Bolton; Gratiano, Henry Hood; Shylock, Forney Reece; Solanio, C. E. Ruebsam; Salarino, John Walsh, and Tubal, Henry Hood.

Miss Anne M. Fauntleroy is director of the production. The incidental music was arranged by Cooper.

Amusement Tax to Be Debated.

The amusement tax as applied to meetings of State societies will be discussed by the All States Officers Society at the Willard tonight.

NOTES OF INTEREST TO CAPITAL SOCIETY

Stimson and Wilbur Expected Back Here Today

THE SECRETARY OF STATE and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson are expected back in Washington today from Devon, Pa., where they went to remain over Sunday with former Senator and Mrs. George Wharton Pepper.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur are expected back in their apartment at the Mayflower Hotel today. They motored to Skyland, Va., Saturday, accompanied by the Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Mr. John H. Edwards.

Capt. Gordon Gordon-Smith, of the Jugoslav Legation, and Mrs. Gordon-Smith have left their apartment in the Dupont Circle and sailed for Europe. After visiting Scotland they will proceed via London and Paris to Belgrade, Jugoslavia.

Brig. Gen. Francois Pillon, Military Attache of the French Embassy, is now established in his apartment at Wardman Park Hotel. Mme. Pillon is at the present time abroad, but she will join Gen. Pillon later in the season.

Mr. Wallace Murray, of the State Department, sailed Saturday from New York on the Roma for a vacation abroad. He will return to Washington the last of October.

Willard Family Reunion Dinner Is Held at Hotel.

The Willard Family Association, members of which have played prominent parts in the social and business life of the Nation, met at the Willard and attended the dinner last night, in the Presidential suite of the Willard Hotel, the famous hostelry which was established by Henry Augustus Willard in 1847.

The group visited Mount Vernon Saturday morning and were received by President Hoover at 12:30 at the White House. Yesterday afternoon they were guests at tea of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Augustus Willard 2d at their home on Tilden street.

At Saturday's meeting letters were received from Daniel Willard and Elihu Root, the latter an honorary member of the association, both of which expressed regret at not being able to attend the meeting because of ill health.

Among the members of this well-known family who gathered in Washington were: Willard A. Willard, of Hartford, Conn.; Henry Augustus Willard 2d, of Washington; Norman R. Willard, of Concord, Mass.; L. Willard Harris, of Philadelphia; George B. Willard, of Battle Creek, Mich.; W. Frank Phillips, of Lunenburg, Mass.; Arthur C. Willard, Weathersfield, Conn.; Samuel Willard, of Baltimore; Arthur B. Willard, of Marlboro, Mass.; Miss Florence Willard Scott, Winchester, N. H.; Stephen F. Willard, Wollaston, Mass., and John C. Willard, Weatherafield, Conn.

Miss Billie Henry will entertain at tea today from 4 until 7 p. m., at the Herrick Studios, on N street.

The annual "tacky ball," given for this season's debutantes and those of last season, will be held at the Mayflower on the evening of October 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Hetsel, who have ben spending the summer abroad, will return to Washington early in October. They are now spending several weeks in Paris.

Mrs. George Richard Smith and her daughter, Miss Lucille Clare Smith, have returned to Washington after spending the summer in California, where they were the guests of Commander and Mrs. John H. Hoover, son-in-law and daughter of Mrs. Smith.

"Vision of Washington" Presentation Planned.

As the final weeks of Bicentennial year run swiftly by, many men and women of the Capital City are busily engaged in preparations and rehearsals for yet another outdoor festival in honor of the Great American—a story of America's harvests—to be enacted in the outdoor theater at the Washington Monument during the second week in October under the glow of the harvest moon.

"The Vision of George Washington," it will be called, and it has been written by a well-known Washingtonian, Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, whose name stands for civic pageantry in the Nation's Capital. It has a prologue, interlude and epilogue written by another well-known Washingtonian, Mrs. Fulton Lewis, and Mrs. Maud Howell Smith has assembled Washingtonians galore—more than 500 men, women and children—to take part in its harvest scenes, scenes in the days of the Pilgrim Fathers—on rich plantations in the Colonial South, under the harvest moon in old Kentucky, at a Western husking bee in the gay nineties, and during the famous fruit markets of the Golden West.

This colorful pageant will take place on there nights—October 11 to October 13—and the simple, homely fun and jollity of real country outdoor life will pervade its episodes. The names of its many players reveal a blending of many interests—for artists, actors, dancers, musicians, citizens—all will do their bit in honor of the festival.

A vast grand stand will be erected near the foot of the Monument's slopes to the south where this scene of autumn will be staged. There will be boxes, too, and gay parties among society folk will add enjoyment to the scene on all three nights. Good weather is promised by the weather man and "depression" prices will prevail, so that the Bicentennial harvest festival seems assured of popularity and success.

Col. and Mrs. John H. Colyer, of New York, were the guests of Col. and Mrs. Clyde L. Eastman at the Shoreham over the week-end.

Mrs. Alicia du Pont Glendening has been spending a few days at Wardman Park Hotel while her home on Massachusetts avenue is being readied for her occupancy this season.

Mrs. de Putron Gliddon, who has been spending the summer in England, has returned to Washington and is established in her apartment at Wardman Park Hotel for the winter season.

Mrs. Thelma R. Shurtz and Miss Josephine M. Galloway, of Chicago, were week-end guests at the Dodge, and were accompanied by Mrs. D. M. Chambers, of Kansas City, Kans.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Moore and their son, Samuel B. Moore, jr., of New York, were guests at the Shoreham over the week-end. Samuel B. Moore, jr., is a student at Georgetown University.

Mrs. William H. White Touring in Adirondacks.

Mrs. William Henry White, having spent the past five weeks at the Hotel Dennis, Atlantic City, is now motoring in the Adirondacks. Later she will spend some time at West Point, N. Y., after which she will remain several weeks in New York, returning to her home the latter part of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kaufmann entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham Saturday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rosenthal, of Detroit. Their other guests were Mrs. Malcolm Rieser and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bolgamer.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Walker Grant have returned from their trip to Florida, and are now in their apartment at Tilden Hall, 3945 Connecticut avenue. Mrs. Grant before her marriage on September 3, was Miss Constance Burke Ridgway.

Miss Virginia Eagle is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Woodson. Miss Eagle has been visiting on Long Island since the wedding of Miss Jean Woodson to Mr. Albert Earle Conradis, where she was one of the bridesmaids. It is expected that Miss Eagle will be presented to society in Houston, Tex., this winter.

The All States Society will hold its first dance and entertainment of the current season on Halloween evening, Monday, October 31, in the grand ball room of the Willard Hotel. Members of All States Societies will be invited to participate in making this affair a very brilliant one.

Mr. Elmer E. Field, president of the society, announced yesterday his national advisory council to serve during the year as follows: Mrs. M. C. Hankins, Alabama; Mr. Hugh Brewster, Arkansas; Mr. Thomas Waterman, California; Mr. Clarence Clough, Connecticut; Miss Elizabeth Groves, Delaware; Mr. H. H. Kendrick, Florida; Mrs. Kathleen Turner, Georgia; Miss Irene Bradley, Idaho; Miss Lola Williams, Kansas; Mr. G. B. Likens, Kentucky; Mrs. Myrtle Alter, Louisiana; Miss Rose Dugan, Maine; Miss Bessie Warren, Maryland; Miss Barbara Butler, Massachusetts; Miss Lillian Chenoweth, Mississippi; Miss Elizabeth McGerr, Nebraska; Mr. Walter Browne, New Hampshire; Mr. Richard Holman; New York; Miss Kathryn McKenzie, North Carolina; Mr. Alan Gray, North Dakota; Mrs. Roy Haynes, Ohio; Mr. A. C. Epps, Oklahoma; Miss Marie Puhr, South Dakota; Col. Cloyd Byars, Southern Society; Hon. Morgan Saunders, Texas; Mrs. Richard Allen, Virginia; and Miss Dorothy Thomas, Rhode Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Pack and son, Mr. Horace Pack, are now located in their new apartment in the Broadmoor.

Miss Ruth Leon, of Van Buren street, is the guest in Mount Vernon, N. Y., of her sister, Mrs. James E. Greenbery.

Miss Dorothy B. Perkins will entertain the District of Columbia Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae Club at her apartment at 3900 Connecticut avenue, tomorrow evening. Mrs. Carl J. Barbee is to assist her.

Mrs. Alvin Newmyer is at home after passing a week in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Milton Nathan is passing a few weeks in Canada with relatives.

Misses Tarwater Sail For Paris on Wednesday.

Miss Rebecca and Miss Penelope Tarwater, of Rockwood, Tenn., who have been connected as students and assistant teachers for the past five years at the King Smith studio, have been granted a year's leave of absence, and will sail with Mr. Oscar Seagle, baritone, and Mrs. Seagle aboard the S. S. Manhattan, Wednesday, for a season's study of music in Paris.

Miss Adrienne Mayer resumed her studies at Goucher College last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Sanger, who passed some time in Atlantic City, are now guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brodin, in Parkersburg, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Shoon, of Baltimore, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kronheim, of Lanier place.

The Council of Juniors, with Miss Mildred Pimes and Miss Bessie Lavine as hostesses, will hold its opening meeting Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at Community Center.

Miss Lillian Cohen and sister, Mrs. Leo Maytner, have returned from the former's summer place at Hamilton, Va., and are now at the Cliffbourne Apartment for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Carr, of Washington, announce the marriage of their sister, Mrs. Thomas Carroll Grant, of Hyattsville, Md., daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Arthur Carr, of Hyattsville, to Mr. Wellstood White, of Washington, son of Mr. Mansfield White and the late Mrs. White, of Dickerson, Md., Saturday afternoon in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral. Mrs. Grant was the former Miss Rosalie Carr, of Hyattsville.

The Rev. Mr. Clyde Brown, of Hyattsville, performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mendelsohn and young son, Milton, are now located at Oak Lawn Terrace, 3620 Sixteenth street northwest.

Miss Amy Behrend has resumed her studies at Goucher College, Baltimore.

Mrs. Louis Hopfenmaier, and little daughter, Patsy, are guests in Louisville, Ky., of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bales.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Bernton and family have returned to their home on O street after passing the summer at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa.

The plans for the Alabama Day ball at the Willard Hotel next Saturday evening are nearing completion. Arrangements are being made for some specialty dance numbers and popular songs by the Washington Male Quartet. Representative W. B. Oliver and Representative H. B. Steagall are expected to be in the city and honor the society by their presence. Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, chairman of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, and president of George Washington University, has accepted an invitation to attend as an honored guest on this occasion.

The president, Mr. Ira Y. Bain, has appointed the following committees for this event: Reception committee, Mrs. H. R. Fulton, chairman; Mrs. H. O. Sargent, Mrs. M. C. Hankins, Col. A. R. Brindley, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Barnes, Mr. J. D. Machen, Misses Margaret Davis, Nina Gluckstein, Juanita Buchanan, Pearl Mount, Mr. Samuel Hawkins, Mr. C. O. Webb, Mrs. Cecil A. Beasley, Mrs. J. A. Elmore, and Mrs. I. W. Hill; floor committee Maj. John A. Elmore, chairman; Maj. Harry A. Davis, Mr. H. R. Fulton, Maj. T. V. Walker, Mr. Cecil A. Beasley, and Dr. H. O. Sargent; young ladies' committee, Miss Carrie Roper Fulton, chairman; Miss Mary Crain, Miss Kathryn J. Sullivan, Miss June Underwood, Miss Irene Barnes, Miss Josephine Davis, Miss Mary Hankins, Miss Nan Fox, Miss Janet Webb and Miss Grooms.

A large company, numbering many from out of town, yesterday attended the wedding at 4 o'clock of Miss Margaretta Wheatcraft and Mr. Leslie Bell in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by the assistant pastor, the Rev. Andrew Melrose Brodie.

Among those in attendance was the mother of the bride, Mrs. Vivian Tracy Wheatcraft, of Whiteland, Ind., and who is both socially and politically prominent in her home State, being vice chairman of the Republican State central committee. Mrs. Blanche Bell, of New York City, mother of the bridegroom, was present.

The bridegroom is from Tuscaloosa, Ala. The bride is a graduate of Franklin College, Franklin, Ind., and a member of Phi Beta sorority.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the suite of the bride's mother at the Annapolis Hotel.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cahall, of Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. Clark, of New York. Ladies assisting at the reception were Mrs. A. J. Warren, Mrs. Alma Dick, Miss Katherine Kilgore, Mrs. Daniel Taylor and Mrs. Madge Ballard.

G. O. P. Women Meet Tonight.

Miss Julia D. Conner, of the Department of Commerce, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the League of Republican Women of Arlington County tonight, in the Republican headquarters in the Rucker Building, Clarendon.

SCORE KNOWN DEAD IN CALIFORNIA FLOOD

Searchers of Debris Left by 45-Foot Wall of Water Fear Many More.

Bakersfield, Calif., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Twenty persons were known to have drowned and fear was expressed by rescue workers for as many more as they searched mud and debris tonight for victims of a mountain cloudburst.

A 45-foot wall of water which rushed down the Tehachapi Pass Friday night took a heavy toll in lives and property. Of the known death list of 20, 7 bodies had been found tonight. The seventh to be recovered was that of Mrs. Louis Kadd, wife of a service station operator at Woodford-Keene, found in a wash 19 miles from the scene of the catastrophe.

The bodies of her husband, Peter Kadd and son, Peter, jr., had been found previously. The other listed dead were:

Mrs. Nell H. Cooper, Caliente Telegraph operator.

Mrs. Cooper's 2-year-old granddaughter.

A. H. Ross, Southern Pacific Railroad engineer.

Harry Moore, Southern Pacific brakeman.

Thirteen unidentified itinerants.

Most of them perished when the water struck the Kadd Station. Others died when sections of two freight trains plunged into the flood.

Five itinerants who were eating in the station have been found alive and their names removed from the tentative death list.

J. D. Brennan, general superintendent of the San Joaquin division of the Southern Pacific, estimated there were between 20 and 75 itinerants on the trains. How many of them died officials can not tell, but an estimate of between 30 and 40 dead was made.

Several freight cars and a locomotive of the Santa Fe disappeared completely, buried beneath mud and sand which authorities believed has covered the equipment to a depth of 50 feet.

The possibility of still other victims was raised when F. M. Minter, in charge of the Bakersfield office of the California Highway patrol, received inquiries today about motor car parties that relatives said were in the vicinity of the flood. The wrecks of several machines have been found.

Residents of half a dozen villages flooded by the rain, Arvin, Mojave, Caliente, Woodford, Keene, Monolith and Tehachapi began clearing mud and sand from the streets.

souls and possession of property by which means it held incomplete lethargy the proletariat classes that were impiously exploited.

Period of Stableness.

"Mexico now has entered into a complete period of stable institutional government, of progress and achievement, and it will not permit the reentry into national affairs of a subject whose official existence is not recognized in our laws that have provided for the complete separation of the church and the state.

"The present government, when emanated from the revolution, founded on principles that included the complete spiritual liberation and defanatization of the people, enjoys the full support of the nation's masses, which will not tolerate dominion of a foreign power.

"In answer to the open incitation made to the clergy to provoke agitation, I declare that at the slightest manifestation of disorder, the government will proceed with full energy to definitely resolve this problem that has cost this nation so much blood and sacrifice.

"I fully respect liberty of worship established by the nation's constitution, but I can not tolerate those who do not know how to do honor to their own religion, and utilize the property of the nation to form a hostile campaign against the government.

Would Become Schools.

"If the insolent, defiant attitude shown in the recent encyclical continues, I am determined that the churches will be converted into schools and shops for the benefit of the nation's proletarian classes."

The basis of a religious agreement between the Catholic Church and the Mexican government was announced on June 29, 1929, as follows: The Mexican government will allow the Catholic hierarchy to designate those priests who register in compliance with Mexican laws; religious instruction, while not permitted in the schools (which is specified in the constitution) will be permitted within the churches; the right is reserved to Mexican Catholic prelates to apply for modification of the constitution at any time in the future, which is the same as granted to all Mexican citizens.

GLASSFORD DENIES STEP WAS POLITICAL

decision of answering any charges of failure to "cooperate" which the Chief of Police may enumerate in his letter, he said.

Commissioners Would Act.

If Inspector Burke should withdraw his application for retirement, the question would be placed in the hands of the Commissioners, who would decide whether to refuse or deny Gen. Glassford's request for the shift.

Then, if the Board of Police Surgeons, before whom Inspector Burke is scheduled to appear tomorrow, finds he is physically able to continue in his work, the Glassford request would be subject to the Commissioners' judgment.

Action on Thursday.

If he is found to be physically disabled the recommendations of the surgeons would be acted upon Thursday at a meeting of the Police and Firemen's Retiring Board. The economy bill, which requires presidential approval for promotions in which there are salary increases, might halt the installation of Capt. Edward J. Kelly in the office of the chief of detectives.

If the District Commissioners should fail to approve Gen. Glassford's recommendation and the Board of Surgeons should find the chief of detectives able to continue his work, there is nothing else that Gen. Glassford could do, at this time, to carry out his plans.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THAT fiery young Thespian, Mr. James Cagney, may now step out of the breadlines and go back to work.

A "friendly settlement" of the salary dispute that has been going on now for seemingly years and years between Master Cagney — whose slightly rusty hair evidently does not go for nothing, despite the disarming suavity of his moments in repose—and the Warner Brothers-First National studios was consummated late last week.

It has trickled East via the grapevine route, although one of considerably more than average reliability, that Jimmy, who was being paid a measly $1,400 per week when he walked out last spring with the announcement he would study medicine and become a professional croaker, will go back before the Kliegs and the "mikes" under the terms of his old contract, except at a new figure. He will start work under a new option of a year's duration at $1,750 a week.

The dispute was settled at a long conference in the offices of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the principals being Cagney, Darryl Zanuck and Jack Warner, studio executives in charge of production, and Frank Capra, the noted director, acting in the capacity of Academy arbitrator.

After it was all over the studio strained a bit and said it was "happy" to have the actor back and that "complete satisfaction" reigned; Mr. Cagney matched their exaggeration by saying he also was "very happy," and the Academy, not to be left in the lurch, declared itself "glad" to announce that all was well again.

The formal ceremony of burying the hatchet among the boys will come later—probably in each other's skulls!

Summer is over. It is no longer possible with any degree of surety to trace the outlines of their bathing suits on the cuticles of the cuties doing the dancing and the acrobatics on the better of our stages!

Washington, more than any other city, should be interested in the screen version of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round," devised by Universal from the much-publicized gossip symposium bearing that title. It will be the attraction at RKO-Keith's the week beginning Friday, October 21.

Between "That's My Boy," opening on October 7, and "Merry-Go-Round" will come "The Phantom of Crestwood," the mystery drama whose national release will mark the culmination of one of the most widespread exploitation campaigns ever attempted on behalf of any single picture. Following "Merry-Go-Round" will come "The Most Dangerous Game," acclaimed as unique among the new season's major productions.

An innovation at RKO-Keith's, by the way, is the clearing away of all obstructions from the windows of the box-office so that the personable young women selling tickets may be seen from all approaches. And not only that. They are illuminated by amber baby-spots to make buying a pleasure, even during a depression. Oh, Mr. Meakin, how about having them do a number and go into their dance?

Morton Downey, whose life has been one unbroken round of business and social duties since his arrival in town last Friday—what with press breakfasts, occasional broadcasts, moving out across the Taft Bridge and one thing and another—will occupy a box at the Holy Redeemer School fund boxing bouts in the Washington Auditorium tonight.

It will be quite a show Mr. Downey will see. There are seventeen bouts programmed, Jimmy Lake, the leather-lunged Chesterfield (not a cigaret) of the sports arena, will be master of ceremonies; the Elks Band will furnish the oom-pahing, Joe Turner will either rassle, himself, or see to it that somebody else does, &c., &c.

From among the eight clubs taking part in the 17 jousts, six champions in their respective classes will participate in the events.

Mr. Downey will have as his guests his personal manager, James Doane, Barney McDevitt, the peripatetic publicist, borrowed for a moment from Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, and a group of friends coming down from New York especially for this occasion.

It would not be difficult to generate a spark of sentiment at Loew's Fox this week. In "Pack Up Your Troubles," with Laurel and Hardy, are two feminine stars representing opposite extremities of the movies' temporal span—little Jacqui Lyn, no more than a baby, playing heart interest in the story, and Mary Carr, best loved of the actresses whose hair has grown white in the service, doing scarcely more than a bit.

Guthrie McClintic, once he gets going, gets going! Already he announces that the cast is complete for Edgar Wallace's "Criminal at Large"—originally known as "The Case of the Frightened Lady"—opening in the Belasco Theater, New York, October 10. The players are Alexandra Carlisle, Emlyn Williams, Katherine Wilson, William Harrigan, Walter Kingsford, Geoffrey Wardwell, Robert Middlemas, David Glassford, St. Clair Bayfield, Perry Norman, Scott Moore, Neville Percy and James Vincent. A notable group, indeed.

Would that they were opening in the Belasco Theater situate on Lafayette Square, instead of West Forty-fourth street!

Speaking of Mr. McClintic, what do you think has been one of the most familiar sights around Garmisch this late summer? Katharine Cornell, Mrs. McClintic, and her Ford roadster climbing themselves a Bavarian Alp!

Johnny Hart and the University of Alabama Crimson Orchestra, making their first local appearance with the reopening for the season of the gold room out at Wardman Park, with Jack Denny and His Orchestra, are rated one of the outstanding college bands of the South. The band is composed of twelve playing members, utilizing 29 instruments, although probably not all at once. They are a confident, cocky crew, who, when told of the chance to share honors with the more famous Mr. Denny, promptly jumped at the opportunity and promised to outdo him, which is turning on a lot of heat!

Jack Hurford, formerly assistant manager of the Fox Theater in this city, has trekked to Detroit to assume the same duties at the Fox House in the motor metropolis, under the managing directorship of Dave Idzal, transferred from Philadelphia, but on two occasions presiding panjandrum at the F street cathedral.

Sabeen Newmark, who plays the important role of Lotus in "The Good Earth," coming to the National a week from tonight, is making her first professional appearance in the part. She went from dramatic school directly to the offices of the Theater Guild, where, after her first reading, she was definitely assigned to the role. Which seems effectually to lay the rumor that Hollywood is the only production center cradling Cinderellas.

Every Saturday morning for a period of twelve weeks, beginning this coming Saturday, October 8, RKO-Keith's will bring joy to the hearts of all kinds, from 6 to 60, as the saying goes, by presenting a new adventure serial. This is a program feature usually reserved for the residential houses, but one that will probably exert the same box-office "pull" downtown.

The serial is "The Last Frontier," adapted from the Courtney Ryley-Cooper fiction of the same title dealing with the old fighting days in the West. The principal role is played by Creighton Chaney, son of Lon Chaney, who made his debut recently in Dolores Del Rio's production of "The Bird of Paradise."

Of course it would turn warm again just as soon as I got that fire built!

STEEL PRODUCTION HIGHEST SINCE JUNE

Increase in Moderate-Sized Orders From Average Consumers Cause.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The steel production rate advanced one point last week to 18 per cent, the highest since the first week of June and a gain of 4¼ per cent during September, said Steel today.

"This unbroken rise in production through September rather accurately reflects an increase in the number of moderate size orders from average consumers," the magazine said in its weekly survey. "To a lesser degree, some of the expansion in operations the last 10 days resulted from a bunching of specifications for more economical rolling.

"As the new quarter opens, the iron and steel markets unquestionably are on a broader base. While consumers have been building up inventories slightly, most recent bookings have passed into consumption. For the former there will be no immediate reordering; it is believed consumption will continue to grow.

"But for October to develop improvement comparable with that of September will require more active support from such tonnage outlets as the railroads and the automotive and building industries.

"Indications are that railroad and automotive needs will gain; building is more doubtful as projects which are candidates for self-liquidating loans are being put through a third degree that will eliminate many.

"October promises to be a mixed month. The imminence of the national elections is sponsoring a 'wait until after election' attitude in some quarters. Financial statements for the third quarter, which will be issued beginning the last week of the month, will make unpleasant reading. The United States Steel Corporation on October 25 faces a decision on the preferred dividend.

"Hence the industry enters October no less confident of the long pull but a little more sober over the immediate situation. It is not improbable that the taking off of some capacity may break the upward line of production."

Oyanedel Assumes High Chilean Post

Figueroa Reported Trying to Form Cabinet for Regime of Judge.

Santiago de Chile, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Judge Abraham Oyanedel, president of the supreme court, assumed the office of provisional vice president late today. It was understood that Javier Angel Figueroa, who resigned as chief justice of Chile in June, was trying to form a cabinet for the prospective government of Judge Oyanedel.

Today's dispatches told of celebrations throughout the provinces on news of the announcement that Gen. Bartolome Blanche had retired from the provisional presidency.

The riotous conditions of last night had subsided in the capital sufficiently for Gen. Blanche to carry out his announced intention to retire, as expressed in previous official announcement. When Judge Oyanedel took the oath as vice president he automatically became the nation's chief executive under a provision of the constitution similar to the situation prevailing in the United States when the Presidency becomes vacant.

Loss of Chaco Fort Denied in Bolivia

Capture of Another Post Is Claimed by Paraguay in Disputed Area.

La Paz, Bolivia, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Reports that Paraguayan forces had again occupied Fort Boqueron, in the Chaco, were denied on high authority today, but this denial was not confirmed by the government. It announced fighting was continuing at the fort, where Bolivians were besieged. Crowds here were anxiously awaiting a definite bulletin on the status of the fort.

An army general staff communique tonight said the booming of artillery for 34 minutes yesterday afternoon in the Boqueron sector would lead to the presumption that Bolivian troops were still in possession of the fort.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The war ministry announced today that Paraguayan cavalry, engaged in the campaign against Bolivian forces for possession of the border territory of Gran Chaco, has reoccupied Fort Pitiantuta.

DEPUTIES TO STOP ILLINOIS PICKETING

Action Taken After Six Are Injured in Fighting at Coal Mines.

Canton, Ill., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—All picketing of coal mines in Fulton County, where six men were injured in a mine riot yesterday, will be stopped immediately, State's Attorney G. Ray Senift announced today.

The announcement followed a conference attended by Senift, Sheriff C. C. Prickett, State highway police and other law enforcement heads.

No National Guardsmen will be called in, but enough deputy sheriffs were sworn in to "prevent picketing in any way, shape or form."

Yesterday's clash occurred when members of the Progressive Miners Union, composed of rebels from a decision of the United Mine Workers that a basic wage scale of $5 daily should be substituted for the $6.10, which obtained up to April 1, attacked men at work in the Pschirrer and Clearview Mines here. Both mines are nonunion.

Some 50 men, trapped in the shaft, were convoyed to their homes by the police and deputies after an earlier melee, in which a number of shots were fired and six were injured, one seriously.

Meanwhile, the Progressive group organized a mass meeting at St. David, 5 miles south of Canton, to decide on their plans.

At Galesburg, Ill., feminine pickets, victorious where men had failed, paralyzed work at the Knoxville Mine. Yesterday they hurled clods of earth at truckmen, tipped over one truck and mauled its driver and generally attacked so viciously that the operators announced that they would seal the shaft. Many of the women carried babies and the police were unwilling to use tear gas.

ALABAMA REPORTS INDUSTRIAL SPURT

More Than 1,000 Are Ready to Return to Their Jobs This Week.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 2 (A.P.).—More than 1,000 men got out their overalls and dinner pails today, and were ready to work at jobs that have been born of an industrial spurt in north Alabama.

The Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. will blow in a blast furnace Tuesday and will call 500 men back to posts they left when fire boxes were allowed to cool because there were not enough orders to keep the furnace glowing.

Ore mines have been reopened and coal production has been increased to meet demands from orders. The Lehigh Portland Cement Co. at Tarrant will recall 140 employes tomorrow to provide material that has been ordered to satisfy a road building program.

Highway and bridge construction will get under way in Alabama on a big scale soon and the Birmingham News says labor will be assembled with the idea of several months work on projects already contracted.

The Government will be ready soon to furnish specifications for the proposed dam above Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals. A total of $1,500,000 is available for the work.

Textile plants in this vicinity and in Anniston have recalled many employes. A textile mill at Anniston has appropriated $55,000 to increase facilities and $133,000 has been allotted for improvements at Camp McClellan.

Opelika reports many construction projects are under way there with textile mills running on good schedules.

Projects in the offing here include development of the Delonah quarries of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co., and work on the Louisville & Nashville passenger station. Bids will be received soon for a $63,000 warehouse and $165,000 worth of municipal improvements.

Two Feared Dead As Ship Founders

Fishing Vessel Is Reported to Have Gone Down Off Massachusetts.

Woods Hole, Mass., Oct. 2 (U.P.).—The tiny fishing vessel Anna May, with two men aboard, was believed tonight to have foundered in heavy seas and a high wind somewhere off No Man's Land. Coast Guard boats which sought it since this morning when its disappearance was reported, could find no trace of the craft. Lives of the two fishermen, Earl Wade and Manuel Canba, both of Vineyard Haven, were despaired of.

The Anna May, with a full load, was returning to Woods Hole last night from the fishing banks, 15 miles south of No Man's Land, when an accompanying vessel, the 3-N1, saw the Anna May's lights disappear. The 3-N1 returned and searched the vicinity for an hour without finding anything. It reported to Base 18 here early this morning.

The fisherman Brookline from Boston, also was reported in distress 18 miles southeast of Boston Lightship. The Maris Stella reported the vessel had a broken propeller shaft and was being pounded by the high seas. Coast Guard assistanee was dispatched.

"SIXTEEN MEN ON A DEAD MAN'S CHEST"

A Washington man died leaving to his widow enough insurance to keep want from her, but not enough to provide luxuries.

Within one year after the death, sixteen different schemes and schemers approached the widow endeavoring to have her invest in this or that or the other thing. By inquiring at the Better Business Bureau before accepting the alluring offers of these sixteen ventures, she found that widows are favorite victims of Get-Rich-Quick Promoters. The lady is consequently free today from want and safe from the Poorhouse.

Modern Pirates are not romantic picturesque fellows, but are shrewd, intelligent schemers who fleece the widow and the orphan, in a modern roosting "on a dead man's chest."

Widows especially should remember at all times—

The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company

To Holders of The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company's Three-Year 6% Gold Notes Due October 1, 1932:

In our communication of September 13, 1932, addressed to holders of The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company's Three-Year 6% Gold Notes due October 1, 1932, the Board of Directors and the management of the Company submitted to the Noteholders the following Plan:

PLAN.

The Company upon consummation of the Plan will pay to each holder of its Three-Year 6% Gold Notes due October 1, 1932, an amount in cash equal to twenty-five per cent. of the principal amount of such Notes, and the full interest instalment due October 1, 1932, and will issue to the Noteholders in satisfaction of the remaining seventy-five per cent. of the Notes new notes in principal amount equal to such remaining seventy-five per cent., which new notes will be dated October 1, 1932, will mature October 1, 1935, will bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum, will be redeemable as a whole or in part at any time prior to maturity at the principal amount thereof plus interest then accrued, and will be otherwise generally similar to the Notes now outstanding. In addition, if the consummation of the Plan is for any reason delayed beyond October 1, 1932, interest on the $250 cash payment on each $1,000 Note will be allowed at the rate of 6% per annum from October 1, 1932, to the date when the cash is deposited by the Company with the Depositary under the Deposit Agreement, a copy of which may be obtained from the Depositary, except that the Company may refuse to allow such interest to a Noteholder depositing after October 1, 1932. All of the foregoing, however, is to be subject to the conditions that on or before October 1, 1932, or such further date as may be fixed by the Company, substantially all of the Noteholders indicate their approval of and agreement to the Plan by depositing their Notes with Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Depositary, under the Deposit Agreement, and that the Plan is declared operative. The Company is to have the sole right, in its discretion, to declare whether or not the Plan is to be operative, but it will not declare the Plan operative unless substantially all of the Notes have been deposited and it has been advised by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that its condition has been thus satisfied and that it will complete its loan to the Company. The Company shall have the sole right to determine any questions of interpretation arising under the Plan.

The response to this communication has been quite gratifying, and to the close of business today Notes aggregating over $14,200,000 principal amount, or over 71% of the total, have been either deposited or promised for deposit under the Plan, but because of the shortness of time afforded by the tentative dates initially fixed, and of necessary formalities in the preparation of proper instruments of transfer in some cases, and of inability to get in complete touch with numerous scattered Noteholders, and for other reasons, the deposits made and promised do not yet represent "substantially all" of the Notes. In anticipation of this fact the Interstate Commerce Commission and Reconstruction Finance Corporation amended the condition previously attached to the entire loan of $6,800,000 as conditionally approved so that the sum of $1,200,000 necessary to pay underlying mortgage bond interest due October 1, 1932, and certain taxes was made available to the Company regardless of the consummation of the Plan. But the remaining $5,600,000 needed to pay interest on the Notes and 25% of the principal thereof in cash will not be forthcoming unless and until the holders of substantially all of the Notes agree to the Plan.

In view of these circumstances the Company will continue to receive deposits of Notes under the Plan until further notice, but reserves the right not to pay interest from October 1 on the $250 cash payment to be made on each $1,000 Note if the Plan is consummated, on Notes deposited after October 15, 1932.

The Board of Directors and the management of the Company wish to emphasize the importance of prompt deposit with Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Depositary, 140 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

For the convenience of Noteholders a form of letter to be used in depositing their Notes may be obtained from the Depositary.

By Order of the Board of Directors.

W. L. ROSS, President.

Inquiries and communications should be addressed to Geo. S. Ross, Secretary, The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company, Terminal Tower, Cleveland, Ohio.

YANKS COMPLETE ROUT OF CUBS; WIN FOURTH, 13-6

McCarthy 'Happiest Man' as He Praises His Players

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 2.

THE Cubs won the fielding practice for the fourth straight time this afternoon, and the Yankees won the ball game for the fourth straight time.

The only time the Cubs beat the Yankees in this series was on Friday when the Chicago special beat the Yankees' train into the city by a couple of hours.

Ray Hemsley, who pinch-hit against Pennock yesterday and saw a called third strike float by, varied the procedure in a pinch-hitting role today by missing the third strike, a lazy curve, by the length of his bat. Pennock did everything but wrap the pitch around Hemsley's neck.

The Yankees made nineteen base hits today, one for every New York supporter in the stadium.

Crossetti made two errors again today in an effort to match his fielding average with his hitting average. The Yankee shortstop made only two hits in the four games.

The game was just a parade for the Cubs' pitchers, beginning with the march to the flagpole. Only the Yankee bats provided the music as Bush, Warnecke, May, Tinning and Grimes trekked to and from the mound in a mournful march.

The Chicago pitchers found a way to stop Ruth and Gehrig. Bush hit Ruth on the shoulder and May hit Gehrig on the leg, thus reducing the home-run possibilities of the Yankees. The idea should have occurred to them before.

Babe Ruth was leading the jockeying of the Cubs from the Yanks' bench today. He paused on his way to left field long enough to shout to his old buddy, Mark Koenig, that he'd better win the series for the Cubs or they'd take back that half share they voted him.

The Yanks won everything from the Cubs, including that old college spirit that the Chicago Club brought to New York at the start of the series. At the finish, the Yanks had the pep and the Cubs had the jitters.

This Guy Demaree, who walloped the homer that scored three runs for the Cubs in the first inning wasn't supposed to hit right-handed pitching, but Manager Grimm is willing to overlook that.

And the nice things that Manager Grimm said about his Cubs before this series started turned out to be some more of Grimm's fairy tales.

The one consolation that Grimm drew out of the world series is the fact that he signed his 1933 contract a month before it started.

The last game of the series looked like an ordinary ball game when Manager McCarthy sent Byrd into left field to relieve Ruth in the ninth inning.

The big scoreboard out in center field carried an optimistic note that proved wrong in the seventh inning. In big, white letters, it read: "Tomorrow, New York."

Fraters Defeat Pros At Alexandria, 6-0

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 2.—The Alexandria Fraters, last year's Capital City loop champions, won their inaugural game of the 1932 season at Baggett's today defeating the Winchester professionals, 6 to 0.

An 18-yard aerial heave, Parke Bell to Jimmy Luckett, Frater's end, gave the locals the winning six-pointer in the closing minutes of the first period.

Bayliss and Whitestone starred in the line for Scrivener's club, while the Ritter Brothers and Zirkle were the best bets for the invaders.

Warneke and Ruth Hurt In Game

Landis and Harridge Congratulate the Winners.

Cubs Are Whipped in Spirit as Well as on the Field.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—"I am the happiest man in all the world."

It was "Marse Joe" McCarthy, manager of the triumphant Yankees, speaking as his players, delirious with excitement after their fourth straight victory, surrounded him in the clubhouse, shaking his hand and pounding him on the back.

"I figured we could do it," McCarthy said. "We simply had too much power for them. I am proud of the Yankees, proud of them as players and as men.

"We beat a good ball club. The Cubs must have been good to win the National League pennant the way they did. But we had a better team. Any club looks bad losing four games in a row. The Cubs are game. They proved it."

Yankees Burst Into "Theme" Song.

While McCarthy was speaking, Art Fletcher, one of the hard-driving coaches of the Yanks, suddenly yelled:

"Boys, how about a little song?"

In booming barytones, basses and plain backroom voices, the players, with their arms draped over each other's shoulders, broke out with their theme song, "The Sidewalks of New York."

In popped Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, to extend his congratulations. He was joined by William Harridge, president of the American League. They shook hands all around, giving particular praise to McCarthy for his triumph.

Babe Ruth, hit by a pitched ball in the first inning, cut loose with a piercing yell as he entered the room, although he was suffering from a swollen right forearm where one of Guy Bush's fast ones clipped him.

"Boy, what a victory," Ruth yelled.

"My hat is off to you, Mac," he boomed, grasping McCarthy by the hand.

By this time Ruth's arm was paining him so much that he sought relief by applying hot towels.

The players lost no time in stripping off their uniforms and tossing them into trunks, as they had less than two hours to pack up at their hotel and catch their special leaving for New York at 6 o'clock. Their real whooping it up party was saved for the trip home.

No Hilarity in Cubs' Locker Room.

There was no hilarity, no back slapping in the Cubs' dressing room. They were completely whipped, both on the field of baseball and in spirit.

"The Yankees are a great ball club," Charlie Grimm, manager of the conquered Cubs, said. "They are full of power, punch and hustle. We couldn't have lost to a better fellow than McCarthy. Somebody had to lose, so what's the difference?"

Commissioner Landis, going to the Cubs' dressing room after visiting the Yanks, attempted to console Grimm by telling him that he made a marvelous record in winning the National League pennant and to forget all about what happened today.

"Those guys were just too good for us," commented Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher.

Manager Grimm revealed that Lon Warneke, the big pitcher, sustained an injury to his elbow while passing Combs in the fourth and lost control. That was the reason for relieving him, Grimm explained.

Baseball Scribes Elect Denman Thompson

Chicago, Oct. 3 (A.P.).—The Baseball Writers Association of America, at its annual meeting today, amended its rules to permit selection of unemployed baseball writers as official major scorers during the 1933 season.

The association initiated this relief measure in addition to steps already taken, nationally and by the local chapters, to assist baseball writers who have lost their jobs for reasons beyond control. It has the indorsement of Baseball Commissioner Landis as well as the presidents of the two leagues, William Harridge, of the American League, and John A. Heydler, of the National League.

The association elected Denman Thompson, of the Washington Star, as president for the coming year, succeeding J. Roy Stockton, of the St. Louis Post Dispatch. Other officers named: Vice president, Harry G. Salsinger, Detroit News; secretary-treasurer, Henry P. Edwards, of Chicago; directors, Gordon Cobbledick, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; Ed Pollock, of the Philadelphia Public Ledger; Martin J. Jaley, of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, and Alan J. Gould, of the Associated Press.

KENSINGTON WINS, 10-4.

With Buscher and Berger cast in the star roles, the Kensington A. C. scored a 10-4 victory over Rockville yesterday. The winners play Hiser's All-Stars next Sunday.

D. C. College Coaches Drive Elevens for Coming Games

Colonials, Despite Friday's Victory, Face Hard Week Prepping for Alabama; V. P. I. at Maryland Saturday.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

IN spite of the fact that three out of four of the District's college football teams turned in victories over the week-end, there is a general weeping and gnashing of teeth on the part of the porcine coaching staffs over the manner in which their lads conducted themselves.

Maryland was the lone loser, having to digest a 7-6 beating at the hands of Virginia, the first loss in five years to the Cavaliers. George Washington defeated a weak Westminster team, 24-0; Georgetown beat an even weaker Mount St. Mary's entry, 26-0, and Catholic University walloped a bunch of novices representing City College of New York, 47-0.

Highly disappointed with the way in which the Colonials had dilly-dallied around with Westminster, Coach Jimmy Pixlee has called for a rigid week of practice pending the biggest game on the Colonial schedule, Saturday at Griffith Stadium, with Alabama. The particular cause of Pixlee's complaint was the blocking of the entire G. W. team, and listless line play, both of which faults must be corrected and highly improved if the Alabama game is going to be worth watching.

Georgetown's line play Saturday was rated by a former Hilltop player as the worst he had ever witnessed. The Hoya backs did much to make the crowd forget the Georgetown front wall, but it was more than apparent to the coaching staff, which will confine this week's work entirely on the line. Georgetown plays Canisius College Sunday afternoon in Buffalo.

Catholic University won by an impressive score, but it was playing a weak team made even weaker by the scholastic ineligibility of seven regulars. "C. U. N. Y. really was no test," Coach Dutch Bergman said yesterday, and warned "C. U. must show a marked improvement in every department to shape up to Chattanooga's standard."

Maryland lost its game more or less on a fluke, outrushing, outpassing and otherwise "outing" the Virginians, but the loss did much to dispel a number of false hopes which the almost meaningless 63-0 victory over Washington College stirred up. The Terps play V. P. I. Saturday at College Park.

Team Net Crown Won by Treasury

Treasury Department's Tennis Team, winners earlier in the tennis season of the Departmental League, captured the team championship of the city yesterday, when it vanquished Edgemoor, Suburban League champions, four matches to two, at Wardman Park Hotel's courts. One match was uncompleted because of darkness, but it would not have altered the decision.

Clarence Charest, 50-year-old one-armed veteran champion of the United States, once more was the dominating figure of the day in trouncing Joe Rutley, one of the best of the local players, in straight sets, 6—1, 6—3. Charest, in the opinion of many players who have seen him on the courts for the good part of a generation, pronounced his play yesterday as better than ever. Rutley never had a chance with the thumping forehand drives of the victor.

Treasury won three of the four singles matches played. Bill Seidel defeated Pat Walker, 7—5, 6—1, and Larry Phillips upset H. J. Kelliher, 6—4, 6—1, while H. H. Burgwin, of Edgemoor, defeated Colin Stam in three close sets, 3—6, 6—4, 6—3.

Rutley, paired with Kip Callan, defeated Charest and Seidel in doubles, 6—4, 7—5, but Treasury's pair of Clark and Polk defeated White and Beattie, 7—5, 8—6, while the seventh match, between Stam and Phillips, of Treasury, and Hathaway and Walker, of Edgemoor, was called after both teams had won a set.

Ambassador Natators Honored at Dinner

The Ambassador Swimming Club, District of Columbia A. A. U. champions, finished a very successful outdoor season with a dinner at the Ambassador Hotel.

A brief summary of the past year's activities and a brief outline of the coming winter's work was given by team manager, Joseph Ransavage.

Guests were Arthur Harnett, manager Ambassador Hotel; Toastmaster Ira Lee Law, director of Red Cross first aid and life saving; Earle Weeks, chairman, of District of Columbia A. A. U. swimming activities; Albert Lyman, swimming coach, George Washington University; Earle Eastburn, manager Ambassador Health Club, and Attorney Philip Austin.

Members of the team: Vincent Gomez, John Broaddus, Constancio Alvarado, Norman Smith, Emory Wilson, Henry Vedder, Alfred Goldschmidt, Offhouse, Arturo Aballi, William C. Fite, Mahlon Glascock, Dyer Ghormley, Francis Nordstrom, John Polkinhorn and Joseph Ransavage, team manager.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE.

Missions, 2-4; San Francisco, 6-12.
Sacramento, 7-1; Oakland, 5-7.
Portland, 5-9; Seattle, 7-13.
Hollywood, 6-4; Los Angeles, 4-6.

Minneapolis Bows As Bears Tie Series

Minneapolis, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Newark's big batting guns, silenced in the last games in their home park, banged loudly today, and when the echoes died away they had projected the International League champions back into the running in the little world series by a 5-to-2 victory over Minneapolis. As a result, each has two wins in the best four out of seven series, which will be resumed here Tuesday.

Rube Benton, 22 years a pitcher in organized baseball, started and finished the first inning, but a recent shoulder injury pained him and Pea Ridge Day replaced him. Day, famous hog caller, felt the full power of the Newark drive when Johnny Owen, third baseman, blasted a home run over the Nicolet Park fence in deep center field. Jack Saltgaver, second sacker, next up, smacked one over the left field barrier, and Elam Van Gilder went in at once and finished the game.

Modern Baseball Is Rough But Honest, Says Phillips

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Ill.—You can't win a fight against a runaway steam roller of maniacs preceded by an escort of infuriated steers.

The long-suffering, but ever optimistic, Cubs tried everything they had here today and for a time it seemed to be enough, but in the end they were just tropical fish in a Polar blizzard.

The final game, won by the visiting firemen, 13 to 6, was really a combination of the Walker-Schmeling fight, the Sino-Japanese war the recent Porto Rican cyclone and any Army-Navy football epic.

It was the twelfth straight world series victory for the Yankees, and the funny part of today's massacre was that it was accomplished without much aid from Babe Ruth, of international stomach ache, or from his playmate, Lou Gehrig.

But when the Babe and Lou lose their killer instinct, it is always absorbed by somebody else on the club and in the final battle Tony Lazzeri got two home runs and Earl Combs got a third. That's the tough thing about that Yankee rodeo outfit—there's always some one set to spring to the field pieces when the regular gunners are dropped.

It was the most slam-bang, breath-taking, heart-cracking soiree of the series. Fans will still be telling their children about it in the years to come. Chicago has become hardened to disturbances, but this one left its citizens spinning around like drunken sailors on a revolving floor.

The Cubs started out in the very first inning by socking the Yanks for four runs. The Yanks managed to get three by the third inning, but from that moment up to the sixth they were dubbing so many chances to score, and the Mighty Ruth was striking out with such regularity and gusto that it seemed as if the Cubs could not miss.

Twice the Bambino came up with two men on, only to fan foolishly at the hands of Jakie May and to the guffaws of the Chicago citizenry.

It looked pretty silly, but in the seventh the old steam roller got back onto wizard control and when the panic was over the Yanks had sent in four runs and the score was 9 to 5.

The break of day for the Yanks came in this spasm when in a critical moment a high fly by Earl Combs hit the white foul line and was called a fair ball. At this point the house crashed in with such force that the Cubs rushed in a pitcher named Tinning under the impression it was a roofing job.

In the ninth the Yanks got four more runs and produced two highly unnecessary homers, just in case anybody claimed a fluke victory.

So many pitchers were rushed in and out of the game that it resembled the closing minutes of a football

Navy Eleven Spurred by Setback

William and Mary Upset Fails to Discourage Middies.

Indians' Play Praised; Washington-Lee Is Next Foe.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 2.—Keenly disappointed, though not discouraged is the feeling that prevails in Naval Academy football circles following the 6-to-0 defeat at the hands of William and Mary College here on Saturday. It is believed the licking, while stinging just now, will work to the advantage of the Middies; that is, will spur them to greater effort in preparation for the bigger games that are in the offing.

Navy coaches and followers of the team alike are high in their praise of the victory achieved by the Indians. It climaxed seven consecutive years of the hardest kind of effort, as the Indians have always furnished the hardest kind of a tussle for the Tars, though defeated decisively, with the exception of last season, when they were forced to the limit to win by 13 to 6.

Navy Banked on Victory.

The local forces did not expect the Virginians to be a set-up, but they confidently banked on winning, even though the Tars were making their formal debut. Practice sessions had augured for better results than were attained while under fire. The inevitable something seemed to be ever present and the Tars simply could not get going. On the other hand, the William and Mary outfit played a game that smacked of midseason form. They uncorked a smooth and deceptive attack that was fortified by plenty of power, and was a menace to the Naval lads throughout, while the defense prevented the Middies from launching a consistent drive at any stage.

Navy's attack, except for short-lived spurts here and there, lacked the precision of execution for which the Notre Dame system is designed, and there was ragged work in the interference and decided tendency to bobble the ball. The forward wall also showed weakness as indicated by the fact that two Navy kicks were blocked, and in nearly every other instance the kicker was hurried. This, indeed, was a disheartening feature, for Navy, as a rule, perfects a strong defensive for its kickers.

Chung Hoon, Walkup Navy Stars.

Chung Hoon and Walkup did the best work among the array of backs used by Navy, and they will be heard from ere the season is very old. But they could not match strides with either Palese or Shade. Both light but fast and elusive runners, while Shack was a fine plunger. Palese, weighing only 155 pounds, proved the real hero for the Indians. He contributed a large portion of the yardage gained from scrimmage, and it was his 12-yard swing around Navy's left flank that brought a touchdown and victory.

Navy's next opponent will be Washington and Lee on the coming Saturday.

Washington's Cricket Team Triumphs, 80-50

Washington Cricketers triumphed over the Caribbeans, of Baltimore, 80 to 50, in an interesting match played on the Mounment Grounds yesterday. Bennett, with 23 runs, and Nesbitt, with 15, were the leading Washington scorers. Hines topped the visitors with 18 runs. Castle took six wickets for 26 runs, and Bennett took four for 20 runs, for the local team, while the best Baltimore could do was five for 15. Carlton played a fine game behind the stumps for the victors, making two good catches.

51,000 WATCH FUTILE ATTEMPT OF FIVE CHICAGO HURLERS TO THROTTLE NEW YORK OFFENSIVE

Player's Share Not Record; Yankees Get $5,000.

Series Contests Bring 17 Records With Ruth Prominent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The World Championship Yankees and their Cub victims failed to break the record for the biggest player melon in the world series, but it was a bumper of the $363,822.27 variety.

By the fortunes of war, the Yanks will receive a team cut of $152,805.35, while the Cubs get $101,870.24. On the divisional man-to-man basis, each Yank will receive approximately $5,000 for four days' work. Each Cub's share will be almost as high, around $4,000, for the simple reason that they were'nt as liberal in cutting their melon as their tonquerors.

While the Yanks split their boot into 30½ shares with $2,700 to the clubhouse man and to two bat boys, the Cubs divided theirs on a 24-share basis, leaving former Manager Rogers Hornsby out altogether.

The record for a players' melon in the world series was established by New York and the St. Louis Cardinals in 1928, the cut reaching $419,736.60. In 1929 the players' pool was $388,086.66 with the Cubs and Philadelphia Athletics in the big split.

On the agreement of the player pool division, the second place teams in both leagues, the Athletics and Pittsburgh Pirates, received $29,786.67 for each team. Washington and Brooklyn, third place winners, receive $18,174.44 each. Cleveland and the Philadelphia Nationals each will be rewarded with $6,612.23 for finishing fourth.

Ruth Figures in 13 Records.

The 1932 world series was featured by seventeen outstanding additions to the list of championship records. Altogether in four games, fifteen records were broken and two others equaled.

Babe Ruth figured in exactly thirteen record feats.

The list follows:

1. Most consecutive victories, total series, 12 by Yankees.
2. Most home runs, two clubs, one game, six in third game.
3. Most home runs, one inning, one club, two in succession, third game, by Ruth and Gehrig, equaling former mark.
4. Most home runs, total series, 15 by Ruth.
5. Most total bases, total series, 96 by Ruth.
6. Most long hits, total series, 22 by Ruth.
7. Most extra bases, total series, long hits, 54 by Ruth.
8. Most bases on balls, total series, 33 by Ruth.
9. Most strikeouts, total series, 30 by Ruth.
10. Most strikeouts, one game, 5 by George Pipgras, of Yankees, third game.
11. Largest score, both clubs, one game, 19 runs, fourth game.
12. Most series played, 10 by Ruth.
13. Most runs, total series, 37 by Ruth.
14. Most runs batted in, total series, 33 by Ruth.
15. Most runs batted in, one game, 4 by Ruth, third game, and 4 by Lazzeri, fourth game, equaling record formerly held by Ruth and five others.
16. Most times played on world championship club, 7, by Ruth.
17. Most times batted, .300 or over, total series, 6, by Ruth.

St. Stephen's Eleven Gets Tie in Richmond

Richmond, Va., Oct. 2.—St. Stephen's Athletic Club, of Washington, D. C., battled the local Rotary Boys Club 135-pound eleven to a 6-6 stalemate in a well played game here today. Rotary scored in the first five minutes of play on a pass from Barber to Haines.

A 40-yard run by Billy Goodrich, placed the ball on the 10-yard line for the visitors, from where Charley Gifford plunged over for the score. The game ended with St. Stephen's in possession of the ball on Rotary's 1-yard line.

DIES OF GRID INJURY.

New Orleans, Oct. 2 (U.P.).—Louisiana's first football death for 1932 was recorded today with the death of Martyn Williams, Loyola freshman, injured in scrimmage Thursday. A blood transfusion supplied by a classmate, Arthur Merchant, failed to save Williams.

FIRST INNING.

YANKEES—Combs slashed the first ball through Bush for a single. Sewell singled to right, Combs stopping at third. Ruth was hit in the back with a wide one and the bases were filled. Gehrig flied to Demaree, Combs scoring after the catch and the other runners moving up. Lazzeri walked and the bases were filled again. Warneke replaced Bush on the mound for the Cubs. Dickey bounded to Jurges and Sewell was caught at the plate. Herman threw out Chapman. One run, two hits, no errors, three left.

CUBS—Herman popped to Crosetti. English scratched a hit over Allen's head. Cuyler flied to Chapman. Stephenson singled to center, sending English to third. Demaree crashed a homer into the left-field stands, scoring English and Stephenson ahead of him. Grimm was safe on Crosetti's fumble of a grounder. Hartnett singled to left, Grimm going to third. Grimm scored when Jurges hit the first ball pitched him to center for a single. Hartnett stopped at second. Moore replaced Allen on the hill for the Yanks. Warneke flied to Combs. Four runs, five hits, one error, two left.

SECOND INNING.

YANKEES—Crosetti popped to Jurges. Moore took a third strike. Combs lined to Cuyler. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

CUBS—Herman flied to Combs. English grounded to Sewell. Cuyler rolled to Crosetti. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING.

YANKEES—Sewell bounced to Grimm and was out, Warneke covering first. Ruth popped to Herman in short right. Gehrig doubled down the left-field line. Lazzeri knocked a homer over the right-field screen. Dickey singled to center. Chapman singled to left, Dickey stopping at second. Crosetti bounded to English, who forced Dickey at third. Two runs, four hits, no errors, two left.

CUBS—Crosetti threw out Stephenson. Demaree grounded to Lazzeri. Grimm hit the first ball pitched for a double to left-center. Hartnett went out, Moore to Gehrig. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

FOURTH INNING.

YANKEES—Moore singled to center. Combs walked. May replaced Warneke on the Cub mound. Sewell popped to Jurges. Ruth took a third strike. Gehrig grounded to Grimm and was out on a pretty play, May covering first. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

CUBS—Jurges rolled to Sewell. May flied to Ruth. Herman lofted to Ruth, who backed up against the wall to make the catch. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING.

YANKEES—Lazzeri singled past English. Dickey lined to Demaree. Chapman walked. Crosetti grounded to Herman and the Cubs pulled a double play, Herman to Jurges to Grimm. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

CUBS—Crosetti made a great catch of English's looper off the left field foul line. Crosetti made another brilliant plan to throw out Cuyler. Stephenson lined to Lazzeri, who made a brilliant diving catch. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING.

YANKEES—Moore fanned. Combs walked. Sewell doubled to left-center, Combs stopping at third. Ruth missed a third strike by a foot. Gehrig singled to center, clearing the bases. Lazzeri hoisted to Demaree. Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

CUBS—Crosetti threw out Demaree. Grimm beat out a hit to Gehrig and took second when Moore, covering first, muffed the throw. Hartnett bounced to Crosetti, who threw the ball into the Yankee dugout after fumbling it, and Grimm scored the run to tie the score at 5 to 5. Hartnett carried on to second. Jurges fanned. May bounced to Lazzeri, who

Lazzeri Slams Two Homers to Lead 19-Hit Attack.

Cubs Halted by Pennock, Moore After Allen Fails.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—In a rip-roaring climax that smashed world series records and blasted the last faint National League hopes to fragments, the New York Yankees rode rough-shod today to their third successive clean sweep in baseball's classic championship.

By the record-busting score of 13 to 6, the American League champions overpowered and routed the last vestiges of the defense of the Chicago Cubs. Five Bruin pitchers failed in the last attempt to stop this steam roller as the Yankees pounded out their fourth successive victory, thereby running their unprecedented winning streak to an even dozen triumphs over the National League in the combined campaigns of 1927-28-32.

There has never been anything like it in baseball history. The statisticians as well as the Cubs were dazed and shell shocked after the last big bombardment in the ninth had been delivered against the veteran, Burleigh Grimes. Another big crowd, estimated at close to 51,000, left silently and in awe of these mighty men from the big town after an afternoon of wild but futile encouragement to the home forces.

It was all over, for another year of battered spirits in the ranks of the National League, beaten back after enjoying the thrill of only one season at the top of the baseball roost. But the echoes lingered on of this last Yankee outburst, as uncontrollable as a herd of wild elephants on the loose.

Where Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig had pounded the Cub ramparts to pieces the day before with a thrilling exhibition of long range hitting, their teammates rushed in to complete the job of mopping up the bewildered Chicagoans. There was the wildest kind of uproar as Ruth, the great man himself, fanned twice with men on bases, but the base hitting bats of Earle Combs, Joie Sewell, Tony Lazzeri and Bill Dickey did more than an enough damage to offset the Babe's failures.

Lazzeri, recovering his batting eye for the first time in the series, smashed out two home runs. Combs knocked another over the bleacher fence and crossed the plate four times altogether. These two, with Sewell and Dickey, each contributed three hits apiece to the grand total of 19, one short of the world series record, accumulated by the Yankees.

Three Cub pitchers, Guy Bush, Lon Warneke and Jakie May, were knocked out of the box in the course of a bombardment which reached its climax with four-run rallies in the seventh and ninth. Grimes was the victim of the final big barrage, which included home runs by Combs and Lazzeri in the ninth, after Bud Tinning, young right hander, had momentarily halted the Yankees at the end of the seventh and throughout the eighth.

Bush's Comeback Fails.

Bush, attempting to stage a comeback in the box after being beaten in the first game, lasted only a third of the first inning after yielding hits by Combs and Sewell, hitting Ruth in the back and walking Lazzeri. Warneke checked this uprising, without further addition to the single run tallied off Bush, but the young leader of the year's National League p

RACING RETURNS TO LAUREL WITH WELFARE CARD TODAY

Track Holds Stage for Month

Nine Stakes to Draw Best Horses and Leading Riders.

Track, Rebuilt, Gets O. K. of Horsemen; Aid Charity.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

THE cause of charity brings racing to Laurel today —one day ahead of the regular schedule—and Washington will be right there to welcome the bangtails to the nearby course, just off the Baltimore pike. President Cy Cummings is still doing business at the old stand and has the track spic and span, awaiting the action which will last throughout the month.

Track Superintendent Woods Dickinson, who has been a busy man at Laurel for months, has finished the rebuilding of the track and those who have had their charges stabled at the course are loud in praise of the job. The course is now lightning fast and safe, according to the horsemen.

Today's charity card offers a well-rounded program with full fields. Although platers predominate, the higher class claiming horses are entered and good competition seems assured.

Nine Stakes on Program.

The best horses in training and the country's leading riders are on hand for the meeting, drawn for the most part by the lure of the nine stakes on the Maryland State Fair's program for the month.

The stakes and dates are the Capital Handicap, tomorrow; the Richard Johnson Stakes, October 8; the Maryland Futurity, October 15; the Laurel Stakes, October 15; the Chevy Chase Steeplechase Handicap, October 19; the Selima Stakes, October 22; the Maryland Handicap, October 22; the Spalding Lowe Jenkins Handicap, October 29, and the Washington Handicap, October 29.

Much interest is being manifested in the eighteenth running of the $10,000 added Maryland Handicap. This test has attracted 46 of the year's outstanding 3-year-olds.

There were 111 nominations for the $5,000 added Spalding Lowe Jenkins Handicap.

The largest purse of the meeting will be the $15,000 added Washington Handicap.

BASEBALL IS ROUGH BUT HONEST—PHILLIPS

game when the boys are being sent in to get their letters.

Chicago used, reading from left to right, Messrs. Root, Warneke, May, Tinning and Grimes. The Yanks displayed Allen, Moore, and Pennock. It must have been some sort of a record.

The high lights of the day were the courage and skill of Jake May in pitching to and striking out Babe Ruth as if it were an old Chicago custom, some of the worst and best fielding of the year by Mr. Crosetti and the setting of a new low mark for pinch hitting by Mr. Hemsley of the Cubs.

Mons. Hemsley was sent in for the third time in the series with a big chance to be a hero and each time he struck out like Casey at the bat, only more so.

Today he struck out on a ball he couldn't have reached with a hayrake if he had stood on a stepladder. Of such is the kingdom of pinch hitters.

So the series is over in four straight games. Money paid for the fifth, sixth and possibly seventh games will have to be refunded to the public. The magnates will do this with considerable anguish and no little regrets.

But it seems to demonstrate this for the modern-day game: baseball is rough, but honest.

Although from the standpoint of the Chicago players it constitutes an unnecessarily hazardous occupation.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: LAUREL RACE TRACK.

Workman spared the whip on Equipoise in the Havre de Grace Handicap and the Whitney ace romped away with the big dough. It seems that the once 2-year-old champion has learned to dislike Workman's punishment in a big way. This fact is now blamed for his poor showing in the sprint a week before. Gallant Sir was my choice in the big race after Plucky Play was scratched and he flattered me with his performance. Had two closing day winners—White Lies and Osculator.

A new deal starts today, Al. Get down on some of these. BILL.

FIRST RACE—RUSTIC LADY and ROCK SUN, an entry, appear the best of this bad lot. Either one should graduate here. DAMASCENE, first time starter, has worked well and may take the place. Spring form would give HUT a chance.

SECOND RACE—NEW SUN, a Whitney youngster, made a rousing finish up at the Graw and I put him in the book for future reference. Here he is and a Workman mount. Looks like the spot. PEACOCK BLUE finds a field more suited. BABEE'S last was a beaut. Can take some of it.

THIRD RACE—GENERAL LEJEUNE seems to have all his speed as that victory up the line testifies. Has a good chance to make it two in a row. FRENCH HONEY is liked by the stablemen. MEETING PLACE was fair out West.

FOURTH RACE—BOKIE B. has served notice that he is due a purse. Raced well at the Graw and I figure him with the leaders. MISS CORINNE failed me and a lot of others during the last two weeks. TUFFY G. is dangerous.

FIFTH RACE—STOCK MARKET gets rid of a lot of weight in this and may snow these sprinters a thing or two. CONTRIBUTE is at his best and is bound to be a factor. GRAND PRINCE loves the track.

SIXTH RACE—STAR LASSIE finds another race to her liking in this and with Workman to ride appears much the best. POLITEN holds some chance on best races. KINGBIRD for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—THE DOCTOR is in rare form. Shouldn't miss here. MODERN TIMES ran well in the West. KINGFISH starred on the half-milers and may upset everything.

Amateur Ring Carnival At Auditorium Tonight

FOLLOWERS of amateur boxing will have an impressive card to watch tonight at the Washington Auditorium, where seventeen matches are scheduled for the benefit of the school fund of Holy Redeemer Church.

Nine clubs will be represented on the card, including the Goodacre Athletic Club, Alexandria Boys Club, Noel House, Bateman Athletic Club, Washington Boys Club, Army Medical Center, Knights of Columbus, Jewish Community Center and Young Men's Christian Association.

The bouts will start with a match between two 40-pounders, little Danny Petro and Charley Petro, both of the Goodacre Athletic Club, and will run through all weight classes to the finale, a bout between Curtis Varah, Y. M. C. A., and Kirkwood Burke, Bateman Athletic Club, weights 170 pounds.

Dr. O. U. Singer, of the Amateur Athletic Union, is chairman of the advisory committee in charge of the program. With Tom Mills, of Georgetown University, he will serve as timekeeper. Referees will include Eddie LaFond, of Catholic University; Joseph Bateman, Georgetown University; Charles Reynolds, Knights of Columbus; Patrick F. O'Connor and Bernard Bortnick.

There will be no admission charge.

PLAY BY PLAY

juggled the ball, but made the put-out at first. One run, one hit, two errors, one left.

SEVENTH INNING.

YANKEES—Dickey scratched a single to Grimm, when May failed to cover first in time. Chapman filed to Stephenson. Crosetti doubled against the right-field screen, Dickey stopping at third. Ruffing batted for Moore and was intentionally passed, Hoag running for him. This filled the bases. Combs dropepd a Texas League single on the left-field line, Dickey scoring and the others moving up. Sewell singled past Herman, scoring Crosetti and Hoag and sending Combs to third. Ruth singled to right, scoring Combs and sending Sewell to second. Gehrig was hit in the back by a pitched ball and the bases were loaded again. Tinning relieved May. Lazzeri rolled to Tinning, who forced Sewell at the plate. Dickey, up for a second time in the inning, took a third strike. Four runs, five hits, no errors, three left.

CUBS—Pennock pitching for the Yankees. Herman fanned. English bounced to Crosetti. Cuyler was out, Lazzeri to Gehrig. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING.

YANKEES—Chapman popped to Jurges, who made a nice running catch in short left. Crosetti took a third strike. Pennock lined to Herman. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

CUBS—Stephenson singled to left. Demaree walked. Grimm flied to Champman. Sewell fumbled Hartnett's grounder and the bases were filled. Hack ran for Hartnett. Jurges flied to Chapman, but Stephenson made no attempt to score after the catch. Hensley batted for Tinning and struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors, three left.

NINTH INNING.

CUBS—Byrd replaced Ruth in left. Herman singled over second and took second and third unmolested. He scored on English's roller to Lazzeri. Cuyler went down swinging at a third strike. Stephenson flied to Byrd. One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

YANKEES WIN 12TH STRAIGHT IN SERIES

the left field bleachers produced three runs for the Cubs at the outset, and sent them off roaring into a lead.

Wiley (Cy) Moore, the veteran "sinker ball" expert, checked the Chicagoans in the first inning after they had run up four runs altogether. He continued to hold them in subjection until the sixth, when the Yankee defense unexpectedly fell apart and yielded the run that enabled the Cubs to pull back to even terms.

For the second time in the series the veteran Herb Pennock, whose willowy southpaw arm has for years cast a spell over all world series opposition, came brilliantly to the rescue. Taking the box in the seventh, after Moore had been replaced by a pinch hitter, Pennock stood off the last desperate charges of the Cubs in the last three innings.

The veteran portsider had the bases filled in the eighth, with only one out, as a result of Stephenson's single, a pass to Demaree and an error by Sewell on Hartnett's hard grounder. Here was a chance for the Cubs to put on one of their characteristic home field rallies, but Bill Jurges popped a short fly to Chapman and Ralston Hemsley, pinch-hitting for Tinning, fanned for the third time in the series.

Argyle Title Is Won by Di Este

Harmon Beaten, 1 Up, in Final Play in Five Flights.

Woodmont Semifinal Reached; Other Golf Results.

By DAVE HERMAN.

WILLIAM P. DI ESTE, veteran cross-handed expert, yesterday made a successful defense of the Argyle Country Club golf championship by turning back John B. Harmon in the finals after a hotly contested match, 1 up.

In retaining his title, DiEste shot the eighteen holes in even par, 72, to put a high polish to his play on the tournament. He was out in 38 and commanded a 1-up advantage on his adversary at the turn. DiEste played in even better form on the incoming nine, performing below orthodox figures for a 34. Harmon was out in 39 and back in 36, and kept right on the heels of the champion, who grabbed a lead which he refused to surrender throughout the match.

Both Score Eagles On Fifth.

Both played spectacularly on the 276-yard fifth hole, to bag eagle deuces. DiEste's tee shot skidded through the sand trap guarding the green, bounced onto the carpet to within 8 feet of the cup, and he sank his putt for a two. Harmon's drive lay 10 feet from the cup, and he canned his putt.

Play in the five flights were completed yesterday. Results follow:

FIRST FLIGHT—William P. DiEste defeated J. B. Harmon, 1 up. Consolation—P. W. LeDuc defeated P. C. Columbus, 3 and 2.

SECOND FLIGHT—George W. Wood defeated S. Cassidy, 2 and 1. Consolation—William D. Walsh defeated Wilbur Taylor, 1 up.

THIRD FLIGHT—Carnegie York defeated R. N. Lawrenson, 7 and 5. Consolation—E. G. Mohler defeated R. B. Gwathrop by default.

FOURTH FLIGHT—Maj. A. C. White defeated E. V. Carr, 2 and 1. Consolation—S. C. Harr defeated R. W. Johnston, 2 up.

FIFTH FLIGHT—Tom Reeside defeated Toms Mears, 2 and 1.

Howard Nordlinger, champion; Morris Goldstein, Milton Harris and Fulton Brylawski yesterday advanced to the semifinal round of the annual Woodmont Country Club golf championship. Nordlinger trimmed Melvin Kraft, 4 and 3; Harris turned back William Ilich, 2 up; Goldstein defeated D. S. D. Gottlieb, 6 and 4, while Brylawski had a close shave in beating Sam Kaufman, 1 up.

Next Sunday Brylawski faces Harris, and Goldstein takes on Nordlinger.

Results in the second light:

A. J. Stevens defeated Arthur Marks, jr., 2 up; Robert Baum defeated Nelson Biechman, 7 and 6; Stanley Glaser defeated Morris Bildman, 2 and 1; Morris Kiseman defeated Philip Perser, 4 and 2.

Harry King, with 93—22—71, won the top sweepstakes prize at Woodmont yesterday. Dr. William Eercos had 99—27—72, and Maurice Eisman, 94—22—72, to tie for second.

C. H. Phipps, Beaver Dam champion, was blasted out of the title picture yesterday by J. R. Miller, 2 and 1, in the semifinals of the tournament, while J. P. Baggett won his way to the final round by disposing of M. H. Meyer, 2 and 1. Miller and Baggett are to clash next Sunday.

Miller Becomes 2 Up On Tenth.

Playing steadily throughout, Miller was 2 up on Phipps at the tenth. Meyer captured his postponed quarter-final match from J. M. Palmer Saturday, 1 up. C. B. Carver, playing in the third flight, was 4 down and 4 to go, but rallied to defeat W. H. Taliaferro on the nineteenth, 1 up.

E. E. Bailey defeated H. Bailey, 3 and 2, to win consolation honors in the championship flight.

Results in other flights follow.

SECOND FLIGHT—H. R. DeVilbiss defeated R. B. Baker, 3 and 2; F. D. Hessler defeated E. E. Fischer, 2 and 1. Consolation—M. W. Harrell defeated R. F. Lynch, 3 and 2; J. W. Gregory defeated M. B. Shaw, 3 and 2.

THIRD FLIGHT—W. M. Davies defeated W. A. Johns, 2 and 1; W. H. Taliaferro defeated C. B. Carver, 1 up 19th. Consolation—T. F. Stone defeated O. Herrmann, 2 up; M. C. Taylor defeated J. M. Vance, 2 up.

FOURTH FLIGHT—J. V. Severice defeated A. B. Evans, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Gertrude Cheng played her third flight finals match with Mrs. D. E. Mattison yesterday at Beaver Dam, winning, 2 up. Mrs. Ora Emge won the championship last Sunday.

By a 1 up margin, Cliff Spencer, Beaver Dam pro, and his brother, Glenn, Maryland Country Club pro, conquered Al Houghton, of Kenwood, recently crowned Maryland open champion, and diminutive Mel Shorey, of East Potomac, yesterday at Beaver Dam in a special 18-hole exhibition match.

Shorey Clicks Round Of 74.

Shorey, shooting four birdies, clicked off the best score, a 74, while Cliff posted a 75. Houghton, encountering trouble on the greens, played around in 78. Unavoidable circumstances prevented Glenn from showing up until the eighth hole, his place having been filled by Martin P. McCarthy, who joined with Cliff in leading the enemy, 1 up. Shorey's birdie three on the ninth squared the match.

Uncanny putting featured play from the tenth to the fourteenth. Cliff sank a 30-footer for a birdie on the twelfth to take a 2 up lead, but Shorey came through with a similar putt on the thirteenth for a birdie to cut down the margin. They halved the next five holes.

Arthur Urban reached the finals of the Indian Spring Club championship yesterday by eliminating J. W. Harvey, jr., 3 and 2, and will meet the winner of the match between Dr. Harry S. Oteli and Leo Pass scheduled this week. Pass created a furore a few days ago by putting out the champion, Tom Belshe, 4 and 3. Urban was 1 up at the turn in the duel with Harvey, and was forced to play his best shots in winning.

Belshe, who tied with Jim Brownell in the qualifying round, won with a 75 in the play-off yesterday. Brownell scored an 81.

Results of matches thus far played in the flights follow:

SECOND FLIGHT—Richard Peacock defeated Dr. H. L. Smith, 3 up; Robert Christie defeated C. W. Sweeker, 1 up, nineteenth; J. J. Field defeated J. J. Cullinane, 3 and 4; Dr. R. Pupek won by default from C. M. Whitman.

FIFTH FLIGHT—Fred Shutz defeated D. W. Marfield, 1 up, nineteenth hole.

SIXTH FLIGHT—C. E. Stoddard defeated R. C. Gill, 2 up.

Mrs. Betty Meckley, twice District champion, back home after competing in the national tournament at Peabody, Mass., triumphed over Mrs. J. W. Harvey, jr., 4 and 3, in her semifinal match of the Indian Spring's women's play. Postponed yesterday, the semifinal match between Mrs. Don Scott and Mrs. J. V. Brownell, champion, will be staged this week.

Lionel Walker, Army and Navy Country Club pro, teamed with J. Munro Hunter, sr., yesterday to defeat Dave Thomson, Washington Golf and Country Club pro, and his assistant, Jim Norvell, 3 and 2, on the Army and Navy course in an eighteen-hole exhibition match.

Walker and his partner were 1 up at the tenth. Thomson shot a 78 for the best card, winning from Hunter, 3 and 2. Walker upheld his side by trouncing Norvell, 8 and 7.

A friendly golf match was held between 20-man teams from Washington and Army and Navy yesterday. Capt. K. J. Fielder, Army and Navy ace, turned in the day's best score, a 74, while Maj. R. K. Sutherland shot a 75.

The prosenior golf tournament, slated this afternoon at Chevy Chase, promises to attract an unusually large number of participants. Most of the topnotch seniors from the home club plan to take part, while pros throughout the Middle Atlantic are expected down.

Press Club Tourney Starts Today.

With the President's Trophy, donated by Bascomb Timmons, as the outstanding award, the National Press Club's annual golf tournament will be staged today at the Manor Club. Sixty members plan to participate. An attractive prize list has been arranged.

Seventy-four proved the lucky number in the blind bogey tournament at Manor yesterday as seven entries tied for first prize. Harry Pitt, club champion, shot a 72, and had a 2 handicap. Others who tied with him were M. H. Irvine, D. E. Moore, W. E. Richardson, W. W. Dean, H. L. Lippincott and R. F. Garrity.

Results:

M. H. Irvine, 90—16—74; D. E. Moore, 88—12—94; W. E. Richardson, 94—16—78; W. W. Dean, 81—7—74; J. L. Lipscomb, 94—20—74; R. F. Garrity, 91—17—74; H. G. Pitt, 76—2—74; E. M. McClelland, 90—10—76; S. T. Wilcox, 104—28—76; E. J. Carver, 92—16—76; M. L. Langford, 90—14—76; George Schoenemann, 107—31—76; J. J. Buckley, 90—20—70; Mack Meyers, 80—10—70.

Women members of two golf clubs will be active today. Over at Washington 31 will start play in the qualifying round of the first championship staged since 1924. Forty-eight will compete in four flights at Army and Navy Country Club.

Eighteen-hole qualifying rounds will be held at the Columbia Country Club tomorrow and Wednesday in the annual golf championship, which Everett Eynon will defend. Match play will start Thursday. Close to 200 are entered. Pairings and starting times as announced by George P. James, chairman, follow:

Vince Dundee Set For Phelps Set-To

Middle Contender Faces Test in Portner Ring Tomorrow Night.

Vince Dundee, leading contender for the middleweight crown, and Cowboy Phelps, Michigan mauler, will weigh in at 2 o'clock this afternoon for their bout tomorrow night at Portner's Arena, Alexandria. The weighing-in ceremonies will be at Riggs Baths.

Dundee, who is pointing for a match with Mickey Walker at Newark, N. J., the latter part of next month, is a top-heavy favorite to put the Cowboy away. Of course, Phelps has other ideas along these lines, and should make it interesting for the Baltimore boy.

Joe Fino and Frankie McKenna will be pitted against one another in the semifinal of a well-balanced card. Ladies will be admitted free of charge to ringside seats if escorted.

Georgetown A. C. Knots Title Series

Beats Barclays, of Baltimore, 9-4; Third Contest Canceled.

The South Atlantic junior baseball championship will remain in the joint possession of the Georgetown A. C., Capital City League winners, and the Barclay A. C., Baltimore champions, it was decided yesterday at the conclusion of the second game of their series. Georgetown won yesterday's game, 9 to 4, to even the standings at one game each.

By mutual agreement, the third game of the series was canceled because of the lateness of the season.

"Stump" Talburtt limited the visitors to eight scattered hits in chalking up the victory. His mates pounded Stokes and Lange for sixteen, including a home-run by Karl Nau.

Chevy Chase Golfers Beaten in Richmond

Special to The Washington Post.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 2.—The golf team of the Chevy Chase Country Club, of Washington, D. C., received a 10-to-5 setback here this afternoon in its match with the Country Club of Virginia.

Charles McKall, who teamed at No. 1 with William Mason against Billy Howell and Billy Grinnan, paced the visitors with a fine 74 to halve the match. Billy shot a 73, the best of the day.

Emmons S. Smith, jr., won the plaudits of a large gallery by a brilliant exhibition of putting, the Chevy Chase star one-putting nine greens for a total of only 27 putts during his round.

The summaries:

Billy Howell and Billy Grinnan (C. C., Va.) tied with Charles McKall and William Mason, 1½ to 1½. Jack Potts and C. C. Waldon, jr. (C. C., Va.), defeated George Richards and Emmons S. Smith, jr., 2 and 1. Douglas Call and Dr. C. C. Vaughan (C. C., Va.) defeated A. McCook Dunlop and William E. Dubose, 3 and 2. Jean Duval and Sam Covel (C. C., Va.) defeated Louis Maskell and Robert Stead, jr., 2 and 0. John Britton and Henry Rennel (Chevy Chase) defeated Robert Melcher and Winston Montague, 2½ to ½.

In the professional engagement, Bobby Cruickshank and Darrell Napier defeated Bob Barnett and Gene Larkin, of Chevy Chase, 2 up.

YANKS TAKE TITLE IN 4 STRAIGHT

19-Hit Attack Puts Cubs to Rout by 13-6 Score.

nings, accounting for two unearned runs.

Today, for one brief inning, the Cubs usurped the slugging role that heretofore had been draped so becomingly on the shoulders of the redoubtable Yankees, and a four-run assault on Allen in the opening frame gave Chicago a commanding lead for the first time since the series started last Wednesday.

Allen Is Ineffective.

Allen, hero of the Yankee pennant campaign, with seventeen victories and four defeats, was a complete failure in his first world series effort, being routed off the mound in the first inning under a barrage of five hits that netted four runs and still left two on base when Wilcey Moore trudged to the mound.

Two were out, English was on third base and Stephenson on first as a result of singles when the Cubs gave the assembled 51,000 first cause to cheer. Frank Demaree, rookie center fielder, who was not supposed to hit right-handed pitching, slugged Allen's first pitch high into the left field bleachers for a home run to bring his two mates in ahead of him and deposit three runs to the Cubs' total.

The Cubs added another run before the inning was over when the nervous Crosetti permitted Grimm's roller to trickle through his legs, Grimm scoring on singles by Hartnett and Jurges before Moore put an end to the uprising by retiring Bush on a fly to Combs.

Neither of today's pitching nominees were able to last through the first inning as the clubs wheeled their guns into action in an early display of power. Guy Bush was rocked off the mound in the first in an attack that brought one Yankee run and a situation that was fraught with further possibilities.

The Yankees maintained their record of scoring in the first inning of every game of the series. Earl Combs led off with a single through the box and went to second on Joe Sewell's single to right. The extremely nervous Bush then hit Ruth on the shoulder to fill the bases with one out. Gehrig scored Combs with a long fly to center and when Bush filled the bases again, by walking Lazzeri, he was summarily yanked in favor of Grimm's youthful star, Warneke, who had suffered defeat in the second game.

Warneke Retires Side.

Warneke retired the side without further damage but with two out in the third he fell on evil ways. Gehrig slashed a double into left and Lazzeri connected for the first of his homers, a towering fly into right that cut the Cubs' lead to 4-3.

Thus the situation remained until the sixth when the Yankees rose once more in their might to take a 5-4 lead with a two-run assault, but Warneke had vanished from the game in the fourth when he permitted puerile Wilcey Moore to lead off the fourth with a clean single over second, and then walked Combs. Jakie May quelled this threat, slipping over a third strike on Ruth, but he was the victim in the sixth.

A pass to Combs with one out put the tying Yankee run on base and it was across the plate a moment later when Sewell dropped a double into center. May drew the cheers of the stadium populace by then fanning Ruth for the second time, but his moment of glory was short lived, for Gehrig promptly singled into center to drive Sewell home with the run that would have stood for the winning margin if the Yankees had not permitted the Cubs to score a gift tally in the ninth.

Against the deceptive sinker of Wilcey Moore, wise in the ways of the pitching mound, the Cubs were helpless after the first inning, Grimm's double in the third being the only safe blow until Moore was extracted from the game in the sixth amid a mild uprising that tied the score with an unearned Cub run.

Gehrig's overthrow of first after fielding a hit by Grimm down the first base line, put the Cub manager on second and when Crosetti, the series chief offender in the field, threw Hartnett's grounder into the Yankee dugout Grimm scored perfunctorily under the ground rules that gave him two bases on the play, deadlocking the game at 5-5.

The Yankees won the ball game in the seventh inning in a five-run assault against May, the only left hander on the Cubs' staff, who had been having fair success, comparatively, in disposing of New York's big guns.

Bill Dickey touched off the fuse of this conclusive Yankee attack by beating out a hit to Grimm. Chapman filed to Stephenson, but Crosetti pounded a double to center. Manager McCarthy inserted Ruffing to pinch hit for Moore and May was instructed to walk him intentionally to set the stage for a possible double play that would end the inning.

Earl Combs became the hero of the moment. He dropped a Texas Leaguer down the left field line that the Cubs protested long and loudly had struck foul, but to no avail. A fatal pause by Stephenson and Jurges permitted the ball to drop between them. Dickey scored on the play and the bases were still full when Sewell rapped a single into right, driving home Crosetti and Ruffing. Ruth scored Combs with his only hit of the game, a single into right, and the bases were full for the third time when May hit Gehrig on the leg. It was the finish of May and Bud Tinning disposed of the last two batters.

The score was now 9 to 5 in favor of the Yankees, but McCarthy's men were not yet through. Against Burleigh Grimes in the ninth, Earl Combs led off with a line home run into right field. Tony Lazzeri larruped a prodigious drive into the left center field bleachers, and Ben Chapman clouted the ball against the left field fence only a few feet shy of the third homer of the inning as the Yankees celebrated their last appearance of the 1932 series with a flourish that netted four additional but highly superfluous runs.

The Cubs went down to an inglorious finish against the slow stuff of Pennock in the last three innings, gleaning only two hits and a gift run in the ninth when the Yankees permitted Herman to go first to second and then to third unmolested. He scored on weak infield out by English. But the game had been won—and lost—innings ago.

BALLANTINE SCORES LAND BANKS CRITIC

Says Utmost Consideration Has Been Accorded Delinquent Borrowers.

(Associated Press.)

Arthur A. Ballantine, Acting Secretary of the Treasury, issued a statement last night saying the Federal Land Banks have "dealt with delinquent borrowers with the utmost consideration."

The statement said:

"The attention of the Treasury has been called to a statement issued October 1, by the Democratic national committee, in which Congressman Steagall, of Alabama, is quoted as saying that the administration of

THE League of Nations is broke. That makes it unanimous. It seems that many members of the organization devoted to international honor are not paying their dues!

The situation is so desperate that the league may have to let the next world war develop without its assistance.

Germany is among the delinquent members. Her position is excusable. She thought she was a guest member. Practically all the South American members have failed to remit. They say the fairways are terrible and that the club isn't worth the money with the putting greens in their present condition.

The league can't meet its pay roll, according to cables from Geneva. But who can?

Things are so bad in Geneva that some of the league officers may even have to go to work for a living this winter. The only ray of hope is offered through a rumor that Will Rogers has offered the league a large sum of money just for the picture rights.

• • • •

The curious thing about it is that the United States, which is not a member, hasn't yet been asked to lend the other members the money to continue in good standing.

• • • •

It must be an oversight.

• • • •

Irony would hit a new high for the year if the league got so short of money that it had to go into bankruptcy and then found that the receiver was a man named Hohenzollern.

• • • •

According to latest information, the league hasn't been taking in enough to cover the overhead. Business was pretty good back in the prosperous times when any nation felt that it could afford a war or two each season and was always threatening to make whoopee.

• • • •

Membership in the league was a sort of insurance under conditions when everybody felt prosperous and domineering. But today it's something else again. No country has enough ready cash to start a war.

• • • •

It couldn't even pay for printing the ultimatums.

No high-pressure salesman could sell anybody a war today, even at cut rates and with the usual deferred payments.

• • • •

Consequently, the league has lost its box-office appeal. The very same members who were so jumpy a few years ago that they paid their dues a year in advance, and who would pay double if they heard a tire explode behind them, are now treating the club as if it were just a sick benefit society in a doctors' college.

• • • •

It's all very sad. But let's not be too pessimistic about the league as a long pull investment. When the world gets prosperous enough to be belligerent again things will pick up.

IT SOUNDS THAT WAY.

"Fish Talks With Hoover."—New York Herald Tribune headline.

• • • •

DO YOU REMEMBER

away back when people used to pay $20 for a single photograph?

"N. Y. Dairymen Threaten Strike."—headline. If they do they'll stay out, obviously, until the cows come home.

OR SOMETHING LIKE THAT.

The Garble Sisters are all mixed up again. All they can make of that lottery trial is that somebody won Senator J. J. Davis at a Moose ball and is now suing to get the money back.

CHARLES WINNINGER, "Captain Andy" of Ziegfeld "Show Boat" fame; Jules Bledsoe, celebrated Negro barytone, from the same show; the Hall Johnson Choir from "Green Pastures;" Lanny Ross, radio tenor; Mebel Jackson, soprano; Annette Hanshaw, singer; January and Molasses, black-faced comics; Don Voorhees and his orchestra and a dramatic cast of ten, are in rehearsal for a weekly series of full-hour "Show Boat" programs beginning next Thursday night.

The Three X Sisters, harmonizers recently arrived from London (WMAL, 7:30 p. m.).

DR. GEORGE OTIS SMITH, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, "America's Power Problems," National Radio Forum (WRC, 8:30 p. m.).

"Johnny Hart in Hollywood," a new series (WJZ, 7:45 p. m.).

Washington will be given the goby in the Democratic campaign speech of former Senator Jim Reed, of Missouri (8:30 p. m., Stations WEEI, WTIC and WOR.).

The D. C. Federation of Churches will conduct morning devotions on WMAL beginning at 8:15 this morning. The Rev. Harvey Baker Smith, of Columbia Heights Christian Church, will speak.

MRS. HELEN TURLEY, well-known Washington singer, beginning tonight, will broadcast every Monday evening over Station WMAL at 7:15 o'clock. Mrs. Chester Adair, pianist, will be the accompanist.

Premier of Charles Wakefield Cadman's first radio opera, "The Willow Tree" (WRC, 10:30 p. m.).

Ralph Kirbery, Dream Singer, usually arranges his midnight programs a few minutes before going on the air. He scans his mail, selects a few request numbers and is then ready to broadcast.

One of Mario Chamlee's best friends is Gen. Pershing, with whom he became acquainted back in 1915 on the Mexican border. Impressed with the young singer's talent, Pershing promised that if Chamlee ever sang in Paris, he would be there to cheer him. In 1929 when Chamlee made his debut at the Paris Opera, the general kept his promise.

DOROTHY STONE, dancing star, interviewed in Catherine MacKenzie programs (WABC, 10:15 a. m.) . . . Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation; George Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Robert Isham Randolph, head of Chicago's "Secret Six," at the launching of the new Grace liner, Santa Lucia (WJZ, 10:30 a. m.) . . . Walter Timme, of the New York Neurological Institute, "The Internal Glandular System as a Factor in Efficiency" (WMAL, 11:30 a. m.) . . . "Germany's Right to Arm," Dr. C. R. Hennings, in the National Student Federation of America series (WMAL, 2 p. m.) . . . Bridge expert, Madeline Kerwin, tonight (WJZ, 6 o'clock) . . . Irene Beasley, "long, tall gal from Dixie," will headline a new series (WMAL, 6 p. m.) . . . "Prohibition Reform," campaign speech. . . . The "Parade of the States" reaches Montana (WRC, 9:30 p. m.).

SUCCESS already attained in England with a "pocket portable" radio set, O. H. Caldwell, former radio commissioner, believes. Indicates that an interesting market might be opened up on this side of the water for a tiny set weighing a pound or so, and capable of giving "one-man service."

A novel factor is a call bell to attract the attention of the wearer. The antenna is worn in the back of the coat.

Graham Addresses Bar Group Tonight

Judge Will Be Speaker at Session of Federal Association.

Judge William J. Graham, of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, will be chief speaker tonight before the first fall meeting of the Federal Bar Association at the new Commerce Building. He will outline the functions of his judicial branch.

Reports from chairmen of various committees of the association will be given. A number of matters of interest are expected to be discussed.

The executive council of the association has announced it will give a dinner on October 11 in honor of the attorneys general of the States who will attend the 26th annual meeting here of the Association of Attorneys General.

REHEARSALS NEAR FOR HARVEST FETE

To Be Held Tomorrow and Thursday for "Vision of George Washington."

In preparation for the presentation of the harvest pageant festival, "The Vision of George Washington," a Bicentennial event to be held October 11, 12 and 13 at the Washington Monument, group rehearsals will be held tomorrow and Thursday evening in Central High School auditorium and outdoor rehearsals will begin Friday at the Sylvan Theater.

The first episode, "The Early Harvest in New England," is under the direction of Miss Mabel Van Dyke with participants from the Pierce Hall Players, All Souls Unitarian Church, the National Woman's Party, the Estelle Wentworth Chorus, the Salvation Army Scouts and the Southwest Citizens Association.

"Harvest in the Colonial South," the second episode, will be presented by Henry D. Spengler, of the American Legion, with Mrs. J. Jerome Lightfoot as chairman, assisted by a group of players from the Southern Society, girls and boys from Neighborhood House, members of the Riding and Hunt Club, the Helen Stuart Griffith Dancers, and students from Cardoza and Armstrong High Schools.

Tickets for the festival will be on sale today at the headquarters of the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission in the National Press Building. There will be a limited number of box seats and grandstands will be erected at the base of the Monument slope.

Man Evicted From Jail On Orders From Court

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 2 (U.P.).—Bert Allen, 21, had to be thrown out of jail today although he insisted that he was enjoying cell life. Committed on charges of not supporting his wife, Allen was brought before Judge Joseph Corio for a new hearing.

"Suppose I set you free, would you look for a job?" the court asked.

"I would just as soon stay where I am," Allen replied. "I am living the life of Riley in jail."

The court directed that Allen be ejected from the jail immediately.

Post Model Home Attracts Interest

Large Crowds Visit House to See Remarkable Offering.

The rapidity of sales of homes on the east side of the 3700 block of Third place northwest, being presented by Boss & Phelps, their owners and builders, is redoubling interest on the part of the public in these remarkable offerings in substantial, convenient and artistic residential construction.

Following the announcement of the speedy disposal of five of these twelve group homes, the first fine October Sunday revealed a steady line of prospective homeseekers en route to these attractive houses. Crowds at 3727 Third place northwest, the display dwelling, sponsored by The Washington Post and furnished by Hutchison's, Inc., were particularly large.

This home will be open for inspection daily from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9:30 o'clock in the evening. To reach the home from Sixteenth street or Georgia avenue northwest, drive east on Longfellow street to Fifth street northwest, then north to Nicholson street northwest and east to the group, or take Fourteenth street cars marked Takoma to Third and Nicholson streets and walk a half block to the property.

Chicago Land Bank Receiver Is Named

Mills and Farm Board Members Are Cited as Defendants in Suit.

Chicago, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—At the time a suit was being filed here in Federal Court yesterday asking appointment of a receiver for the inoperative Chicago Joint Stock Loan Bank, A. C. Williams, acting commissioner of the Farm Loan Board, announced the appointment of John B. Gallagher, of Chicago, as the receiver.

Gallagher expressed surprise at the court petition, saying he knew of no reason for the bill. He will take charge of the bank's affairs immediately.

The petition named members of the Farm Board and Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, as defendants. It estimated the bank's liabilities at $45,000,000 and actual assets at $27,000,000. Filed by a creditor, the petition asked liquidation of assets. The board took action after the bank advised it was unable to meet interest due today on bond obligations.

"The condition of the bank was such," said Williams, "that the directors found it necessary to suspend operations."

The bank was organized in 1917. Its statement showed outstanding bonds of $42,724,100 at the close of business on September 30.

Former Kaiser Ends His Seaside Holiday

Zandvoort, the Netherlands, Oct. 2 (A.P.).—Former Kaiser Wilhelm ended his seaside holiday today, leaving by automobile for Doorn, where, as usual, he will spend the winter.

A police constable charged with guarding the former monarch seemed to have had a dull job, for in his official report he said: "I never noticed anything in particular worth mentioning."

VICTIMS OF HOLDUP MEN ARE INJURED IN WAVE OF ROBBERIES

Two Obtain Treatment at Hospital; Houses and Autos Plundered.

Several persons were injured by hold-up men in six robberies reported yesterday, and merchandise valued at about $1,500 was stolen in a number of housebreakings and thefts from parked automobiles.

Louis Pappas, 64, a pushcart peddler who lives at 219 Third street northwest, was in an undetermined condition at Emergency Hospital from injuries suffered when an unknown assailant struck him over the head in an attempt to rob him in a garage in the rear of 1338 L street northwest.

Well-Dressed Outlaw.

A $500 jewelry theft was reported by William Love, who said that thieves entered his home at 3601 Warren street northwest yesterday by breaking the glass in the front door and stole a quantity of jewels.

George A. Royston, 53, of Marshall, Va., was assaulted and robbed of $130 by a well-dressed man who engaged him in conversation at Thirteenth and F street northwest early yesterday morning and then suddenly struck him across the forehead several times with a sharp instrument. Royston was treated at Emergency Hospital for lacerations of the scalp.

Parked Autos Robbed.

Several colored men reported that they had been victimized by robbers who assaulted them and then robbed them of sums of money. "Willie" Brown, colored, 24, of High Point, N. C., was injured and robbed of $62 by three colored men who attacked him.

Jewelry valued at $200 and $120 in cash was stolen by thieves who entered the home of Jacob Levin, of 3017 Georgia avenue, yesterday. A taxicab hold-up and a number of thefts from parked automobiles were reported to police.

Man Burned in Escape From Flaming Dwelling

Harry Berrang, 56, of 714 N street northwest, received second degree burns last night when he was attempting to escape from a burning house at 824 Twelfth street northwest.

Berrang told attendants at Emergency Hospital, where he was taken by the fire rescue squad, that he had felt sick and had gone in the house, a vacant one, to rest. He fell asleep and was awakened by the fire. He was burned while climbing through a window.

3-Year-Old Girl Hurt In Fall From Window

Three-year-old Marie Craven, of 3528 Eleventh street northwest, suffered minor lacerations to the head yesterday afternoon when she fell from a first-story window of her home, striking her head on a cement coping below.

The child was taken to Children's Hospital by her father, Leo A. Craven.

Oldest Inhabitants of Capital's Zoo File Protest Against Paucity of Publicity About Them, So ——

Here are some of the oldest inhabitants in the local Zoo. In the top left corner is an American bison, a resident for 25 years. Below him is a tortoise, 34 years. Center is the dean of them all, the sulphur crested cockatoo, brought to the Zoo when it started, 42 years ago. On the right, an ostrich, 28 years, and lower right, Old Ben, the Bengal tiger, 17 years.

Sulphur-Crested Cockatoo, Resident for 42 Years, Leads Chorus; Many Other Visitors From Wilds Have Been Guests for Decades.

"It's about time," the sulphur-crested cockatoo at the Zoo remarked to the bald eagle yesterday, "that something was said about us. I've been here for 42 years, ever since the Zoo started, and no fuss was ever made over me."

"It's this younger generation," the bald eagle opined. "They get all the attention. Every time a new animal arrives here there's a big story in the newspapers, but I can't remember when anything has been written about us."

"I'm going to talk to that reporter about it the next time he comes by," decided the cockatoo.

The cockatoo carried out his determination, and that's how this story happened to be written.

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the Zoo, agrees that of all the animals there none receives less attention and deserves more than the old-timer. There are about 50 animals which can be classed as oldest inhabitants, the Zoo director said, and they range in size from a common canary, which has been in the Zoo for thirteen years, to Jumbina, the elephant, a resident for twenty years.

The cockatoo is the dean of the old inhabitants. He was brought to the Zoo from the Smithsonian Institution by William H. Blackburn, together with about 125 other animals, all of which have now died. Two roseate cockatoos have been at the Zoo for 29 years.

The bald eagle, which echoed the discontent of the cockatoo, has been a zoo resident for 33 years. He is closely followed by a Colorado condor, the largest American bird, which has been there for 32 years. Other old residents in this family are a sea eagle, which registered 20 years ago, and a griffin which arrived 23 years ago.

The second oldest residents are two giant tortoises from the Galapagos Islands. They have been in the zoo 34 years. The brown pelican, with a residence of 32 years, follows the bald eagle. Other veterans in the bird family include the vasa parrots from Madagascar, 25 years; the Australian emus, 28 years; an Australian crane, 27 years; an Indian white crane, 25 years; a laughing gull, 22 years; a European white pelican, 28 years; a sacred ibis, 28 years, and a white-fronted goose, 23 years.

Despite the complaint of the cockatoo and the bald eagle, there are a number of old inhabitants that receive a great deal of attention. The two polar bears have been in Washington for most of this century. One of the bears was brought here in 1901, and the other arrived in 1905. Old Ben, the Bengal tiger, has been a resident for 17 years. "Frenchie," the drill monkey, for 20; Soko, the chimpanzee, for nearly 17, and the hippopotamus, for 20.

Of these favorites, Dr. Mann is particularly proud of Soko, who is 20 years old, almost the limit of life for a chimpanzee. He is equally proud of a chacma babboon who has lived outdoors for 20 years.

Three other bears are well up in the old age class. An American black bear first enjoyed the cool depths of Rock Creek Park 18 years ago, while a Kidder's bear and an Alaska brown became residents 24 years ago.

One of the oldest residents is an American bison brought to Washington 25 years ago. A dromedary has been enjoying the hospitality of the Government for 18 years; a Japanese deer for 23 years, a red deer for 16, a Burmese for 12, a Duke of Bedford for 15 and a fallow for 14.

Other patriarchs are a Nilgal antelope, 14 years; a tahr goat, 19; an Indian buffalo, 13, and an Australian long neck turtle, presented to the Zoo by Dr. Mann, 15 years.

Returning to the bird family are found, Australian crows with a residence of 16 years; spice finches, 14; New Zealand weka, 13; wood pigeon, 12; zebra dove, 15; black swan, nearly 14 years; cackling goose, 16, and an Australian wedge tail, 15.

Reptiles have no representatives in the old timers club. Before the new reptile house was built, the Zoo housed snakes in what Dr. Mann describes as "cheese boxes," and their lives were short. Nevertheless, an Anaconda broke an all-time record, living in his "cheese box" for 28 years. A record was also made by a gila monster with a span of 19 years.

THOUSANDS ATTEND FIRST BIBLE DRAMA AT SYLVAN THEATER

Two Score Church Players of Many Denominations Give Story of Ruth.

The Story of Ruth, the first Bible drama ever presented at the Sylvan Theater, was seen yesterday afternoon by an audience of several thousand persons gathered on the hillside below the Washington Monument.

The immortal romance, arranged for the occasion by Bess Davis Schreiner, was accompanied by music sung by a vested chorus. A vesper service of prayer and evening hymns preceded the drama.

Brilliant Costuming.

Brilliant costuming and sincere acting were outstanding characteristics of the presentation. The part of Boaz was played by Thomas M. Cahill. Helen Burton appeared as Naomi and Nina Norman as Ruth. More than 40 church players from many denominations and various sections of the city constituted the remainder of the cast.

Choirs from Douglas Memorial M. E. Church and Luther Place Memorial Church, conducted by Miss Estelle Wentworth, sang the music of both the service and the drama. The choir was assisted by a male quartet. Mrs. Cornelia L. Kinsella accompanied the singers.

Officiating Clergymen.

Officiating clergymen at the vesper service were the Rev. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches; the Rev. H. H. D. Sterrett, the Rev. Charles Enders, and the Rev. Allen A Stockdale, who spoke the prologue to the drama.

The Bible story and service were presented by the committee on religious drama and pageantry of the Federation of Churches. Mrs. Elizabeth Gatlin directed the Story of Ruth, assisted by various members of the committee. Success of the presentation will probably lead to other services and Bible dramas in the future, it was announced.

Conference Held By Girl Reserves

3,000 From District Meet at Vacation Lodge in Cherrydale.

The senior high school girls of the District of Columbia, representing the girl reserves of the Y. W. C. A., numbering more than 3,000, held their fall setting-up conference at Vacation Lodge, in Cherrydale, Arlington County, yesterday. Miss Margaret Graves, president at Central High School and president of the Girls Reserve Council, presided.

The meeting opened at 10:30 a. m. with a discussion by Mrs. Wilson Compton, which included the answering of a series of questions dealing with girl life.

In the afternoon groups formed and hiked through the wooded section of the county and toward the river shores. Plans later were formulated for the publicity campaign, which opens today.

Two Women Injured As Two Cars Collide

Two women were injured last night when the automobile of Charles Mulitz, 44, of 2717 Woodley place northwest, was in collision with the machine of James A. Faris, 42, of 1601 Argonne place northwest, at Seventeenth street and Lanier place.

Mrs. Phoebe Faris, wife of the driver of one machine, was treated at Emergency Hospital for a fractured nose and lacerations to the face. Miss Rose Krueoff, 25, of the Woodley place address, who was riding with Mulitz, suffered slight lacerations and bruises. Neither driver was injured.

Messenger Boy Is Hurt In Fall From Bicycle

Rex Cain, 18-year-old Western Union messenger boy, of 406 G street northwest, suffered a possible concussion of the brain last night when the front forks of his bicycle buckled, pitching him over the handle bars onto the street in front of 1113 Maryland avenue northeast.

He was found lying in the street in a semiconscious condition by Policeman J. F. Ryan of the Ninth Precinct. Ryan summoned a Casualty Hospital ambulance and the boy was removed to the hospital where he was admitted.

Central P.-T.A. Scans Fund Plans

Association, at First Session of Year Tonight, to Inspect Building.

A proposal to set aside 30 per cent or all dues for the student loan fund and 30 per cent for extra-curricular activities will be considered tonight by the Parent-Teacher Association of Central High School.

The largest group of its type in the city and the third largest in the Nation, the Central High organization will gather for its first meeting of the year tonight at the school.

Classrooms, shops, gymnasia and laboratories will be thrown open at 7:45 for the inspection of the parent-teacher association. Officials of the organization have made a strong appeal for more parents to interest themselves in the work of the group.

Last year the association numbered 1,146 members, but the leaders believe that with nearly 3,000 pupils enrolled at Central High there is still much ground to be gained along membership lines.

Colored Leaders Club Guests.

A number of prominent Negro leaders who came to Washington to attend the conference of the National Republican Advisory Campaign at the White House, will be guests at a series of meetings to be held every night this week until Friday, by the Mu-So-Lit Club at 1327 R street northwest. It was also announced that Dr. R. B. Pearson a member of the club has been named game captain for the National Bridge Olympics, October 19, by the National Bridge Association.

Cash Chases Woman With Titian Locks

An attractive, red-haired woman is being sought by local police to inform her that there is $2,800 on deposit awaiting her at a New York bank. A representative of the banking institution asked that a lookout be broadcast for Carolyn Fisher, who has been living in Washington.

A description sent out yesterday read that she was very attractive, slender, 5 feet tall and having red hair. She has a son 16 years old.

MGR. RYAN SPEAKS ON RADIO PROGRAM

States Education Is Primary Need Which Church Can Not Forswear.

Religion and education were surveyed and given their respective positions in the American system of education by the Right Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of Catholic University, speaking on the Church of the Air program of the Columbia Broadcasting System yesterday from a Chicago station.

The musical portion of the program was furnished by a double octet from the Glee Club of Catholic University, under direction of Dr. Leo Behrendt. This part of the program was broadcast from Washington.

In his talk, Dr. Ryan said in part:

"What should be the relations between education and religion in America? This is a practical question which can be determined only if we are willing honestly to face the facts and reasonably to attempt a balance of the claims of both the state and the church. The church has a philosophy of life. As an organization, she is committed by her founder to the propagation of certain beliefs and practices. If this be so, and the church firmly believes it to be her mission, then she can not but use every means within her power to further these principles and ideals.

"For the church, the school is a primary fundamental need which she can not forswear under any circumstances. The state, on its side, must teach. It is largely responsible for the training of its citizens in the ideals which underlie Democratic existence and in preparing them for the duties and obligations of life in a democracy. The state, by its schools, must seek the welfare both of the body social and of the individual. How it is to do this effectively, it alone must and can determine. In the process, however, the state (I am speaking of a democracy) must never forget that the welfare of the individual is supreme, that man does not live by bread alone, that religion is as much a part of life as science, literature, art, or citizenship, and that, therefore, to the church there must be left a clearly defined section of the educational field for spiritual, ethical and religious development which she is called upon to cultivate.

"If some such principles as these are recognized, a sound and workable systematization of the relations of church to state in the field of education can be effected. This is not mere theory or pious aspiration. A number of modern states have approached the problem in the right spirit and with full knowledge of all the facts and principles involved, and have worked out a solution. The results have been altogether beneficial for the state, for the church, for the welfare of the people, and for the continued existence and progress of democracy."

Fewer Children In Day Nurseries

Decrease of 13 Per Cent Is Shown in Reports From 108 Agencies.

Reports from 108 agencies in 26 metropolitan areas received by the Children's Bureau show that many parents and have ceased to send their children to day nurseries.

For the first five months of this year the average number of children cared for was 4,766 as compared with 5,469 for the first five months of last year, a drop of 13 per cent. In 1929, 5,746 children were cared for in the day nurseries reported by the agencies; in 1930 there was a decline to 5,592 and in 1931 the monthly average fell to 5,152.

There is less dependence on day nurseries, the Children's Bureau believes, because fewer mothers are employed, and because in cases where mothers are employed some relative or friend without a job cares for the children.

Young Democrats to Rally.

Members of the Young Democratic Club of Washington will hold an open forum rally at the Women's National Democratic Club, 1526 New Hampshire avenue, at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The floor will be open for five-minute talks on any subject a speaker may care to take.

SAFETY CONGRESS TO CONVENE TODAY FOR 4-DAY SESSION

4,000 Delegates Are Here to Attend; Entertainment Program Arranged.

The twenty-first annual Safety Congress and Exposition which convenes here this week at Wardman Park and Shoreham Hotels will officially open this morning in the theater of the Wardman Park with invocation by the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, president of Georgetown University.

It was estimated yesterday that more than 4,000 delegates from almost every State in the Union are in the city to attend the exposition.

During the week there will be numerous sessions on the various phases of public safety, and entertainments will be held each night, climaxed by a grand ball and frolic Thursday night.

Addresses Are Arranged.

This afternoon the street and highway traffic safety section of the council will meet at the Wardman Park at which addresses on the subject will be delivered by Lewis W. McIntyre, traffic engineer of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Morris S. Viteles, assistant professor of psychology of the University of Pennsylvania.

Tomorrow afternoon the delegates will be conducted on a three-hour bus tour to observe the operation of Washington's elaborate system of traffic control signals.

This evening there will be a reception and dance in the gold room of the Wardman Park in honor of C. W. Berquist, president of the council.

Safety Exhibition.

Finishing touches are being put on the safety exhibition of the congress which will fill the large display hall at Wardman Park with almost every known type of accident prevention apparatus.

The National Safety Council, which is sponsoring the congress, has an active membership of about 5,000 in the United States and more than 500 in 24 foreign countries. The council has recently completed a survey of cause underlying the 33,000 death toll of automobiles annually and will submit a balanced program for the reduction of traffic accidents to the general meeting.

'Prosperity Bond' Drive Planned by Democrats

Subcommittees of Democratic workers will soon begin an intensive canvass to sell the "gold prosperity bonds," through which subscriptions will be made to the war chest of the Democratic party, it was announced yesterday by E. Roy Lewis, executive secretary of the Democratic central committee.

A meeting was held yesterday at the central committee headquarters, 1320 G street northwest, at which plans for the canvass were discussed.

CLOSING OF CATHOLIC TRIDUUM IS PLANNED

Roses to Be Blessed and Given to Congregations at 2 Churches Tonight.

Roses will be blessed and distributed to every member of the congregation at the Church of the Immaculate Conception and at the Carmelite Monastery at 150 Rhode Island avenue northeast tonight at the closing services of the Triduum in honor of St. Teresa, known generally as "The Little Flower."

The roses are symbolic of "The Shower of Roses" which St. Teresa, on her deathbed, promised to send from heaven upon those who invoke her intercession. Church authorities explain that "The Shower of Roses" signifies great spiritual and temporal benefit which the saint procures for her devotees especially on feast days.

The Carmelite Father Paschasius will deliver the discourse at the service at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. There will be a solemn procession made up of 65 girls in white dresses and blue capes, ten friars of the Atonement in their brown habits, and twenty sanctuary boys in red and blue cassocks.

The boys' sanctuary choir and the senior choir, with Miss Florence Yocum, soprano, as soloist, will be under the direction of Harry Wheaton Howard, organist. The service will be concluded with solemn benediction. The Rev. J. Francis Hurney, pastor of the church, will be celebrant. The noon mass today will be followed by triduum prayers and a five-minute sermon by Father Paschasius.

The evening service will be held at 7:45 p. m.

"The Little Flower" was the subject of the discourse of the Rev. Thomas Ryder, eminent Paulist preacher, on the Washington Catholic Radio Hour, broadcast yesterday from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, through Station WOL.

Father Ryder stressed the fact that the amazing world-wide devotion to St. Teresa is due to the fact that she was extremely human. She died in 1879 and was canonized in 1925. Her sister, who is living, is a member of a religious community in France. Biographies of "The Little Flower" have been translated into 100 languages.

The radio service included the blessing of the sick at the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes in the church. The Rev. S. A. Czyz was celebrant at benediction. Father Hurney presided at the service. The music was under the direction of Mr. Howard, and included as soloists Miss Yocum, Fred Nolan and Ann Arlen.

Hackers Safest Drivers, Survey of Traffic Reveals

Van Duzer Says If Their Tendency to Recklessness Could Be Curbed They Would Be Eliminated as Hazard; Figure in Few Accidents.

Taxi!

That's the cry that will bring you safety in vehicular transportation if statistics and the personal observations of traffic experts mean anything.

The keen-eyed cowboy of the asphalt plains who has supplanted in the public eye the old-time plug hatted hacker is the man you needn't fear when you cross the street on foot or chug along in your roadster, in the opinion of William A. Van Duzer, traffic director of the District.

Backing up his conclusions, Mr. Van Duzer cites a survey made by the National Safety Council which will be presented to the twenty-first annual Safety Congress which meets here today. This report tends to show that the commercial vehicle operator, headed by the taxi driver, figures in fewer accidents than the private operator.

Discussing taxi drivers, Mr. Van Duzer declared:

"If we can curb the cab driver's tendency to recklessness, and keep him from driving his cab too near either the right side or the middle of the street, we can eliminate him almost entirely as a traffic hazard."

Van Duzer pointed out that the cab operator's leaning toward reckless driving is born of his confidence of being able to guide his machine expertly through the mazes of traffic. Impatience also motivates the hacker to attempt to edge along the left side of a traffic laden street, he said.

But, all in all, declares Mr. Van Duzer, for safety's sake he would trust the taxi driver far above others.

Just as a carpenter can drive a nail with deadly accuracy because of his long hours of doing so, so can the taxi driver whizz in and out of traffic with safety to passengers, to other machines and to pedestrans, believes the traffic director.

Long hours of watching the pavements for fares, the movements of rival hackers and the synchronous movements of traffic have put the average hacker in such a pitch as to make his driving hawklike in comparison to the private driver, who generally drives only a few miles a day, said Mr. Van Duzer.

Capitol Heights Constable Seized on Liquor Charges

Earl Blackwell, 44 years old, constable at Capitol Heights, Md., was arrested last night by Federal prohibition agents from Washington and Baltimore on charges of selling liquor following an investigation which extended over two months, according to the agents.

Blackwell, according to the agents, was wearing his badge and revolver and cartridge belt at the time of the arrest. He was arrested in his office at his home.

The agents said they bought two pints of whisky from the constable last night and then placed him under arrest. During the course of the past two months a number of other sales had been made, ranging from a pint to half a gallon, the agents said.

Blackwell was taken to the Southern Police Station in Baltimore, where he was held under $1,6[illegible] bail on charges of sale and possession.

Blackwell took part in a sensational raid in the Capitol Heights section ten days ago in which 300 gallons of liquor were seized.

He has been a constable at Capitol Heights for the past seven years, and has served 22 years as a law agent in various parts of the country, he told police. He was a Texas ranger and a policeman in Oklahoma for several years, he said.

Driver in Crash Accused Of Reckless Operation

Wilbur Clay, colored, 29, Ballston, Va., was arrested on charges of reckless driving by Third Precinct police last night after a machine he was operating was in collision with a car driven by Miss Marietta Wallace, 27, of 6105 Fourth street northwest, on the Arlington Memorial Bridge.

Miss Wallace and William Wallace, 55, also of the Fourth street address were treated at the Emergency Hospital for minor cuts and bruises sustained in the collision.

RAIL SAFETY PARLEY TO OPEN TOMORROW

Prominent Road and Federal Officials Will Address Convention Here.

Officers in charge of safety work on the railroads of the United States, Canada and Mexico, will begin arriving in Washington today for the twelfth annual meeting of the safety section of the American Railway Association which opens tomorrow at the Washington Hotel.

The safety section is one of the largest divisions of the American Railway Association. In 1931 the railroads of this country established an unprecedented safety record, both as to passengers and employes. Means of bringing about still greater improvements will be discussed at the meeting.

Railroad crossing fatalities reached their peak in 1928, but since that time there has been a reduction each year in such accidents. Railroad officials hope that in cooperation with the public a still further improvement in this situation may be brought about.

Among the speakers at the convention will be R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association; Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, W. P. Borland, director of the bureau of safety of the Interstate Commerce Commission; Dr. M. O. Lorenz, director of the bureau of statistics, Interstate Commerce Commission; Lew R. Palmer, conservation engineer, Equitable Life Assurance Co., and Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age.

C. T. Bailey, of Salt Lake City, Utah, chief safety agent of the Oregon Short Line Railroad, is chairman of the safety section and will preside over the convention.

3 Children Are Injured When Auto Hits Tree

The three children of Harold T. Branch, 36, of Cheverly, Md., were injured yesterday when their father turned around to talk to them and the automobile which he was operating crashed into a tree in the 300 block of Anatcostia road southeast.

Taken to Casualty Hospital, the children were treated for lacerations and bruises. Patricia, 5, suffered the most serious injuries, being treated for a concussion of the brain. Robert, 1, and David, 9, were discharged after first-aid treatment. Their father escaped injury.
